MITCHEL WINS IN COURT, BUT LOSES BROOKLYN VOTES

Gets Order for Recount, Which Will Be Started This Afternoon.

TO TAKE AT LEAST 2 WEEKS

Mayor's Supporters Believe Result Will Be a Four-Cornered Fight.

PRIMARY LEAD IS NOW 392

Errors in Brooklyn and Richmond Give Bennett a Net Gain of 203 Votes in One Day.

While an agreement was being reached before Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan yesterday by the Mitchel-Bennett forces regarding the procedure for a recount of the ballots cast in the Republican Mayoralty primary last Wednesday, the official count filed at the Board of Elections of the vote cast in Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx, and Richmond Counties had reduced Mayor Mitchel's majority from 595 to 392. The official Manhattan vote will be computed today. Each side asserted last night that the Manhattan figures would show a majority for its candidate.

The largest discrepancy between the figures of the police count on the night of the primary and the official count yesterday was shown in Brooklyn. The official count in that borough gave William M. Bennett 201 more votes than were credited to him by the police. The total vote of the borough now stands as follows: Bennett, 20,588; Mitchel, 13,401, a lead of 7,187 for Bennett. Bennett on the official count also gained 9 votes in Richmond. To offset the Bennett gains, it was discovered that as a result of errors, Mayor Mitchel was entitled to one more vote in Queens and six in the Bronx. This made a gain for Mitchel of 7 votes and 210 for Bennett, giving Bennett a net gain for the day of 203 votes, and reducing the Mayor's majority in the entire city to 392.

Mayor Mitchel's plan to have a recount of the Republican primary vote, which he began last Saturday night when he obtained an order from Justice Newburger to show cause why the Republican vote should not be recounted, met with complete success yesterday. After hearing arguments on both sides, and the Bennett forces agreed to the Mayor's demand, Justice Cohalan granted the order, and the recount will begin this afternoon. In the meantime the ballot boxes are being gathered from the various police stations throughout the city and will be stored in a city-owned building at 125-127 Centre Street.

When the recount is started this afternoon a clerk from the Board of Elections will read each ballot as it is drawn from the box, and counsel from the Mitchel and the Bennett sides will examine each ballot. A tally clerk will then enter the count. Under this arrangement it was predicted that the examination of all the ballots cast will be very slow, and the result may not be known for more than two weeks. Without figuring the time for interruptions on the part of counsel, it was said that not more than 100 ballot boxes would be examined in one day. There are 2,060 ballot boxes, one for each election district. Police Commissioner Woods conferred with President Edward F Boyle of the Board of Elections yesterday and agreed to give full police protection to the assembling of the ballot boxes at 125 Centre Street.

Did Not Oppose Mayor.

The Mayor's application for an inspection of the ballots was made by Abraham S. Gilbert, Chairman of the Law Committee of the Fusion Committee. Hamilton McInnes, attorney for Mr. Bennett said that his client was not only willing but anxious that the ballots should be examined. At the same time Theodore T. Baylor, on behalf of Mr. Bennett, filed an affidavit with the court complaining that the Mayor's application was not sufficiently broad and reserved his right to ask for a review of the primary when the official count had been completed. This affidavit read in part:

"The petition of John Purroy Mitchel asks only for examination of the ballots 'cast' at said election. Pursuant to Section 8 of the election law I desire an inspection of all the ballots upon which his and my names appear as candidates; that is to say, all the ballots in each and every box, whether cast, spoiled, defective, or unused. In connection with the examination of these ballots I also desire that the examination should include an inspection of the ballot clerks' returns, tally sheets, night slips, statement of result sheets, original signature books for registration and primary poll books containing the original signatures of those who voted at said primary."

After George P. Nicholson, Assistant Corporation Counsel, had stated that he appeared for the Board of Elections and that he did not oppose the Mayor's application, Justice Cohalan asked the opposing counsel to agree upon a form of order and present it for his signature later in the day. This was the final order agreed upon and accepted by Justice Cohalan:

At a Special Term of the Supreme Court of New York County, held at Part I. thereof at the County Court House, Borough of Manhattan, City

Germans Are Continuing Deportations of Belgians

HAVRE, Sept. 24.—The Belgian Government is advised, according to official announcement, that the Germans continue numerous deportations of men from Roulers, Menin, Wervico, and Warneton, sending them to forced labor on trench and fortification work behind the lines and in Germany.

MEANS ARRAIGNED ON MURDER CHARGE

Asks for Adjournment Until Today After the Prosecution Presents Its Case.

CHANGE OF MAGISTRATES

Defense Makes Request When Hearing Opens—His Counsel Appeals to Local Sentiment.

Special to The New York Times.

CONCORD, N. C., Sept. 24.—Gaston B. Means, his family, and his eight lawyers, who have made every effort to win over local and sectional prejudice to their side, because the prosecution is aided by New York and Chicago authorities, listened with increasing perplexity and concern while the great crowd of townsfolk, at the preliminary hearing today, threw the proceedings again and again into an uproar by their applause for smart retorts by witnesses for the prosecution.

Today's proceedings against Means, on the charge of murdering Mrs. Mary King, were a real test of public sentiment in Concord. Hitherto there have been only guarded discussions of the case on the streets of this small town, and those who believed that Means had something to do with the death of his benefactress have kept their opinions to themselves.

Since rumors of foul play in the death of Mrs. King first began to grow, the family and their friends have circulated the story that financial institutions and enemies of Gaston Means were conspiring against him and sought to make the community look upon the case as a simple question whether New York and Chicago should be allowed to come down South and domineer over Cabaruas County. In furtherance of this line of campaign, Means, who has stated that he still has $60,000 left from the wrecked $1,800,000 estate of Mrs. King, engaged a total of eight lawyers, comprising almost the entire bar of Concord and the vicinity.

E. T. Cansler, Sr., considered one of the best lawyers in the State, took the lead in the proceedings today. He overlooked no opportunity to drive home the geographical issue.

"New York," as he said it, was a masterpiece of elocution, full of distilled scorn.

During the morning session he had a good deal of success in his cross-examinations and took the edge from some of the prosecution's testimony, but in the afternoon the defense did not fare so well.

The first hard blows at the defense came from Charles Dry, a farmer, who lives about 300 yards from the spot where Mrs. King was killed. He testified that it was approximately 8:30, and "as dark as it was ever going to be," on the night of Aug. 29, when he heard the shot fired which killed Mrs. King. His testimony was introduced to destroy the story of Means that he had Mrs. King out for revolver target practice.

Handclapping Arouses Means Family.

Dry's bright replies, which were without a touch of flippancy, caused laughter several times at the beginning of the cross-examination. This did not please the defendant and his group, but it did not greatly worry them at first. Finally, after Dry had scored heavily, some one in the audience clapped his hands.

Brandon Means, the most powerful and pugnacious of the brothers, shot up from his seat in an instant and swept the court room with searching glare, seeking to identify the applauders. Gaston Means turned his head sharply and joined his brother's investigation. Two or three times there was more handclapping, and almost continuously the court room, including Justice Pitts, was laughing. When Dry left the stand there was quite a round of applause, and the Judge warned the court room.

But the heaviest blow was to come. Dr. Otto H. Schultze, the medical examiner for District Attorney Swann, who started under the double disadvantage of being a New Yorker and of being a medical expert, became the most popular witness of the day with the crowd. Hoping to gain some of the ground lost for the defense while Dry was on the stand, counsel for the defense set out to handle Dr. Schultze rather roughly.

In the intellectual fencing that followed Dr. Schultze was brilliantly successful. His retorts pleased the crowd as much as those of Dry, and again and again proceedings were stopped because the court room was in a roar. Handclapping came plentifully and the Justice issued another warning. But when Dr. Schultze finally left the stand and walked to his seat, nearly every man and woman in the audience began to clap hands or cheer, and kept it up until the physician was in his seat. After getting order by the vigorous use of his gavel, Justice Pitts said:

"If there is any more cheering or handclapping in this court room, I want the Sheriff to bring those doing it to me. Now don't do it any more."

E. T. Cansler, Sr., who had been examining Dr. Schultze, exclaimed to the Justice:

"Oh, let them go ahead. That's the way they went on when the Saviour was crucified."

Solicitor Clement, in charge of the prosecution, objected to the remark, but Mr. Cansler, shaking his head angrily, said:

"It's just the same thing."

Dr. Schultze on the Stand.

The prosecution rested its case with Dr. Schultze. The eight lawyers and the family of the defendant consulted during a brief adjournment, and then Judge Frank I. Osborne, a brother of James W. Osborne of New York, an-

STEEL PRICES CUT A HALF OR MORE FOR ALL ALIKE

President Approves Voluntary Agreement by Producers with War Industries Board.

$65 A TON FOR SHIP PLATES

Iron Ore, Pig Iron, and Coke Are Also Regulated—Wages Not to be Reduced.

NEW RATES SATISFY GARY

Priority Plan for Controlling Iron and Steel Is Announced by Lovett.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Prices which the United States, its allies and the public are to pay for steel products essential to the war program, after existing contracts expire, were approved today by President Wilson following the announcement of an agreement entered into on a voluntary basis by the steel interests and the War Industries Board.

The maximum figure allowed was $65 a net ton of 2,000 pounds for steel plates, which are needed in great quantities for shipbuilding. Steel bars will sell at $58 a ton and steel shapes at $60. The prices fixed by the agreement, according to an official statement, represent savings of from 47 to 70 per cent. over the highest prices which have recently been paid on private contracts.

Raw materials such as iron ore, coke, and pig iron necessary to the steel industry also were placed under control and, except in the case of iron ore, prices were lowered with a sweeping hand.

Coincident with the President's announcement, Judge Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Priority Board, issued a statement placing the distribution of iron and steel under absolute control by license. Preference will be given to the War and Navy Departments and the Emergency Fleet Corporation of the United States Shipping Board. Next will come the supply for the needs of the Allies. Private interests not engaged in war work must wait until the last before obtaining supplies.

Predict Profit for All Mills.

Following the announcement of the price-fixing schedule, experts here watched the movements of the stock market carefully, and when the market closed felt that their belief that $65 steel plates would not cause depression was justified. It is stated that while some of the small steel concerns may feel their wings clipped a bit, all will obtain a profit which will make possible the payment of high wages and the attainment of maximum production.

The prices fixed by the President and the War Industries Board will remain effective at least until Jan. 1, thus giving an opportunity to make a close study of the situation and determine whether they should be cut or increased. It has been stated by some who have fought for radical reductions that the United States Steel Corporation could produce plates at from $34 to $36 a net ton. While $65 steel will represent a large profit, much of this will enter the Government coffers by means of war taxes.

It is understood that the prices now quoted will not affect existing contracts, at least where war work is involved, and that pending the time when these contracts run out—they are usually for about seven months in the steel industry—the average price paid for steel will be at least $75 or $80, perhaps somewhat more.

The United States Shipping Board, through its Emergency Fleet Corporation, has been paying $50 a ton on account for steel plates, pending the announcement of the Government price. On all of its work the $65 price for plates will be paid, and, as it involves something like 2,000,000 tons in the next year, this will mean an increase of approximately $30,000,000, over the tentative payments agreed upon.

The Navy Department has been paying, under agreement with the steel industry, $58 a ton for plates. This price will be maintained for the contracts already entered into, and the navy will then join the other Governmental agencies, the Allies, and the public in paying $65 for its plates. It is understood that pending contracts entered into by the Navy Department and the steel industry do not cover materials for the proposed fleet of destroyers.

Announcement of New Prices.

Here is the formal announcement issued by the Committee on Public Information concerning the price fixing:

The President has approved an agreement between the War Industries Board and the steel men, fixing the following prices, which become effective immediately, and are subject to revision Jan. 1, 1918:

Commodity and Basis.	Price Agreed Upon.	Per Cent. of Reduction.
Iron ore, lower lake ports	*$5.05	..
Coke, Connellsville	†6.00	62.5
Pig Iron	*33.00	43.1
Steel bars, Pittsburgh, Chicago	‡2.90	47.3
Shapes, Pittsburgh, Chicago	‡3.00	50.00

*Gross ton. †Net ton. ‡Hundredweight.

It was stipulated, first, that there should be no reduction in the present rate of wages; second, that the prices above named should be made to the public and to the Allies, as well as to the Government, and, third, that the steel men pledge themselves to exert every effort necessary to keep up the production to the maximum of the past, so long as the war lasts.

Measures will be taken by the War

German Aviators Drop Bombs on London and Southeast Coast; Kill 6, Injure 20

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 25.—Hostile airplanes attacked the southeast coast of England last evening. According to the official announcement, the raiders appeared in different places in Kent and Essex.

A few of them followed the Thames and attacked London. Bombs were dropped at several points. The casualties so far reported are six persons killed and about twenty injured.

Zeppelines appeared early yesterdap morning off the coasts of Lincolnshire and Yorkshire. An official announcement says the raid is still in progress and that no details have yet been received.

British airmen engaged the raiders, but with what results is not yet known. The Germans used a number of aerial torpedoes.

The German airplanes appeared over the southeastern district of London Soon afer 8 o'clck last evening, and the engagement lasted until nearly 9:30. The raiders were scattered and did not come in compact formation. Many star shells were used by the defense guns, giving the appearance of spectacular fireworks. The scream of the torpedoes used by the Germans was distinguishable easily from the explosions of guns or bombs.

The noise of battle was heard throughout the city. Anti-aircraft guns were being fired from numerous points, and bombs could be heard exploding. Searchlights played over the city, and the rocketlike bursts of shrapnel furnished an interesting spectacle.

The purpose of the Germans apparently was the indiscriminate slaughter of the civilian population. As far as investigations of The Associated Press up to 2 o'clock this morning were able to discover the casualties were few.

The Germans did not attack any points of military importance, but dropped their bombs, as usual, on the residential districts, mostly upon the dwellings of the poorer classes.

If a panic might be expected anywhere while the noise of battle was proceeding it would be in the crowded theatres, but the performances in the majority of the playhouses proceeded without a break. The second night of the grand opera in Drury Lane was on and the program was carried through to the end, only a few persons leaving the house.

In one theatre, where an American play was being presented, the audience applauded the actors enthusiastically and the company responded by giving a cheerful round of applause on the stage for the audience. Another theatre lowered the fireproof curtain after the first act. The manager came to the front and said the interval would be longer than usual and requested the auditors to go into the passageways, where it would be safer than in the auditorium, which they did. They returned to their seats after half an hour.

One of the largest music halls has a war-time orchestra of sixty women. They played the accompaniments to the acts without interruption.

Many persons living in the neighborhood of the underground railways took refuge in the stations. The work of the police, firemen, civil constables, and Red Cross, as well as the women's auxiliaries was prompt.

The latest reports indicate that the Germans came in three squadrons. The first warning was given in the outlying districts at 7:20 o'clock, and the Police announced "all clear" about 10:20 o'clock.

DRAFT LIMITED IN BIG WAR BILL

Senate Committee Reports Against Examining All of the 10,000,000 Men Now.

CALLS FOR $7,992,000,000

$850,000,000 Added to House Measure—20% Bonus for Soldiers Serving Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The Appropriations Committee this afternoon reported to the Senate a bill providing for the expenditure of more money than had ever been carried in any single legislative measure in the world's history, or, for that matter, ever authorized in any way by a Governmental authority. This is the War Urgent Deficiency Appropriation bill previously passed by the House. Its total of expenditures authorized is $7,992,000,000.

An amendment inserted by the Senate committee is to prevent the War Department from carrying out its plan to have an immediate examination of the ten million men of draft age with a view to drafting them as needed. Prompt passage of the measure is recommended by the committee.

The committee allowed the War Department $2,000,000,000 more than allowed by the House, for the registration and selection of drafted men, but specifically provided that none of the money was to be spent for the examination and selection of men in excess of the one million authorized for active service in the Draft act. Unless the Senate reverses the committee this provision, it is believed, would block the War Department's plan to examine all the registered men and establish the order of the call to service of the entire ten million.

As another step in the Administration program to improve the condition of the enlisted men in the army, the committee added an appropriation of $15,000,000 to allow a bonus of 20 per cent. to privates and non-commissioned officers for service abroad. Under the present law, enlisted men are allowed 10 per cent. additional for foreign service. If the Appupropriation Committee's amendment is accepted, privates of the lowest grade in service in France would receive $36 a month. The 10 per cent. bonus to officers for foreign service was not increased by the committee.

The row between the Navy League and Secretary Daniels found its way into the committee's report in the form of an amendment "authorizing" the Secretary of the Navy to accept donations of the league. The amendment, offered by Senator Curtis of Kansas, "directed" the Secretary to accept furnishings and supplies from the Navy League or other patriotic societies. The committee thought the word "directed" implied a direct slap at the Secretary, and substituted "authorized."

The committee added approximately $850,000,000 to the total provided in the measure as it passed the House. The bill now provides for direct appropriation aggregating $5,606,960,000, and authorizes the executive department to enter into contracts to the extent of $2,385,900,000. The committee added $779,000,000 in direct appropriations, and authorized expenditures of more than $70,000,000.

The War Department's appropriations were increased $749,000,000. Many requests of the War Department for money, denied by the House, were granted by the committee, after hearing Secretary Baker. The Navy Department was allowed an increase of $24,000,000 over what the House gave it. This increase, however, is somewhat below its estimated needs. Appropriations of $47,000,000 were added to the measure for aviation. Ten million dollars of this amount was given to the Navy Department and $37,000,000 was allowed to the Signal Corps.

The Treasury Department gets an additional appropriation of $4,688,000 largely to take care of increased work required in the collection of internal revenue under the new War Revenue bill soon to be enacted.

Here are the big items added to the

TELLS OF REVOLT PLANNED BY I. W. W.

Witness at Oklahoma Draft Trial Testifies Hostilities Were to Have Opened July 27.

WERE TO BURN SMALL CITIES

And Shoot Officers of the Government—Similar Evidence Introduced at Trial in Texas.

ENID, Okla., Sept. 24.—A revolution of 2,000,000 malcontents, nation-wide in scope, backed by the I. W. W. and forty-eight affiliated organizations, including the Working Class Union, in which it was planned to apply the torch to small cities, shoot officers of the Government, and demoralize communication, was planned for July 27 last, according to the testimony today of Will Hoover, State witness in the trial of eleven alleged anti-draft agitators from central Oklahoma.

The Industrial Workers of the World were to launch the uprising, Hoover said "Rube" Munson, alleged State organizer of the W. C. U., told a meeting of the Friendship Local in an open cornfield near Sasakawa. At a prearranged time the W. C. U., was to capture small towns, take charge of banks, burn bridges, and cut telegraph wires while the I. W. W. cared for the larger cities in a like manner.

President Wilson and Governor Williams of Oklahoma, Hoover said Munson declared, would have such a large force of soldiers for personal protection and on the Mexican border that none would be available to send against the rebels.

Members, Hoover said, were told by H. C. Spence, accused State Secretary of the W. C. ., that two carloads of rifles would be available when needed, and that the W. C. U. had as much right to conscript recruits for a revolution as the Government had to draft men for the trenches in France. At this meeting early in July, appropriations were made for the purchase of 100 pounds of dynamite, Hoover declared.

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 24.—Members of the Farmers and Laborers' Protective Association, members of which are on trial here for conspiracy against the Government, were instructed by the Hamby local to procure rifles and resist conscription, according to testimony today by Ed. Goodman. Frank Bolt, one of the defendants, so advised members of the local, he said.

Another defendant, W. T. Jernigan, the witness testified, advised them to "go when called," but to shoot down officers after they were armed and then return home.

E. B. Potter of Abilene advised members of the organiaztion to try to get on juries in case charges were filed against any of the members, J. W. Kilgore of Abilene testified.

The association operated in Oklahoma under the name of the Working Class Union, according to other testimony. The number of defendants was reduced from fifty to forty-nine late today when the court ordered a mistrial in the case of Sam Fee, on the representation of a physician that he would not be able to attend court for several weeks owing to an operation.

The most important testimony today was that of Goodman. The instructions to get rifles and resist conscription were given to the Hamby (Texas) Local by Frank Bolt and W. T. Jernigan, both defendants in the present trial, Goodman said.

Ed Patterson, another witness, today testified that G. T. Bryant, a defendant, told delegates to the Farmers and Laborers' Convention at Cisco, Texas, last May that the organization in Oklahoma had been absorbed by the Working Class Union operating in that State.

Government counsel announced they probably would rest their case tomorrow.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 24.—J. E. Wiggins, alleged head of the Working Class Union, who has been in the city jail here since last Thursday, is charged with a series of crimes in dispatches received by Federal officials here today. It is alleged that he dynamited the water and sewer mains at Henryetta, Okla., last Spring, and later set fire to a school house near Henryetta, and that he armed negroes and others near Dewar and Kausa, Okla., and urged them to obstruct the draft law.

Wiggins was a waiter sixteen days at the cantonment at Camp Lewis, American Lake, Wash., and his conduct while so employed is being investigated.

ARGENTINA ORDERS NAVY TO MOBILIZE; WAR PLANS READY

Strike Is Given as Cause, but General Staff Has in Mind "Other Necessities."

BERLIN NOTE DISAPPROVED

Deputies Still Discuss Break with Germany, Having Lost Faith in Teutons.

ELEVEN RAILROADS TIED UP

Kaiser's Agents Are Believed to be Behind Strike—No Trains Into Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 24.—Mobilization of the Argentine Navy has been ordered at a rendezvous thirty-seven kilometers from Buenos Aires. There is also unusual military activity in the republic. Although this is ostensibly due to the general strike, a high official said today that the General Staff had its eyes open to "other necessities."

The question of a rupture with Germany is still being widely discussed by members of the Argentine Congress and the public in general, despite Germany's recent notes. Many of the Deputies say that they no longer have confidence in Berlin, because if the Government disapproved of von Luxburg's dispatches it should have taken action against the Minister and not waited until after Lansing's revelations to express its disapproval.

The Cabinet and Deputies do not yet consider the question closed, and there is widespread disapproval by the newspapers and Deputies of the personal guarantee sent by Dr. Luis B. Molina, the Argentine Minister at Berlin, that Germany would keep its promises.

It is learned that the General Staff since the beginning of the Toro incident has had the matter of mobilization under consideration and that war plans have been completed and campaign commanders appointed. If there is a declaration of war, it is asserted, Argentina will send two divisions to Europe and will not be content with a passive attitude. The men and equipment are ready for almost immediate embarkation if the necessity arises, and the Allies in that event will be asked to furnish artillery.

A general strike on eleven Argentinian railroads began at midnight last night. Traffic has been absolutely paralyzed on all railroads except some small Government lines in the interior. Not a wheel is moving on any railroad entering Buenos Aires.

Naval vessels are carrying the mails to river towns. Other places are without mail service.

German influences are believed to be behind the railroad strike. Throughout the day, it has been ascertained by the authorities, strike agitators were offering strikers orders on a German electric company with which to pay grocer and butcher bills.

DISAPPOINTED OVER SWEDEN.

British Fear Cabinet Will Not Retire as Result of Elections.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Political developments in Sweden the past few days are not regarded here as satisfactory. The parliamentary elections now have been concluded, and although complete results have not been announced, Hjalmar Branting, the Socialist leader, apparently has not made as large inroads on the Conservatives as expected.

Branting, with Socialist and Liberal support, will have a large majority in the lower house, but it appears doubtful now whether the present Government will acknowledge it is defeated by retiring.

If the present Conservative Government endeavors to continue in power with the support of the King, the situation from an Entente viewpoint will be extremely unsatisfactory.

TOLD DEWEY OF PLANS FOR WORLD'S CONQUEST

Senator Lewis Quotes Report of Talk With German Who Predicted Capture of New York.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Prediction that Germany would wage a war for world conquest in about fifteen years was made to the late Admiral Dewey at Manila in 1898 by Captain von Goetz of the German Imperial Navy, Senator Lewis today told the Senate.

Quoting a report from Admiral Dewey to the Navy Department, the Illinois Senator said that von Goetz told the American naval officer that Germany would capture Paris as the first step to subjugating England. The taking of New York and Washington was to follow in order that Germany might secure an enormous cash indemnity.

The wiping out of the Monroe Doctrine and the control of South America by Germany also were predicted by the German officer, declared Senator Lewis, who was discussing peace negotiations.

For some reason the Government had not given the report wide circulation, Senator Lewis continued, but in the face of it now "any Senator who speaks here or elsewhere against any measure of his country lends himself to the enemy."

Characterizing the German reply to Pope Benedict's peace note as "Prussian peace hypocrisy" and an affront both to the Pope and President Wilson, Senator Lewis scored what he termed "laggards in patriotism" and those who argue against the war.

"The country guarantees free speech to every American," the speaker said, "but that man who uses free speech against America is not the American to whom free speech is guaranteed. In this country there can be no free speech to any man to destroy the freedom of his fellow-man. There can never be liberty of speech to an American citizen to destroy the liberty of the American Nation."

Crown Prince Is Rebuked for Trainload of Singers

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Bavarian Socialist newspapers are quoted by the Exchange Telegraph Amsterdam correspondent as protesting against the action of the German Crown Prince in inviting a number of singers from the Munich Opera to proceed to his headquarters by a special train.

The newspaper critics characterize this proceeding as scandalous at a time when the railway congestion is so great that even foodstuffs cannot be transported. Two of the newspapers have been suppressed for publishing the attacks upon the Crown Prince.

COHALAN INQUIRY LIKELY AT ALBANY

Legislators Predict Investigation of the Jurist's Alleged German Activities.

TAMMANY MEN BEHIND HIM

John Devoy Attacks von Igel Disclosures as a Blow at the Irish Cause.

It is the opinion of lawmakers representing districts in this city that a concurrent resolution providing for an investigation of the disclosures involving Justice Daniel F. Cohalan in pro-German machinations prior to the entry of this country into the war will be introduced in the Legislature when that body meets again next Monday. It was stated yesterday that a Republican Senator from Brooklyn in all probability would be sponsor for the resolution.

Friends of Justice Cohalan expressed the opinion that he was running little risk of removal at the hands of the Legislature. Under the form of procedure which in all likelihood will be adopted, should the Legislature determine to entertain charges against him a two-thirds vote would be required in both branches of the Legislature before these could be sustained. The Assembly must act on the charges before they can come before the Senate. In the lower house Tammany Hall and the Socialists together control 52 votes, a sufficient number to block action adverse to Justice Cohalan. The Socialists, it is generally expected, would make common cause with the Tammany men.

A Tammany leader in the Legislature said yesterday that if, as he expected, a resolution instituting proceedings against Justice Cohalan would come before the Legislature, he would not be "swept from off his feet." He said that his attitude in all probability represented the general attitude of the Tammany lawmakers. Together, with one Senator and three Assemblymen from Erie County, they constitute all there is of the Democratic minority in both branches of the Legislature. This Tammany legislator added that in all probability there would be Republican votes in favor of Justice Cohalan in the Legislature, unless charges graver than those reflected through the Lansing disclosure were made.

Cohalan Silent.

Of those whose names have been mentioned in the revelation of German intrigue given publicity by the Washington Government, only John Devoy had anything to say at length yesterday regarding the von Igel papers or their connection with pro-German activities.

Justice Cohalan, who is alleged to have given advice that England be attacked by air raiders and that the freedom of Ireland be favored by the German Government, would not discuss the subject.

Jeremiah A. O'Leary, head of the American Truth Society, whose name was mentioned in von Igel's papers, was not in town, and it was said at his office in Park Row that he would not return from the Adirondacks until today. George Sylvester Viereck, editor of Viereck's Weekly, once The Fatherland, said he had little to add to what comment he has already made, and then he added that little John Devoy brands the Government's revelations as a mixture of invention, falsehood, and stupid assumption.

"So far as it concerns the Irish, the statement published last Sunday by the Committee on Public Information in regard to the documents seized in von Igel's office on April 18, 1916, is an achievement similar to its report of the great battle with the submarines which never took place,' Mr. Devoy said. "It is a mixture of invention, suggestion of falsehood, and stupid assumption based on nothing but a desire to injure the Irish cause and certain men connected with it. And the additions made in the healines, introductions, and editorials in some of the newspapers show reckless disregard for truth.

"The newspaper comment is so blended with the statement of the committee that it is difficult to separate one from the other, or to properly place the responsibility. The statements made about me contain deliberate untruths, the malignant purpose of which is very clear. The statement says 'John Devoy was one of the active agents' in plots between German officials and Irish revolutionists, and that he 'handled' a check for $1,000 for, or in some way connected with Sir Roger Casement. But the headlines in one of the papers put it definitely that 'Devoy got $1,000 check to be used in promoting Casement's rebellion,' while the introduction to the statement said bluntly 'that John Devoy, editor of The Gaelic American, was one of the agents employed by Ger-

HINTS OF GERMAN BRIBES STIR HOUSE; DEMAND INQUIRY

Two Resolutions Offered to Investigate Intimations by Heflin and Howard.

ALABAMAN UNDER HOT FIRE

Floor and Galleries in Tumult When He Is Called Upon to Explain Charges.

REFUSES TO GIVE NAMES

Norton Declares No Punishment Could Atone for Such Hints Against Fellow-Members.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—In the most turbulent session the House of Representatives has seen since the struggle to overthrow Speaker Cannon in 1911, Representative Norton of North Dakota today called to account Representative Heflin of Alabama and Representative Howard of Georgia for insinuating that members of Congress had profited by German intrigue. The trouble arose over the disclosure by Secretary Lansing that Ambassador von Bernstorff had asked his Government for $50,000 to influence Congress.

Two resolutions of inquiry, one by Representative Norton and the other by Representative Fordney of Michigan, were introduced and sent to the Rules Committee. The first resolution called upon both Representative Howard and Representative Heflin to make good, and the second mentioned only Representative Heflin.

Before a full membership, while the galleries were crowded with spectators, Representative Heflin stood up under the hoots and jeers and heckling of practically the entire House. When called upon time and again to name the men who had received money from Germany he evaded the question. Representative Norton asked him to prove his charges or be expelled from Congress. This received the cheers of both Democrats and Republicans.

"No punishment," said Representative Norton, "is too strong nor too severe for him if he cannot substantiate those charges."

Representative Heflin made a speech Friday afternoon on the subject of the von Bernstorff corruption fund, saying he had in mind thirteen or fourteen members of the Senate and House who "acted suspiciously." Newspapers the following day printed interviews with Mr. Heflin in which he said he had heard of a cardroom in Washington run by a German, where "peace-at-any-price Congressmen" and others could win large sums of money easily if they were on the German side of the argument. The same newspapers had an interview with Representative Howard in which he was quoted as saying that he knew of certain members of the House who seemed to be better off financially than they were a few months ago. As the interviews were on the subject of the corruption fund, the inference was plain, and the House today lashed itself into a fury when the interviews and speeches were brought up by Representative Norton.

Norton Denounces Heflin.

Representative Norton practically charged Representative Heflin with uttering falsehoods. He told the House that the harm done to the Government by allowing such a statement to go broadcast could not be allayed, not even if Representative Heflin "got down on his marrowbones to apologize."

Representative Heflin, growing flowery in his answer and injecting a tribute "to the boys in the trenches," drew the fire of the House, which heckled him severely, forcing him to speak only to the question at issue. When asked the direct question, Would he name the men he referred to as acting suspiciously? he refused pointblank. This stirred the House to jeers and hoots.

After obtaining permission to speak on a matter of the highest privilege, Representative Norton said it was plain that for years there had been an evident purpose in certain quarters to discredit the ability and integrity of Congress. Although no individual member had been singled out, he said, nevertheless it seemed to be true that people had been led to believe to some extent that Congress had a lowered degree of honesty and ability.

"What will the people think," he asked, "when last Saturday morning there was heralded all over this country from Canada to Mexico and from the Atlantic to the Pacific in every paper of importance the statement that the gentleman from Alabama says he can point out thirteen or fourteen members of this Congress who have acted suspiciously and inferentially who have received a part of this $50,000 reported to have been asked from the German Imperial Government?

"I do not believe there is a scintilla of truth in this charge; but if it is true, there is no punishment severe enough to deal out to such a man or such men if found."

The House broke into wild cheers at this.

"If I had the suspicion against the honesty or integrity of any man, I would not insinuate it," he said, "but I would be man enough to investigate it, and find out if it were true; and if it were, then I would present it to this House."

Mr. Norton then read a sentence from the Heflin speech in which he attributed suspicious moves to "thirteen or fourteen members of the House or Senate."

"The gentleman from Alabama should be required," asserted Mr. Norton, "to prove his statement to this House and to the country or accept the punishment, in so far as it can be given, that a statement of that kind—a false statement—so richly deserves."

He then read the following from The Washington Post:

"Representative Howard of Georgia said that he would point to the men in this House who, he believed, received money. 'Their actions almost certainly indicated it and they are certainly more prosperous now than they ever have been before.'"

Representative Norton then ascribed Mr. Heflin's speech to political aspirations and concluded in a bitter denunciation of the Alabaman while the House went wild with applause.

Representative Heflin arose, red in the face, and began to talk about "the boys who are going to the trenches." Far back in the hall, Representative Campbell of Kansas jumped up with a point of order, stopping Representative Heflin.

"The gentleman is neither discussing a point of personal privilege nor privilege of the House," said Mr. Campbell.

Speaker Clark drew Mr. Heflin back to the question at issue. Mr. Heflin then said he had never accused members of getting money from German sources and that he had wanted to say so when Representative Norton rose, but that he had been cut off.

"The gentleman wants to take snap judgment on me," said Representative Heflin. "I recall I had a controversy with him on one occasion when he referred to the Allies as our so-called Allies."

Speaker Clark called Mr. Heflin sharply to order again.

"Now, Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Heflin, "I do not know of any member who has been influenced by this money, and I said so. But I said if I were permitted to name some I could mention some whose conduct, according to my judgment, had been suspicious."

Demands Names.

Representative Caraway of Arkansas walked down the aisle on the Democratic side of the House.

"Will you name them?" he asked.

Instantly the Representatives roared approval. "Good boy, Caraway!" "That's the stuff!" "Name them, name them!" yelled members in every part of the House. Speaker Clarke hammered his desk, and then served notice that if members didn't behave he would order arrests by the Sergeant at Arms.

When the House had quieted down Mr. Heflin renewed his attack on the thirteen or fourteen unnamed members, saying that, according to his way of thinking, they were disloyal. But he mentioned no names.

Representative Little of Kansas then tried to get permission for Representative Heflin to proceed in his own fashion in or out of order, provided he would answer Representative Caraway's question and name the thirteen or fourteen suspicious characters. This provoked a long row, but finally Representative Heflin shook himself free and started off, only to be tripped in a few seconds by Representative Campbell. Mr. Heflin charged the Republicans with wanting to shut him off entirely. He had uttered only a few sentences when Representative Gordon of Ohio made vigorous objection that Mr. Heflin was simply repeating his charges and not explaining them. This sort of thing proceeded for several minutes. Then Representative Heflin said:

"You cannot take from me impressions that men make upon me by their conduct. If I am true to my oath I have a right to say a member's conduct is suspicious. If I take the responsibility of saying it, why not give me the credit for that much loyalty to my Government in time of war? I could recite the things that some have done, but you would not permit it, you would strike it out of the record. I never said any member had been corrupted by money. I do not know what influenced them. But I do know that some have not, according to my way of thinking, been loyal to this Government since the war began."

"Name them," roared Mr. Gordon.

"I will not yield to the gentleman from Ohio," responded Mr. Heflin. "But if the House decides that an investigation is necessary and that I express my opinion of the men who have not been loyal I will name them. But I cannot prove anything."

This caused uproarious laughter.

Mentions Women Spies.

Mr. Heflin then proceeded to say something about the gambling house story. "That was something said outside in the lobby," he explained. "We were talking about women spies who had been here."

Mr. Cooper made another objection. "The gentleman is arraigning the motives of thirteen or fourteen of the members of this House," he declared, "practically insinuating they are traitors to their country. He is called upon to name them and he does not do it, but digresses and talks about female spies."

Mr. Heflin said he had been talking in the lobby about spies and the rumor of a gambling house in Washington "run by a German where slackers and pacifists played and that those who were friendly to Germany won easily at the game."

He was asked whether he had said "peace-at-any-price Congressmen" got their pay that way.

"I have stated what I said," he answered.

EXPOSURES WORRY GERMANS.

Bernstorff Disclosures Highly Regrettable, Says a Cologne Paper.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—In commenting on the latest Washington disclosure concerning the activities of Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, the Cologne Volkszeitung, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to Reuter's, Limited, says:

"This affair, if true, has a very disagreeable character, and it is highly regrettable. The American Government, God knows how, was able to get hold, apparently, of the whole collection of German diplomatic documents, which it is now exploiting against us and Sweden. What the State Department remarks about the relation between von Bernstorff's policy and the U-boat war can be recognized as a misleading invention by every one who knows the history preceding the U-boat campaign."

GOT $30,000 PEACE OFFER.

Ex-Member of Friends of Peace Says Germans Paid Their Bills.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—J. J. Tobias, Chancellor of the Chicago Law School, once leader of the Friends of Peace, an organization at one time active in furthering peace talk, told today of having received an offer of $30,000 to work for an embargo on munitions and to influence sentiment in this country in favor of peace with Germany. The offer, he said, came from a man calling himself E. J. Thyme, a banker from Stockholm, Sweden.

The $2,400 with which the convention of the Friends of Peace on Sept. 6, 1915, was financed, was raised by twenty-five local Germans and German-Americans, according to Dr. Tobias, and the money which supplied funds for the organization's mail propaganda came from the German committee in New York, he said. Mr. Tobias said he became suspicious and withdrew from activity in the organization when he was convinced it was pro-German.

LUFBERY GETS ANOTHER.

Destroys One German Airplane and Forces Another to Earth.

By The Associated Press.

SOMEWHERE ON THE FRENCH FRONT, Sept. 22, (Delayed.)—Lieutenant Raoul Lufbery of Wallingford, Conn., one of the most prominent members of the Lafayette Flying Corps, continued his brilliant aerial exploits today when he destroyed one German machine and forced another to land near the front lines.

Sergeant Kenneth Marr of San Francisco was attacked by four German machines, and was forced to land when the wires controlling the elevating planes of his airplane were cut by bullets.

The members of the Lafayette Squadron witnessed a fight over their own field this morning, when a French flier of another squadron forced down a German machine, which crashed to earth about a mile away.

OUST LA FOLLETTE, ROOSEVELT URGES

Colonel Says the Wisconsin Man Disgraces Senate by His Presence There.

CALLS HIM SINISTER ENEMY

General Wood, Also Speaking at Kansas City, Deplores Lack of an Efficient Army.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 24.—"If I were this minute a member of the United States Senate I would be ashamed to sit in that body until I found out some method of depriving Senator La Follette of his seat in that chamber which he now disgraces by his presence there," Colonel Theodore Roosevelt declared in a talk today at a luncheon given for Major General Leonard Wood and himself as a part of the Middle Western patriotic celebration of this city.

The Colonel spoke of Senator La Follette as "an American who represents the worst of American characteristics."

"Senator La Follette is at this moment loyally and efficiently serving one country—Germany," he said. "He is acting in such fashion as to make him one of the most potent enemies of this country and a most sinister enemy of democracy. He claims, and it is the emptiest claim, to stand for democracy. He is doing everything in his power to enthrone autocracy under the German flag throughout the world by the attitude he is now taking toward the war. He is showing himself the worst enemy that democracy has now alive.

"I read a couple of days ago of Senator La Follette's utterances before an organization out in Minneapolis, and hereafter any organization that asks Senator La Follette to speak ought to be made to show conclusively why it should be considered a patriotic organization thereafter."

Colonel Roosevelt disputed the statement that America was fighting the German Government and not the German people.

"For no nation does Germany feel and express such bitter and contemptuous hostility as for the United States," he said. "There is no nation on the face of the globe which they would be more delighted to ruin and plunder. Germany embodies the principles of successful militaristic autocracy. Much has been said about our being against the German Government but not against the German people. The attitude of the German-American press and the German Alliance in this country in their hearty support of the German Government and the practically unanimous support of that Government heretofore by the Germans at home shows that at present the Germans are back of the German Government.

"They have enthusiastically supported its policy of brutal disregard of the rights of others. Until they reverse themselves, until they cast off the yoke of militaristic autocracy, they identify themselves with it and force us to be against them. It is for the German people themselves to differentiate themselves from their Government. Until they do this they force us to be against the German people as a necessary incident of being against the German Government.

"The Germans govern from above down. The people of this Republic, like the people of France, like the people of England, believe in government from below up. In other words, we believe in government by ourselves. The Germans believe in being governed by an autocratic dynasty which rests primarily on a great militaristic class and a great bureaucratic class. No man who supports Germany at this time can claim to be a real democrat or a real lover of free institutions. He is false both to democracy and freedom."

Germany had well-matured plans for the conquest and oppression of the United States, the Colonel asserted. This was evidenced, he said, by the conversation of some recently captured German officers who talked to their English captors freely without knowing that an American officer was present.

"These Germans announced that Germany was going to win and that they were going to smash the United States and bleed it white with an enormous indemnity and make it pay the whole expense of the war," he said. "They had no thought of peace, and no man in his senses doubts that this would be the policy adopted as a matter of course by Germany."

Saying that the preparedness measures we were taking now should have been carried out three years ago, the Colonel declared that "if Germany could land a single small army of 50,000 men in this country we would be wholly unable to match it, for we have neither artillery nor airplanes that could be put against them. If at this moment our allies suddenly made peace, we would be a helpless prey to Germany or any other first-class European or Asiatic military power."

Colonel Roosevelt asserted that if Congress had taken the action three years ago that it has since the declaration of war, the war would be over now.

"If we take heed of any peace utterance Germany prepares we will show that we are not prepared yet to go out into the world without a guardian," he added. "America must make good the words of President Wilson, (make the world safe for democracy.) For this reason we should declare war against Austria and Turkey."

At the conclusion of his talk a gold quill was presented to Colonel Roosevelt, with the reminder that the pen is mightier than the sword.

Less talk and more action was advised by General Leonard Wood as the best means of winning the war.

"This is all foolish talk," said the General, "in regard to our being first in this or that. The idea of saying that America can win the war in the air is ridiculous. What we want, what we need is less talking and more action. Stop and consider that the war has been under way for eight months and that we are not yet ready to put a competent army in the field.

"The reception today to the young Captain of French Artillery was a fitting one. He has been at Fort Sill giving one of the few lessons American soldiers have had in real warfare. American officers, whether they be Major Generals or Second Lieutenants, could not but profit by his teachings.

"It isn't our money that will win; it isn't our food. It is the consecration of every American to the cause of his country, coupled with an honest desire to get ready quickly so we may strike without further delay of the cause on which we are embarked."

LABOR WILL SEND 50 MEN TO RUSSIA

American Alliance Completes Plans to State Case of Workers to New Government.

The Executive Committee of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, of which Samuel Gompers is the head, met yesterday at its headquarters, 280 Broadway, and decided to send a mission to Russia to represent the Alliance. This mission will be organized as soon as possible, it was announced, and will probably consist of about fifty persons. It is felt that the coming to the new republic of labor's representatives from America would do much to clear up the misunderstanding that may now exist as to the attitude of the working man toward the war. It will also clear the fog that German progapanda has conjured up regarding the loyalty of the wage earner in the United States. It is said that the proposed mission will contain representatives of all the professional and working classes of America. It is planned to pay the expenses of the mission by making a public appeal for funds.

In view of the evident misunderstanding on the part of the public concerning the recent strikes, the Alliance issued a statement in which labor's position is defined. While the workers pledge their support to the Government they ask in return that the workers be protected from the profiteers. The Alliance goes on record as favoring Government control of industries when differences between owners and workers threaten a discontinuance of production necessary for the war."

"The United States Government has committed itself to a policy of fairness toward labor," the committee says. "But the Government does not control all industry. Private employers have taken advantage of the war situation to seek to extend the hours of employment and to require intolerable conditions. In many cases the employes have revolted against such processes, and in some cases have been branded by greedy employers as unpatriotic because of such opposition. The first concern of this nation is the well-being of its working people. Its working people are the foundation of its existence. They are loyal and self-sacrificing to the last degree. And because of their loyalty to America they will not permit employers moved by greed to inflict conditions out of all harmony with the spirit of the American nation.

"This alliance insists that one of the gravest menaces America has to meet is the menace of that profiteering group which places greed above country. We declare that industrial enterprises should be the servants, and not the masters, of the people, and that in cases where differences between owners and workers threaten a discontinuance of production necessary for the war the Government should assume complete control of such industries and operate them for the exclusive benefit of the people."

VICTOR RIDDER OUT OF MAYOR'S COMMITTEE

His Resignation Follows Report of Dissatisfaction With His Recent Letters and Articles.

Victor Ridder, brother of Bernard H. Ridder, President and editor of the Staats-Zeitung, resigned yesterday from the Alien Committee of the Mayor's Defense Committee. It was said at the editorial rooms of the Staats-Zeitung that the demands on his time as one of the managers of the newspaper had made it impossible for him to continue as a member of the committee, but this did not agree with the reports circulated during the afternoon at the City Hall.

According to these reports, Mr. Ridder had recently written letters and articles not in accord with the views of some members of the committee, and had thus found himself at odds with Archibald Ewing Stevenson, its Chairman. Mr. Stevenson, according to these rumors, wrote Mr. Ridder a letter demanding an explanation, and the editor's reply was his resignation.

Philip C. McCook, Secretary of the Mayor's Defense Committee, would not make a statement last night, although he said one would be issued by the committee at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. Ridder confirmed the rumor, but that was all. He had very little information to give on the subject.

Victor Ridder was one of several prominent Germans appointed on the Alien Committee of the Mayor's Defense Committee several months ago. The committee has been very active, much of its work having been done among Germans.

NO KORNILOFF PLOT, RUSSIANS NOW THINK

Affair Attributed to Blunder by Lvoff in Delivering General's Message to Premier.

EXPLANATIONS BY EMBASSY

Petrograd Democratic Congress Decides Not to Exclude Property Classes Altogether.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—That there is a disposition to attribute the so-called Korniloff revolt in Russia to a blunder on the part of Vladimir Lvoff, the member of the Duma who served as an emissary from the General to the Premier, was shown by an official explanation of the movement issued by the Russian Embassy today, which confirms the indications contained in recent press dispatches.

According to this explanation, when Korniloff was appointed Commander in Chief of the Russian armies, negotiations were begun between the Provisional Government and the General relative to army reforms, measures deemed necessary for the restoration of discipline and increasing the strength and the fighting power of the armies. Most of those recommended by General Korniloff had already been adopted before the movement against the Provisional Government was started, but three problems had not been solved, these being the proposed restoration of the death penalty in the rear; the widening of the territory to be considered as war zones in which military law might be enforced, and the placing of Petrograd in one of these zones.

On Sept. 8 the Provisional Government arrived at definite decisions on these questions also, as a result of an exchange of views between Assistant Minister of War Savinkoff, as Premier Kerensky's representative, and General Korniloff at army headquarters. The agreement arrived at between Savinkoff and Korniloff was approved by the Provisional Government and the measures were to have been put into effect immediately.

On the evening of the very day, Sept. 8, on which the Government made its decision, Vladimir Lvoff, a member of the Duma and emissary of General Korniloff, came to Premier Kerensky with the demand that Korniloff be made dictator. In this, it is asserted, he misrepresented the General.

When the Korniloff enterprise was over, the Provisional Government had to face a very difficult situation in the army, meeting a lack of confidence in their officers on the part of the soldiers, who suspected them of sympathy with the Korniloff movement. The Government took immediate measures to suppress disorders, and checked all attempts of the soldiers and of the soldiers' committees to institute measures on their own account, such as passing judgment upon officers suspected of disloyalty to the Provisional Government. There were only a few cases, at the very beginning of the troubles, in which the soldiers tried to judge their superiors.

As to the political situation and the ascendency of the Bolshevick faction in the Petrograd Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, all telegrams from the Government show that it is firmly resolved to oppose these agitators and is not afraid of them, although recognizing the danger of their movement and being prepared to fight it. In the Council itself such leaders as Tseretelli, its most inflential member; Skobeless and others are absolutely against the Bolshevick policies, and it is declared that at the recent session, when the ultra-revolutionary program was put through, only 400 out of the 1,500 members composing the Council were present.

Democratic Congress Plans Modified.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 23.—The Democratic Congress, according to the present program, will be composed of 1,500 members, but demands to participate are arriving from political organizations from all parts of the country, and the definite composition of the congress has not been decided.

As the Organization Committee has decided to give a small number of seats to representatives of professional and industrial associations, the middle or property classes will not be altogether excluded. The overwhelming majority of the members, however, will represent the peasantry.

It is announced that the congress may open on Sept. 26, a day later than originally proposed.

Michael V. Rodzianko, President of the Duma, in view of the reports of peace negotiations, separate or general, today read a lecture to the Moscow Union of Public Workers on the theme "Could Russia Conclude Peace?"

The lecturer sought to prove that any peace which it was possible to conclude at the present juncture must humiliate Russia, and he gave convincing facts why this was so. M. Rodzianko referred to the German plan to conclude a peace at Russia's cost, and then expressed confidence that the Entente Allies would reject it. He warned Russia, however, that she must create a strong power; otherwise the nation would inevitably suffer when peace was negotiated.

Although the Petrograd Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates has fallen under the power of the Bolsheviks, it is notable that the Izvestiya, the organ of the council, does not shrink today from declaring that a strengthened army is the only way of preventing the country from falling a victim of aggression.

RUSSIAN CABINET UNEASY.

Ministers Look with Misgiving at Congress Preparations.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 23.—The attention of the Petrograd press is divided between peace rumors and the question of the reorganization of the Government in connection with the forthcoming democratic conference. The discussion of the Government crisis is rambling and vague, and is concerned chiefly with the struggle of the rival Socialist factions for control of the Soviets, and consequently of the conference, and ultimately of the Government itself. Kerensky has not yet returned from headquarters, and representatives of the Government here look on at the preparations for the Soviet conference with some misgiving.

The Bolsheviks secured another victory yesterday in the Petrograd Soviet, which rejected a vote of confidence in the late Moderate Socialist executive and proceeded to new elections. The executive of the Moscow Soviet also resigned in consequence of the adoption of the Bolshevik resolution. The so-called bourgeois parties are holding aloof from the Democratic conference which in their absence probably will become the battleground of the socialist factions.

Kerensky is pressing forward the inquiry into the Korniloff affair in order to be able to publish an official statement before the conference meets and so clear himself of charges of connivance or complicity urged against him in the extreme socialist press.

Much more definite and pointed is the discussion of peace rumors. Nearly all sections of the press are very seriously alarmed at the possibility of the conclusion of peace at Russia's expense. the Socialist papers, with the exception of that jeering herald of misfortune, the Novaya Zhizn are doubly depressed. They mourn the failure of the attempt to unite the forces of the international proletariat in a campaign for democratic peace and admit that the cause of failure lies in the weakness of revolutionary Russia and the retreat of her armies. At the same time they are angry and embittered at the prospect of the humiliation of Russia.

DECLARES FAITH IN RUSSIA.

American Red Cross Head Says Her Troubles Are Not New in History.

PETROGRAD, Sunday, Sept. 23.—Raymond Robins, head of the permanent Red Cross Commission in Petrograd, and Catherine Breshkovskaya, known as the "Grandmother of the Revolution," spoke from the same platform this afternoon at the Tenisheff Auditorium, both assuring their audience that Americans, Englishmen, and Russians had mutual faith in the ultimate outcome of Russian democracy.

Mr. Robins drew a parallel between Russia's troubles today and early American history. He said the outbreaks here were nothing new in history, and he urged foreign business interests to deal with new Russia on lines of economic freedom.

Mme. Breshkovskaya, who spoke in English, was cheered when she expressed faith that her people, as the result of education, would form a true democracy after vanquishing Germany, the common foe.

David R. Francis, the American Ambassador, and other members of the Diplomatic Corps in Petrograd, were present.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE GERMAN POSITIONS

Recover Some Ground on Riga Front—Foe Claims Much Booty at Jacobstadt.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 24.—Russian forces on the Riga front, in the region south of the Pskov highroad, yesterday took the offensive, and after a fierce struggle occupied the German positions in the sector of Silzeme, the Russian War Office announced today. The statement reads:

In the Riga region, south of the Pskov highroad, our detachments initiating an attack occupied, after a fierce struggle, the enemy positions in the sector of Silzeme, one mile northeast of Spitalitimerman. The enemy losses were severe, and on the battlefield we found more than 400 corpses. We captured 60 prisoners and 10 machine guns. The brilliant General Sokolov was wounded in the head by a shrapnel splinter.

Western, Southwestern, and Rumanian Fronts—There were fusillades and reconnoitring operations.

Caucasian Front—There is nothing to report.

Aviation—On Friday in the region of Kovel our airmen mombarded the enemy rear and stores at Jino, Melnica and Nugel, dropping about a hundredweight of bombs. Several fires broke out. West of Husiatyn Lieutenant Jachello brought down an enemy machine. In the region of Kedzi-Vasarhely on Thursday a Rumanian airman engaged an enemy machine and forced it down in the enemy lines. In the region of the Lower Danube our hydroplanes successfully dropped eighteen bombs on the enemy lines.

BERLIN, Sept. 24, (via London.)—The following statement was issued today by the War Office:

Eastern Theatre: Front of Prince Leopold—Among the booty of 55 guns captured in the Jacobstadt bridgehead were a mounted battery and five heavy guns of between 26 and 28 centimeter calibre. The town itself afforded quantities of provisions, including bread and flour, which fell into our hands.

North of Baranovichi and west of Lutsk the Russian artillery displayed lively activity.

Front of Field Marshal von Mackensen—In the mountains northwest of Fokshani and on the Sereth there was frequently lively artillery activity and outpost fighting. The railway station at Galatz was bombarded with visible success.

NORFOLK NAVY YARD HAMPERED BY STRIKE

5,000 Men Out Demanding New Wage Scale—10,000 May Go Out on Lakes.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 24.—Approximately 5,000 men employed at the navy yard here struck today, pending an agreement on a new wage scale. Work in many departments of the plant was said to have been virtually suspended.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The Navy Department was advised today by the commandant of the Norfolk Navy Yard that about 50 per cent. of the men employed at the plant had walked out because of a wage disagreement. The situation is being handled by the officers at the yard, and Secretary Daniels is confident that an adjustment will be arranged within a day or two whereby the men will return to work.

The Labor Adjustment Board, of which V. Everit Macy is Chairman, began active negotiations today to bring about a permanent settlement of the disputes in the Pacific oCast shipyards, and it is believed that the danger of a serious situation, which might tie up Government work for a long period, has been averted. President Wilson has asked the workmen to go back to their shops as a patriotic act.

Reports were received here today that about 4,000 men in three Portland steel plants had walked out, and A. J. Berres, a member of the Adjustment Board, representing the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, immediately sent a telegram asking the men to co-operate with the Government and return to their tasks.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 24.—Ten thousand members of the Lake Seamen's Union, comprising 4,000 seamen, 4,000 firemen, and 2,000 cooks, have voted tonight to strike, according to Victor Olander, Secretary of the organization. The ballots will not have been counted for several days.

The effect would be to tie up all lake traffic. Shipments of iron ore from Duluth to Gary, South Chicago, and Indiana harbor would be at a standstill, as would traffic from Lake Erie ports to points on Lake Superior. The transportation of grain from Duluth to Buffalo also would be seriously interfered with. The men demand the extension of the Atlantic agreement to the Great Lakes.

many to organize support for the Casement revolution, and that a check for $1,000 was given to Devoy to be used in that connection.'

Calls It a Lie.

"This is a lie made out of whole cloth, and I challenge those who make it to produce the proof. They have none. I never received $1,000, or $1, by check or otherwise, from the German Government or any of its agents or representatives, for any purpose whatever. I absolutely deny that any evidence was found, in von Igel's office or anywhere else, to show or lead to the suspicion that I had received any money whatever, either to promote rebellion in Ireland, or for my private use. If these raids and investigations should be continued until the Day of Judgment not a scrap of evidence will be found that will either disprove or throw doubt on this statement. The onus of proof is on those who uttered the falsehood. Let them produce that proof if they have it, or confess that they have told a malignant lie.

"Another allegation made in the committee's statement is that they found a 'Devoy cipher' in von Igel's office. Why don't they reduce it? I deny that any such cipher ever existed.

"Another statement made by the committee regarding me is a repetition of a falsehood which I refuted more than a year ago. It was to the effect that I, or The Gaelic American, had accused Secretary Lansing of betraying to England information which led to the arrest and execution of Sir Roger Casement. I never made any such accusation. What I charged was that information obtained in the raid on von Igel's office on Tuesday, April 18, 1916, was given to the British Government by a United States official and enabled it to capture a ship laden with German arms off the southwest coast of Ireland on Friday, April 21, 1916. That charge was made immediately after the seizure of the ship. In a few days the State Department issued a statement denying a charge that nobody had made—that Mr. Lansing had given any information to the British Ambassador that would lead to the arrest of Sir Roger Casement. I branded the statement at the time as an evasion, and yet the evasion is reported in the committee's statement published last Sunday, with the assertion that Secretary Lansing and Attorney General Gregory had 'refuted the charge'—namely, a charge that nobody had made. And the additional information is conveyed that the von Igel documents did not reach the State Department until the day before Casement was arrested. That, of course, shows that the State Department was innocent of a charge that had not been made, but it leaves the real charge absolutely unanswered. Why does not the committee undertake to refute the charge that was actually made—that the information which led to the capture of the Aud was given to the British Government in New York immediately after the raid on von Igel's office?

"And there is a remarkable and very significant suppression in the committee's statement. They insert a letter saying: 'Inclosed herewith a —— report received by us from John Devoy.' What was the word omitted and why was the report not given with the letter? Evidently the committee has some reason. Why don't they state it?

"The purpose of the attack is plain. It is to injure the cause of real Irish nationalism in the minds of the American people.

In the von Igel documents, given out by the Committee on Public Information, were two letters in which Devoy's name is conspicuous, and the text of the committee's statement clearly indicates that the Government has more information concerning the activities of Devoy. The committee makes the flat statement that there is "one record of a check for $1,000 for Casement, evidently handled by Devoy."

In one of the letters to Bernstorff Devoy is referred to as "Confidential Man John Devoy." The letters follow:

New York, April 8, 1916.

The following communication from confidential man John Devoy was duly transmitted:

"Letter dated March 22, delayed by censor, seems conclusive that first messenger arrived safe with proposal to send supplies and that cable was suppressed. Second also safe. Third, with change of plans, due about April 15."

John Devoy further requests that the following telegram be dispatched to Sir Roger Casement:

"No letter now possible. All funds sent home. Sister and M.'s family well."

Should Sir Roger be absent or ill, then J. D. requests that the telegram be delivered to John Monteith.

New York, April 15, 1916.

Herewith inclosed a —— report received by us today from John Devoy. Kindly order further steps to be taken.

The important parts of the report were sent there today per telegram. (S. copy.)

To the Imperial Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, Washington, D. C.

The State Department gave dates in refutation of Devoy's charge that Washington apprised the British Government of Casement's movements.

VON IGEL ONLY A CLERK.

Papers Seized in His Office Belonged to von Papen, Chief Aid to Bernstorff.

The so-called "von Igel papers," which were seized when the agents of the Secret Service raided von Igel's office at 60 Wall Street early in the morning of April 18, 1916, could more properly be called the "von Papen papers," as practically all of the documents were addressed to von Papen, who was, until he was ordered out of the country by the State Department, second in command to Count von Bernstorff, so far as plots and conspiracies against the United States and the Allies were concerned.

Von Igel was only an employe of von Papen, and it was not until the Government agents seized the incriminating documents that von Bernstorff made the claim that von Igel was an attaché of the embassy. In one of the letters written to Captain von Papen by Dr. Heinrich Albert, another of the German plotters, Dr. Albert refers to von Igel as "Herr Amanuensis Igel," while in other documents which have come into the possession of Secret Service agents he is referred to as a secretary and never referred to as a man of much importance.

When von Papen was expelled from the country he took some of his papers with him and the others he left in charge of von Igel at 60 Wall Street. The British Secret Service seized the papers von Papen carried at Falmouth on Jan. 2, 1916, and about three months later the American Secret Service forces got those he left behind.

The fact that the "von Igel papers" are in reality the "von Papen papers" was called to the attention of THE TIMES yesterday by a former high official of the Department of Justice who was one of those in charge of the investigation which followed the raiding of von Papen's old office.

"As a matter of fact," said the former Federal official yesterday, "von Igel was only one of von Papen's many hirelings. He received a salary of $238 a month, and during the days when the plotters were working at top speed in their efforts to create pro-German sentiment and to destroy American property von Igel was chased all over the country as a confidential messenger and paymaster of von Papen."

America's Foreign Trade Nearly Nine Billions

America's foreign trade for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, reached the unprecedented total of $8,953,000,000, of which $6,294,000,000 was exports and $2,659,000,000 imports.

These huge totals emphasize the importance of credit in the nation's business affairs and the necessity of adequate banking facilities for our merchants.

The Citizens National Bank has been strictly a commercial bank since its organization sixty-six years ago, and has ample equipment to meet promptly the demands of all mercantile lines.

FRENCH FIRE CHECKS FOES BEFORE VERDUN

Germans Fail in an Assault on 1¼-Mile Front, Incurring Heavy Losses.

KILL TWO GERMAN CAPTIVES

Kaiser's Airmen, Raiding a Camp Near Bar-le-Duc, Also Wound Seventeen Compatriots.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The Germans made repeated attacks against the French lines today, particularly north of Verdun, where they were driven back under the French fire along a front of about a mile and a quarter. Secondary attacks north of Bézonvaux and near Beaumont were also repulsed with sanguinary losses, according to the statement of the War Office issued tonight.

Last night, in the course of a bombing raid by enemy airmen, a camp of German prisoners near Bar-le-Duc was hit, and two of the prisoners were killed and seventeen wounded.

The text of the night report reads as follows:

On the Aisne front the artillery action was very spirited in the neighborhood of Braye-on-Laonnois, Cerny, and Hurtebise. We repulsed a surprise attack against our small posts north of Braye.

On the right bank of the Meuse, following the bombardment reported in the morning communication, the Germans attacked our trenches north of Bois le Chaume along a front of about two kilometers. The attack was carried out by four battalions supported by special assaulting troops. Disorganized by our fire, the enemy was unable to reach our lines on the greater part of the front of the attack. In some trench elements in the centre, where the enemy had succeeded in gaining a foothold, violent fighting ensued, which ended to our advantage. Our soldiers, after inflicting heavy losses on the adversary, remained masters of their positions.

At the same time two secondary attacks were delivered, one north of Bézonvaux, the other southeast of Beaumont. These likewise suffered a sanguinary check by reason of the valor of our troops, who, leaving their own trenches, advanced fiercely to meet their assailants.

In the course of the afternoon two new attempts carried out against our trenches in the Bois le Chaume resulted only in augmenting the number of losses suffered by the enemy without gaining for him the slightest advantage. We took about fifty prisoners in the course of this action.

German Air Raiders Kill Prisoners.

The afternoon statement follows:

Violent artillery actions occurred in the region of Braye-en-Laonnois, the Froidmont Farm, and Hurtebise. An enemy surprise attack on the last-mentioned point failed.

In Champagne we raided the German lines east of Téton.

On the left bank of the Meuse enemy reconnoisances which attempted to reach our lines were dispersed by our fire. On the right bank the artillery actions took on a character of extreme intensity during the night in the neighborhood of the Bois des Fosses and the Bois le Chaume. Everywhere else the night was calm.

Enemy airplanes last night bombed the region north of Bar-le-Duc. Several bombs fell on a camp of German prisoners, two of the prisoners being killed and seventeen wounded.

On Sept. 23 our pilots brought down six German airplanes.

Berlin Reports Violent Gun Duels.

BERLIN, Sept. 24, (via London.)—From General Headquarters is reported violent artillery fighting on the Aisne, Champagne, and Verdun fronts. The French suffered losses in reconnoitring engagements, says the official statement, which follows:

Army Group of the German Crown Prince: In several sectors on the Aisne front and in the Champagne the firing was increased frequently to great violence. The enemy suffered losses in reconnoitring engagements. Before Verdun there was very active artillery fighting in the afternoon and night. Lively fighting was in progress this morning on the Eastern bank of the Meuse.

Fourteen enemy airplanes were brought down.

BRITISH REPEL ARTOIS RAIDS.

Five German Assaults Net the Attackers One Prisoner.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Under cover of a heavy bombardment the Germans early this morning attempted to raid British trenches at several points on the Artois front, the net result of the attacks being the capture of one prisoner.

Following is the official afternoon report:

A hostile raiding party last night near La Basséeville was driven off with loss after a short fight. A few of our men are missing.

The enemy's artillery was active early this morning on both banks of the Scarpe, and artillery activity also was shown during the night south of Lens and northeast of Ypres.

The official report from British Headquaters in France tonight reads:

Under cover of the bombardment alluded to in today's commuqué, the enemy attempted two raids early this morning in the neighborhood of Monchy-le-Preux and another south of the Arras-Douai Railway. In all three cases the hostile parties were repulsed by our fire, leaving a number of dead in front of our trenches.

Another enemy party raided our trneches early this morning west of La Bassée. One of our men is missing. The report this morning that some of our men were missing as a result of a hostile raid carried out last night near La Basséeville has since been found to be incorrect, as none of our men was missing.

On the battle front our patrols have been active today. A number of prisoners were brought in. Our artillery activity continues, but no infantry action occurred.

An Associated Press correspondent in a dispatch from the British front in France and Belgium says:

"The German guns were exceedingly active during last night on the northern half of the recent battlefront, and at times the artillery duel reached a stage of great intensity. Several enemy barrages were put down on the British front line, while on the extreme left considerable gas was employed; but no infantry action is reported as having taken place.

"Further north the French also were under an increased fire, and in the coast sector the enemy's artillery fire likewise was heavy, Nieuport being made the objective of a severe bombardment.

"In the southern section of the field of the recent offensive conditions were more quiet.

"A hard local battle was fought at close quarters just northeast of Langemarck yesterday as a result of a German attempt to regain lost positions. The outcome of this struggle was that the German assault not only was broken up, but in a counterdrive the British hurled the enemy from a strong position which he had held since the offensive began last Thursday.

"The conflict centered in a strong defense trench near the Louis Farm. The British occupied part of these defenses on Thursday, but the Germans had clung tenaciously to several hundred yards of ground. On Saturday they brought up storming troops and yesterday launched a furious attack in an endeavor to dislodge the British.

"Brief but bitter fighting followed with rifle and bayonet, and so strongly did the British meet the onslaught that the enemy was driven back, leaving behind a considerable number of prisoners.

"Half an hour later the British launched an attack on the section of the trench held by the Germans. The battle raged for several hours, the attacking troops finally driving the enemy out and securing the whole position.

"The weather continues ideal, and the British are carrying out rapidly the work of consolidation throughout the front.

"Last evening the Germans made a local attack on an advanced British post northwest of the City of Lens after heavy artillery preparation, and pushed this post back to the British front line.

"Early today the enemy laid down a barrage fire on trenches east of Monchy, and also from Roeux to the chemical works for a short time, but thus far no infantry attack has been reported."

No British Attacks, Says Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 24, (via London.)—Violent artillery fighting in Flanders, both on the coast and in the Ypres salient, is reported from General Headquarters, but the British have made no fresh attacks, according to the following official statement:

Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht—In Flanders in the afternoon the artillery battle again increased to great violence on the coast and from Houthulst Wood to Westhoek. On the battlefront the fighting continued actively in the night and early morning There have been no fresh British attacks up to the present. The good effect of our artillery defense has been ascertained from the behavior of batteries which we bombarded, and also from the destruction of numerous munitions dumps.

Near Lens and St. Quentin, against whose cathedral the French continued their work of destruction by a fresh bombardment, the artillery activity was revived.

DOWN 8 GERMAN AIRPLANES.

British Force Six Others to Descend; Lose Three of Their Own.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—An official communication respecting aviation operations, issued tonight, says:

"On Sunday again there was a slight lull in the aerial operations, though our airplanes and balloons continued to observe for our artillery. Successful bombing raids also were undertaken, in the course of which the airplanes dropped 167 bombs on hostile billets, hutments, and airdromes.

"In the air fighting eight enemy machanes were brought down, and six were brought down out of control. Another machine was brought to earth on Saturday in addition to those already mentioned. Three of our machines are missing."

THE VIRGINIAN VICTIM OF U-BOAT ATTACK

Sailors Arriving at Halifax Tell New Version of Battle off Irish Coast—Say 8 Were Sunk.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 24.—The British steamship Virginian of 6,827 tons, formerly an Allan liner in transatlantic passenger trade, is said to have been one of the victims of the massed attack by German submarines on a convoyed fleet of British merchant vessels off the Irish coast early this month.

Persons arriving at an American port on Saturday brought word of this attack, their statements setting forth that five merchantmen and two convoying destroyers were sunk.

An officer on a steamship now in Halifax said that eight steamships, including his own, and not five, were destroyed, and that the Virginian, seriously damaged and in a sinking condition, managed to make the beach. The officer was unable to say definitely whether any U-boats were sunk by destroyers, as reported previously.

"We were scattered over quite an area and our ship had her own troubles in getting away," he said. "The destroyers were busy, however, and I am quite sure some of them got what they were aiming at."

In August, 1914, the Virginian was one of the first steamships to sail from Liverpool with Americans returning from European war zones. The vessel was one of the steamships which responded to the Titantic's wireless calls for aid, but arrived too late to be of assistance.

NEW HONOR TO HINDENBURG

Kaiser May Make Him Prince—Schools Will Celebrate Birthday.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Emperor William has decided that on Oct. 2, the seventieth birthday of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, addresses shall be delivered in all the schools in Germany by the teachers, who will emphasize to their pupils the value of the Field Marshal to the Fatherland, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam. Money is to be collected from the pupils on that day for the Hindenburg Fund for the Sick and Wounded.

It is said, adds the correspondent, that Emperor William will grant Hindenburg the title of Prince.

DEFENDS THE GERMAN NOTE

Asserts It Opens Way to Peace, Backed by Surety of the German People.

Germans Inspire Suggestion of Alfonso as Arbitrator

PARIS, Sept. 24.—News distributed to Spanish newspapers by German representatives, according to a dispatch to the Temps by way of the Spanish frontier, announces that German newspapers say the Pope intends to propose to the belligerents that King Alfonso of Spain act as arbitrator of the war. The German press is described as welcoming the suggestion.

"It appears, therefore," the dispatch adds, "that the Government at Berlin, seeing the wreckage of its manoeuvres through the Vatican, is pursuing other tactics by placing the King of Spain in the foreground of the peace movement."

BERLIN, Sept. 23, (via London, Sept. 24.)—In response to a request for his opinion of the German reply to the Pope's peace note, Maximilian Harden, editor of Die Zukunft, in a statement to The Associated Press today, prefaced his remarks with the reminder that every nation and every Government was more or less tradition-bound, none probably with tighter cords than Germany. Tradition, he said, heavily impeded any effort to break through the "terrifying charmed circle" with which the war's affictions encompassed Germany.

"The German reply," said Herr Harden, "is the first visible attempt to escape from this charmed circle, whose final obliteration is a preliminary condition to an enduring peace."

Herr Harden proceeded to say that the note reflected the honest and sincere will of the majority of the people as unequivocally expressed in the Reichstag resolution, adding:

"So far as lies in our power we want to stop the war and prevent the possibility of new wars by the cultivation of a new spirit, which will so completely impregnate international intercourse with ethical feeling that never again will humanity behold the day when force will strangle right."

Denying that the German people ever seriously intended to apply open or covert force to the people or Government of Belgium, he said:

"The words that were so construed were intended only to serve the purpose of war tactics, or sad necessity. Most eagerly do we desire to co-operate in the work of converting the misery and disgrace of this war into the turning point for a new epoch in which the sun will rise for the soul of mankind. That is the spirit and import of the German answer.

"The German Empire will now be told that its answer is not sincerely meant and that it is, in addition, a plain indication of the beginning of exhaustion. If in this most tragic hour of all human experience we are unable to rise above the unclean vapors of such little machinations, then we are indeed dwarfs in the presence of mighty fate.

"I am not given to adoration of my Government, yet my conscience commands me to say that the German Government in the full flush of military successes and in the exuberance of national strength in this hour has attempted the possible, and the unbending and determined will of the majority of the German people stands surety for that which the Government and the Reichstag majority have promised.

"I belong to that by no means small number who, despite misunderstanding and baiting on both sides, still believe in the lofty ethical seriousness of President Wilson. Tomorrow that seriousness of purpose can and must affirm itself. If I were President Wilson, and in bounden knowledge realized that the gap between the hostile camps was no longer wide enough to justify a continuation of the carnage, on any pretext I would tomorrow attempt to force a short armistice before the American and German soldiers meet on the battlefield.

"The purpose of this brief respite must be to establish whether, at last, the conscience of mankind everywhere has been aroused, and whether an understanding is possible which will lead to the birth of a new spirit, bringing us deliverance from the misery that now runs red with blood.

"All nations are abiding the advent of this spirit. So Germany, too, is abiding it without fear. Woe unto him who in this hour of fate fails in his duty toward this epitome of the union of mankind and the Godhead."

DICTATION TO GERMANY VAIN, SAYS GASPARRI

Suppose the Central Powers Demanded an Emperor for America, He Argues.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Sept. 24.—"The proposal of President Wilson to enforce democratic government in Germany is impractical," said Cardinal Gasparri, discussing the reply of the Central Empires to Pope Benedict's note. He added:

"You will understand the impossibility of any country submitting to foreign dictation in regard to its internal affairs. It is sufficient to imagine the situation reversed. Suppose the Central Empires insist that they will not conclude peace until England becomes a republic or, worse still, until America is ruled by an Emperor.

"This could only be obtained by force of arms, but the moment the last German soldier crossed the channel or embarked from America King George would be again the most popular ruler who ever existed, while Wilson would be elected President by universal acclamation.

"President Wilson's desire that the conditions agreed upon be guaranteed not only by the German Government but also by the German people is quite justifiable; in fact, I am satisfied that the conclusion of peace would be agreed to not only by the Kaiser and his Ministers, but also by the Reichstag, which represents the German people.

"In any case, if the fundamental principles proposed by the Pope and agreed upon by the Central Empires be accepted, the condition of civilized nations will be so changed that no Government will have the possibility of declaring or carrying on war without the consent of the people. In fact, a repetition of war will be extremely improbable. Accepting a reduction of armaments and international arbitration, all countries should abolish conscription, which is an essential factor of militarism, necessarily breeding war."

Commenting on the replies of the Central Powers to the Pope, the Giornale d'Italia says:

"The Pope had hoped to succeed in solving the questions of Trent, Trieste, and Alsace-Lorraine, but did not succeed in obtaining from the Central Empires any kind of promise or even a reference regarding Belgium. Thus there only remains to him an invective against the satanic pride of the two Emperors or prayer to the Almighty for the triumph of justice over barbarity. As to diplomatic notes, experience has proved it useless to waste time over them."

By The Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 23, (via London, Sept. 24.)—The entire Liberal press continues to attack the replies of Germany and Austria to the Pope's peace proposal as "a unique example of revolting cynicism."

The Corriere d'Italia has modified the tone of its comment from criticism to mild approval. It says that the replies, although "reticent to represent adhesion to the Papal proposals, can be considered as evidence of the success of the Pontifical initiative."

The same paper remarks that evolution is noticed in German public opinion toward peace, and that the movement toward a democratic government is not likely to be arrested.

DOUBTS GASPARRI INTERVIEW.

Washington Questions Authenticity of Statement Printed Sunday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Doubt was expressed at the State Department today as to the authenticity of the statement attributed to Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State in the interview printed on Sunday morning.

The department does not hold that the interview had no basis, but believes that some mistake was made. The interview referred to is the one in which the Cardinal was quoted as saying that "President Wilson's proposal to reduce armaments and impose international arbitration by force through a society of nations is a dream."

FEARS AMERICA'S ONSET.

Advocate of Middle-Europe Scheme Wants Peace Hastened.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 23, (via London, Sept. 24.)—Friedrich Naumann, who devised the middle Europe scheme, has an article in the Düsseldorf General Anzeiger, in which he gives away the reason why Germany is anxious to pretend to make concessions. He says:

"Europe should once more seriously consider if it cannot find a way to peace on its own account before in the fourth year of the war America completes the preparation of her armies."

Professor Naumann, who is a member of the Reichstag, is the chief sponsor of the theory that Germany and Austria must become the nucleus for a combination of the European Continent against the British Empire and the United States. His anxiety to see the war ended before America launches her armies against the Teutons is thus intelligible.

It seems likely that Germany's reply to the Pope was dictated partly by recognition, at last, of the fact that America means business.

FINDS "COWARDICE" IN NOTE.

Germany Fears to Admit Wrong, Says Manchester Guardian.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The Manchester Guardian considers that the German reply is not strictly an answer to the Pope's appeal for peace. The Guardian says:

"We are sorry to say it, but we find a good deal of moral and political cowardice in the note. There was only one way by which Germany could convince the world of the sincerity of her return to the humanities, and that was by explaining why she deserted them and what atonement she meant to offer. That would have been the brave thing to do, but Germany hasn't done it."

The Guardian draws the conclusion that Germany's rulers desire peace with a passionate intensity, declaring "we must help the German people, so far as it is possible for us, in their struggle with their Government," and concludes:

"But we must beware of rallying the forces of the enemy by language that will help the Government to identify itself with the interests of Germany and her people, which they so shamefully mismanaged."

TEUTONIC NOTES REVISED.

References to Territorial Questions Were Cut, Milan Learns.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Sept. 24.—According to information obtained direct from Vatican sources, the definite texts of the Austrian and German replies to the Papal note respond only in an incomplete manner to the summaries of the notes with which the Pope had been favored beforehand. The sections dealing with specific territorial questions mooted by the Pontiff were suppressed shortly before publication under the pressure of the supreme military command.

The Giornale d'Italia learns that while Cardinal Gasparri makes no secret of his pessimism respecting the opportuneness of further action at present, Benedict XV. is about to make verbal approaches to the Central Powers through the Papal nuncios at Vienna and Munich for the purpose of ascertaining whether the respective Governments indorse his particular proposals relating to the reconstitution of Poland and Belgium, and further as to their attitude toward the problem of Alsace-Lorraine.

ATTACKS LAUDATION OF KAISER

Newspaper Predicts Rejoinders on His Peace Record.

ZURICH, Sept. 24.—In its comment on the German reply to Pope Benedict, the Munich Post (Socialist) protests against half of the German answer being devoted to the attitude of Emperor William. The Emperor, it sets forth, is constitutionally only the President of the German Confederation, and when the note says that the German people stand behind the Emperor in the desire for peace it is reversing the situation, as the people stand before the Emperor.

It is not a matter of indifference, either, continues the Post, that the person of the Emperor should be pushed to the foreground.

"We all know very well his declarations on the peace question," it says, "but we also know that during the twenty-eight years of his reign he made utterances extremely disconcerting to foreign nations. Thanks to the small cleverness shown in the composition of this part of the note, it is tolerably certain that the foreign Governments will dwell upon these utterances."

The Post deplores the fact that a number of men in "high and royal" positions have begun an agitation against peace, and that instead of being energetically disavowed by the highest quarters they have been thanked for their attitude.

Two Paris Hotels for Our Men.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The American Army Y. M. C. A. has leased the Hôtel Richmond, just off the main boulevards, and it will be opened on Oct. 1, as a combination officers' clubhouse and hotel. The Hôtel du Pavillon, which was opened recently for enlisted men, is now accepting soldiers attached to the departments here, but later it will be devoted exclusively to men on leave in Paris.

CHEMISTS PLEDGED TO HELP WIN WAR

Dr. C. H. Herty Says High Explosives Must Increase Faster Than Our Man Power.

NO TIME TO BE LOST

Tells American Chemical Society Its Ablest Members Are Gathered for the Fight.

Speaking yesterday at the opening session of the Third National Exposition of Chemical Industries held in the Grand Central Palace, Dr. Charles H. Herty, Chairman of the Exposition Advisory Committee, and a former President of the American Chemical Society, sounded the keynote of this year's convention when he declared that in the war emergency the chemists of the United States were called in a very special sense to the nation's service, "and to that service the good fath and untiring zeal of the American chemist is pledged."

Chemists from all parts of the United States and Canada, and men affiliated with every branch of the chemical and allied fields were present at yesterday's opening. It was estimated that nearly 25,000 chemists, manufacturers, and scientists will be in New York this week to attend the exposition and listen to addresses by men who are rapidly putting the United States in the foremost rank as a producer of basic and finished war chemicals and chemicals for the industries and dyestuffs. There was much private discussion among the members regarding recent inventions in the chemical field which are being utilized by the American army and navy, but one of the leading officials of the exposition said that no publicity could be given them at this time.

Dr. Herty, who was introduced by Dr. Charles F. Roth, manager of the exposition and Secretary of the New York section of the American Chemical Society, said in part:

Protect Army with High Explosives.

"The services of the chemist to the nation in these unusual times has been prompt, efficient, and lasting. Our soldiers soon to enter battle should be protected by the most lavish use possible of high explosives. Every possible pound of high explosive that this country can produce should be manufactured and transported to the European battlefields. Trench warfare has met its master in high explosives. The terrible sacrifice of life can be lessened by the curtain of artillery fire.

"There is no time to lose. High explosives must keep pace, nay, must increase faster than our man power. When writing out my address I did it by gaslight, and I hated the thought that I was burning gas which contains toluene, every trace of which should be on its way to Europe in the form of trinitrotoluol.

"Within the ranks of that army now being formed for battling in the cause of freedom are many of our young chemists—some from the industries, some the seniors, and graduates from the universities. At Princeton all are gone, at the University of North Carolina every senior chemical engineer has enlisted. At the Massachusetts Institute of Technology the new course in chemical engineering has been abandoned until after the war, because all of the advanced men, who prepared to enter the course this Fall, have enlisted, and so it goes all over the land."

Dr. Herty said that the battle for national self-containedness in that portion of the line held by the American chemist was progressing favorably. It was not yet won, he said, but many heights had been conquered, many formidable streams crossed, and the open plains of full national service were almost in sight. The exposition, increasing in magnitude each year by 100 per cent. of its original size, constituted the bulletin by which the nation was informed of the progress made.

"In the centre," Dr. Herty continued, "the advance up the steep slopes of 'capitalization' has been marked. In 1915 there was added to the chemical industries $65,565,000, in 1916 $99,244,000, and in 1917 up to Sept. 1 $65,861,000, a total gain of $230,670,000. On the extreme right the forces of 'empiricism' have steadily yielded ground to the advances of our research chemists. More and more called upon for utmost effort, they have never failed to respond. On the left flank a steadily increasing force of the ablest American chemists is being gathered to capture the hill of 'obsoletism of army equipment' and is providing the great armies we are now raising with the most efficient forms of modern chemical means for both offensive and defensive warfare.

Propagandists Have Failed.

"On the right centre the terrain of 'Congressional apathy' has been partly won, as typified by favorable protective legislation for our dyestuff industry and by the guarding of the all-important electrochemical industries at Niagara Falls from power shortage, due to lapsing legislation. On the left centre the quagmire plains of "public indifference" have been largely dried and made passable through the clearing skies of a sympathetic daily press, which has constantly emphasized the value to the independence of the nation of a full-rounded chemical industry. Finally, the counterattacks of subtle propaganda against the ability of American chemists and the worthiness of our products, such as American dyestuffs, have ingloriously failed. The optimism engendered by such splendid progress will prove, however, a curse, indeed, if it leads us to overlook two features of the present situation."

Dr. Charles F. Roth, the presiding officer, in his opening remarks called attention to the fact that chemistry had swayed the balance of power among nations, had revolutionized warfare, and made its ends more destructive and conquests more rapid. It had, in fact, he asserted, transformed the entire industrial life of the United States and established the nation in the foremost rank of the industrial nations of the world. Continuing, Dr. Roth said:

"A noted German chemist once said America was the natural home of the coal tar industry. We are proving that now, and building to make it permanently so. Not only of this industry is this true, but of all other chemical industries. Our raw materials have in the past been exported and returned to us in the manufactured form in which we used them.

"The exposition has done, and is doing much to further the development of a complete cycle of domestic chemical industries. It will this year inspire us to greater feeling of security for the future, showing that many fields are now efficiently producing and that we shall be in good position to not only fill all domestic needs, but to meet foreign competition in distant lands where a trade for the products of our chemical industries is already developed."

Recent Achievements of Chemists.

Julius Stieglitz, President of the American Chemical Society, said:

"Every cloud has its silver lining, and even the great black cloud of war which has been oppressing the world these three years has been penetrated here and there by bright rays of good accomplished. One of these brighter effects of the disaster, so far as this country is concerned, has been the influence of the war on our chemical industries. Facing the necessity not only of very greatly expanding their output, but also of developing many new products and of making older products of a far higher grade in quality than ever before, our American industries, as evidenced by the three great expositions held in this place, have met and conquered one great problem after the other. We may confidently expect, and indeed we must insist, that out of this period of forced effort we shall emerge independent of all foreign nations in regard to our ability to supply the basic chemical needs of our country, not only in quantity but also in quality.

"As a single instance of the progress these years have witnessed in a field we must continue to hold after the war, let me recall the dismay of our universities—and, I am sure, also of our industrial laboratories—when early in 1915 we saw the supplies of Jena glass and of other finer glass cut off. Yet today we are manufacturing in the United States glassware as good as, if not, indeed, superior to, the German brands we thought we never could do without. When the war is over, no matter how fierce trade competitions may be, we must see to it that our new industries survive, that we do not relapse into our old dependence on European sources for almost every article in which quality, highest quality, is essential."

"In the heat of effort of these years only the most urgent and immediate of our needs have been met. Some of these results still depend for their stability upon war conditions; they are still too liable to collapse when the world returns to its normal life and trade is free once more. In this situation, fraught with magnificent possibilities for much greater chemical achievements, but also with great dangers for the permanency of some of the American chemical industries, the American Chemical Society, for which I am speaking, sees its opportunity of being of new and still greater service to the country. Including in its membership of more than 10,000 the great majority of leading technical chemists as well as practically all the foremost men of the chemistry staffs of our universities and colleges, the society is in a position to render service in any branch of chemistry, service that will be expert and at the same time judicial and unbiased in its spirit.

"Thus, the society, influenced by the conviction that our national welfare demands independence in dye manufacturing, was active in aiding the movement to secure a much needed measure of protection by duties on dyes. Then, at the invitation of the Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, the American Chemical Society, through its advisory committee, a few months ago recommended the name of an expert on chemical schedules, Dr. Grinnell Jones, who is now working with the commission on the task of placing the tariff on a scientific, non-political basis. The society recently urged upon the Secretary of Commerce that standard chemicals and reagents are as essential for successful work, for the saving of wasted effort, in chemical industries, as are standardized weights, measures, and gauges in other industries. With the approval of Secretary Redfield the Bureau of Standards, with the co-operation of a committee of the American Chemical Society, has now started this important work.

"Then, our appeal in Kansas City to the women of the country to refrain from the purchase or acceptance of platinum jewelry had its immediate effect; within a few days thereafter the jewelers' representatives in conference with the Secretary of Commerce agreed not to use the precious metal for heavy articles, thus making a larger proportion of it available for the industries. According to the latest information that has come to me, the price of platinum has at last begun to recede somewhat instead af continuing the steady rise which its extravagant use in jewelry brought about and which put a burden equivalent to a duty of several hundred per cent. on a vital necessity of our scientific and industrial laboratories.

Has Full Confidence in Situation.

"I have the fullest confidence that if the situation should remain intolerable, we shall have the support of the Government in taking much more stringent measures to protect chemical industries and scientific work, so vital to our nation's life, against a use that is after all a matter of a mere luxury. Further, at the instance of the American Chemical Society and in co-operation with a committee of the society, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has started the compilation of as complete information as it can secure for the guidance of our industries in regard to the chemical needs of manufacturers, the sources of supply of crude and finished products and the relation of the various products to one another and to specific industries. Thanks to the efforts of the able editor of our industrial journal, Dr. Herty, a large fund has been raised to make possible this co-operation of the society with the Government in this important work, and if the Chairman of our committee, Dr. B. C. Hesse, has his strenuous way, the work will be a model of thoroughness and usefulness.

"I have mentioned these instances of the activities of the American Chemical Society in order to emphasize that the society would cordially welcome any appeals made to it by industries needing support of one kind or another. We are now organized for quick and effective action—in matters of legislation and policy through the President's Advisory Committee, in matters of research through our affiliation with the National Research Council, all of whose active members in chemical fields are also active members of our society. If such appeals or suggestions are received they will receive prompt and earnest consideration, and, if necessary, they will be looked into by committees of experts not only with that fair, judicial spirit which science develops in its devotees, but also with that sympathy and consideration which the service of our country instills into her sons. Final action will then follow with that fearlessness and energy which a good cause always warrants, and which we trust will always be truly in the interest of the American chemical industry."

Importance of Electrochemistry.

Dr. Colin G. Fink, President of the American Electrochemical Society, said in part:

"Never before in the history of electrochemistry has the vast importance of the various electrochemical products been so forcibly brought to the attention of our Government and of our people as in the present year of the great war. Take from this country the electrochemical industry, with its numerous and diversified manufactures, and the martial strength of our country is hopelessly crippled. Think of the hundreds of machine shops that are utterly dependent on the electrochemical abrasives, carborundum and alundum! Think of the thousands of rifles and guns turned out every month with the aid of high-speed steel made from electric ferro alloys! Think of the millions of pounds of electrolytic copper that are absolutely essential for our electrical apparatus! There is the airplane, whose light, strong stays are made from the electrochemical metals aluminium and magnesium; there is liquid chlorine, a product of the electrolytic cell and basis of the Carrel-Dakin method of treating the wounds of our heroes; there is electrolytic hydrogen, used in all of our scout and observation balloons, and there are numberless electric alloys entering into the composition of nearly every item of the Government's vast military equipment."

Dr. G. W. Thompson, President of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, also spoke.

Today's program includes a meeting of the National Research Board, which will take the form of an executive session. At 2 o'clock Dr. Alexander Silverman of the University of Pittsburgh will give a lecture on glass manufacture. In the evening there will be a meeting in the auditorium, and the speakers will be Dr. M. T. Bogert, Chairman of the Chemical Committee of the National Research Council; Dr. F. W. Taussig, Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, and Dr. Grinnell Jones, chemist of the commission.

TIES WITH JAPAN STRONGER.

Lansing Says Conversations with Ishii Have Been Most Satisfactory.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The Japanese War Mission has practically concluded its work here and will leave Washington this week. Secretary Lansing today lauded the work of the mission, and indicated that the conferences had been successful. He refrained, however, from making any disclosures regarding the specific results accomplished. In response to inquiries as to the conferences between himself and Viscount Ishii, the Secretary of State said:

"The conversations with Viscount Ishii have been of a most satisfactory character, and I think his visit to this country has been most helpful in benefiting the relations between the two countries and in strengthening the bonds of friendship."

This is the only utterance that the Secretary of State has made regarding the work of the Japanese mission, but it is considered extremely significant.

The Japanese will go to New York on Sept. 27, where they will occupy the home of Judge Elbert H. Gary. On the following day there will be a luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce, and on the evening of Sept. 28 a reception will be held by the Japanese Society. The members of the mission will go to West Point on Sept. 29.

M. Nagai of the Japanese Foreign Office and Colonel Tanikawa, both of whom are attached to the mission, left tonight for Pittsburgh where, as representatives of Viscount Ishii, they will place a wreath on the tomb of the late American Ambassador Guthrie, who died last year in Japan. The New American Ambassador to Japan, Mr. Morris, called on Viscount Ishii today.

GERMAN FUGITIVES CAUGHT.

Escaped Prisoners from England Picked Up in North Sea.

Officers of a Norwegian steamship which arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port from England said that the German prisoners interned in the camps in the north of England and Scotland were continually making attempts to escape in boats from the east coast and some of them had reached Germany, while others had landed in Norway.

When the steamship was crossing the North Sea on Sept. 3 a British destroyer had just captured six German prisoners, members of submarine crews, who had escaped from a camp near Berwick. They had crossed the border into Northumberland, stolen a boat from a fishing village in a fog, and got safely away to sea.

The boat had plenty of provisions and water, the Norwegian officers said, and the Germans had four revolvers, two hunting knives, and two flashlights. They would have reached the mouth of the Elbe in another day if a trawler had not sighted them and given their position to the destroyer, which was on patrol duty.

KAISER ADDRESSES TROOPS.

Not Germans' Fault if War Continues, He Says in Rumania.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Emperor William, says a Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam, has visited the battlefields in Rumania and inspected the troops which took part in the campaign in Transylvania and Rumania in the Autumn of 1916. These troops are now on the Moldavian battle front.

Addressing the troops, Emperor William spoke of the worldwide historical importance of this fighting, which he said was also of great importance economically for the home lands. The Emperor concluded with the declaration that "if war was to continue it was not the Germans' fault."

FIND AGED EDITOR DEAD WITH PISTOL

Body of C. W. Sweet, Founder of Record and Guide, Lay in Bed.

NURSE DID NOT HEAR SHOT

He Was Head of Great Overall Company and Also Owned the Architectural Record.

Clinton W. Sweet, head of Sweet-Orr & Co., Inc., manufacturers of overalls, and founder and editor of the Record and Guide, a New York City real estate paper, and of the Architectural Record, was found dead in bed at his Yonkers home on Old Jerome Avenue yesterday morning. A bullet from a revolver which he held in his hand had passed through his head. Coroner Egle investigated and the death certificate gave "probable suicide" as the cause of death. He will continue the investigation, however.

Mr. Sweet, who was about 75 years of age, had been suffering for several months from a nervous disorder. He had been under the treatment of a New York specialist and was attended during the last few weeks by a trained nurse. It was about 8:30 A. M. when the nurse, Miss Alice McDevitt, went into the patient's room on the second floor and discovered him dead in bed. Miss McDevitt notified other members of the household, who, instead of notifying the police, telephoned to Dr. C. Albertson Bennett, of 257 Warburton Avenue. The latter informed the coroner some time afterward. A son of the deceased went to Yonkers and conveyed the coroner to the house to conduct the investigation. The coroner expressed the belief that the man had been dead several hours when his body was found.

No one in the house had heard the report of the pistol, it was stated, although the nurse slept in an adjoining room. She told the coroner that at about 5 o'clock she had heard heavy breathing from the patient's room but did not get up to attend him. Mr. Sweet had intended going to Atlantic City today with his nurse and a valet. His son, Reginald Lindsay Sweet, was in the house at the time but did not hear the report. It was said today that the elder Mr. Sweet had been much better lately and the family scouted the theory of suicide. He had been in the habit for years of keeping a revolver under his pillow, and it was the belief of members of the family that the shooting was accidental.

Mr. Sweet was born at Wappingers Falls, N. Y., on Dec. 16, 1842. In 188 he founded the Record and Guide. At about the same time he also started the Architectural Record. It was in 1871 that he, with his brother, C. E. Sweet, and James A. Orr, founded the overall manufacturing business which has since grown from six workers to eight large factories and thousands of employes. At the age of 42 years, he married Miss Helen Clark Adams, who lived only six years. About the time of his marriage Mr. Sweet purchased the 42-acre place in Dunwoodie where he had spent his Summers ever since. Surviving are two sons, Reginald and Stanley A. Sweet. Mr. Sweet was a member of the Union League Club, the Lotos Club, New York Merchants' Association, the Arkwright Club and Dunwoodie Golf Club.

AWAIT BARNARD'S LINCOLN.

British Leave Criticism of Statue to the American Committee.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Art circles here are startled by the cabled criticisms of the Barnard statue of Lincoln which is to be erected here as a gift in commemoration of the hundred years of peace between England and the United States.

The British Government is providing a magnificent site near the House of Lords.

The question of the artistic character of the statue is held to be one for the American committee to consider, not the British authorities, whose only desire is to commemorate Lincoln worthily.

TELEGRAPHERS ON STRIKE.

Men Employed by Great Northwestern Co. of Canada Quit Work.

TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 24.—Operators of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company from Calgary to Montreal are on strike today following meetings yesterday in which secret ballots were taken, all said to be in favor of a walk-out.

S. J. Konenkamp of Chicago, International President of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, is here in charge of the strike.

Reports have reached here from Montreal that virtually all the operators, linemen, and automatic operators in the eastern district have joined the strike. It was said the strikers would offer their services to the Government to prevent a tieup of telegraphic service to such points as depend wholly on the Great Northern Company.

STEEL PRICES CUT A HALF OR MORE

Industries Board for placing orders and supervising the output of the steel mills in such manner as to facilitate and expedite the requirements of the Government and its allies for war purposes, and to supply the needs of the public according to their public importance and in the best interest of all, as far as practicable.

A spirit of co-operation was manifested by the steel men, and no doubt is entertained that every effort will be made to bring the production as nearly as possible up to the extraordinary demands resulting from the war.

Needs for Ships Come First.

The steel mills of the United States, according to an estimate made today, are able at this time to turn out about 2,800,000 tons of ship plates a year and every effort will be made to increase this production. Out of the total the needs of the Emergency Fleet Corporation for its great fleet of merchant ships and of the Navy Department will be taken first. The other industries and other countries will get such consignments as they can obtain from the surplus.

As the agreement on steel prices was reached on a voluntary basis, it is believed that the various branches of the industry such as United States Steel and Bethlehem, which control a large part of the raw materials, will co-operate closely with the Government in order to enforce the prices for raw materials, as decided upon. By the time contracts now in existence have expired in all branches of the industries involved, it is believed that the market will be so stabilized that maximum production will continue.

The fight for cheaper steel has been long drawn out and contributed largely to the differences of opinion between William Denman, former Chairman of the Shipping Board, and Major Gen. George W. Goethals, who resigned as General Manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Denman was fighting for steel around $50, according to one report, while General Goethals was willing to pay as high as $85 if maximum production and rapidity of delivery were promised. The steel interests balked at the Denman figure.

The price of $6 fixed for coke by the President today led to a belief that there might be a readjustment upward in some of the soft coal schedules. Several of the coal operators held that $2 bituminous coal and $6 coke was not an equitable arrangement.

In connection with the question of priority, announcement was made of the complete committee which will have charge of this work in rushing war orders. Judge Lovett is Chairman, and the other members are Major Gen. J. B. Aleshire, George Armsby, Rear Admiral N. E. Mason, Edwin B. Parker, J. Leonard Replogle, and Rear Admiral A. V. Zane. R. T. Demsey is Executive Secretary.

Details of Priority Plan.

The announcement of the board's plans through the Committee on Public Information reads in part:

Under these regulations all orders and work are divided into three classes:

Class A comprises war work—that is to say, orders and work urgently necessary in carrying on the war, such as arms, ammunition, ships, &c., and the materials required in their manufacture.

Class B comprises orders and work which, while not primarily designed for the prosecution of the war, yet are of public interest and essential to the national welfare, or otherwise of exceptional importance.

Class C comprises all orders and work not embraced in Class A or Class B.

All orders henceforth will be classed as Class C, unless covered by certificates of the Priorities Committee. No certificates will be issued for Class C orders.

Orders and work in Class A will take precedence over those in Class B, and both these classes will be given priority over Class C, irrespective of the date the orders were received. Class A and Class B will, in turn, be separated into subdivisions to be designated as Class A1, A2, A3, A4, &c., and Class B1, B2, B3, B4, &c., each composed of orders within the class which are regarded respectively as of greater moment and to be given precedence in accordance with the serial number. All materials required in the manufacture of an article or in the prosecution of any work will be entitled to take the class of such article or work unless otherwise specified.

Secretary Daniels said he was satisfied with the new prices for the future, as the public will share in them.

PRICES ARE FAIR, SAYS GARY.

Steelmakers Aim at Maximum Output with Present Wages.

Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, summed up the opinions of steel makers in regard to the Government's findings on steel prices in this statement yesterday:

"The base prices for iron ore, pig iron, and the leading steel productions in which the Government is especially interested, as fixed by the President, while much lower than the prevailing market prices and considerably below the expectations of manufacturers, yet, taking everything into consideration, I believe are fair and reasonable, and come within the conditions named by the President in his proclamation issued last June.

"These prices were probably made in accordance with the recommendation of the War Industries Board, which gave a patient hearing to the steel representatives and made an exhaustive study of the whole subject. While the manufacturers may feel a sense of disappointment they, nevertheless, appreciate the courteous and frank treatment on the part of the board, and they will cheerfully acquiesce and do everything possible to maintain production to the maximum as long as the war continues; and they will not decrease the wages of their workmen under present conditions."

Judge Gary spoke as President of the American Iron and Steel Institute. He headed a committee of the institute which presented the views of the steel trade to the War Industries Board, the final conference between the two bodies taking place last Saturday.

E. A. S. Clarke, President of the Lackawanna Steel Company, and also a member of the Iron and Steel Institute committee, said that the prices were fair, and added that now that uncertainty over Government action was over, the producers were in position to go ahead under full speed.

"The steelmakers are now able to cut their cloth to fix the measure," he stated, "and while the prices are not as much as were expected in some quarters, still they are high enough to enable the producers to maintain output at current levels. Steel men have the opportunity of 'doing their bit' in keeping production on a scale great enough to win the war. That is the most important thing.

"There are, perhaps, old steel plants whose production costs are so high that not much profit can be made at the prices named by the President, and there also are plants which have been reopened after long idleness in order to take advantage of the high prices of the last two years, whose operations may be adversely affected. But taking the industry as a whole, I should say that the return promised by the fixed prices was satisfactory."

Steel men seen in the financial district said that in the absence of full details of the President's announcement they were not able to estimate the effect of the finding on semi-finished products not mentioned in the Washington dispatches. It was believed that existing contracts would not be disturbed, and as numerous companies are heavily booked in certain lines until late next year, and even into 1919, at much higher prices than those now in force, it is evident that earnings will not show for some time the effect of the new price schedule.

A problem in this connection arises in connection with steel sold for export. The embargo on shipments to neutral countries is affecting a big tonnage, much of which will probably be resold here if the owners are not able to get the steel delivered.

Compared with current prices and those of the last three years the President's quotations show a marked decline in case of the major products. This table shows the changes, pig iron and coke being in gross tons, and the others in hundredweights. The quotations for the three years are, average prices, Pittsburgh basis:

	Present Prices.	1916.	1914.	Fixed Prices.
Pig iron....	$45.00	$24.00	$14.00	$33.00
Coke	18.00	4.78	2.32	6.00
Steel bars..	4.25	2.48	1.15	2.90
Steel plates.	8.00	2.82	1.14	3.25
Shapes	4.50	2.50	1.16	3.00

The marking down of prices for pig iron and coke, according to steel makers, will be a distinct advantage to small steel manufacturers who have had heavy costs to meet for iron and fuel. Presumably, billets, blooms and other finished material are to be lowered proportionally to the finished goods, and this will also help the producer who has to buy most of the products for working up in his mills.

The stock market reflected sharply in the last hour of business the final establishment of fixed prices for steel. After a period of hesitation, when initial dispatches were received from Washington on the President's announcement, prices moved irregularly, but advanced with vigor before the close. Steel common gained 2 points, Lackawanna 2¼, Republic Iron and Steel, 2⅝, Crucible 1, Bethlehem Steel Class B 2⅝, Great Northern Ore 2⅛, Midvale Steel and Superior Steel 2 points New York Central rose 1¼, Union Pacific 1⅛, and Baldwin Locomotive 4¼ with many other issues rising from 1 to nearly 3 points. An improvement of sentiment toward securities was generally evident in the Street, which supplemented the increase of optimism that followed the fixing of the price for copper last week.

Pittsburgh Mills to Readjust.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24.—Pittsburgh's iron and steel industries today received with calmness news of the Government's price-fixing on commodities affecting the manufacture of finished steel. The expected shock did not materialize and the stock markets interpreted the prices as "favorable."

While none of the heads of steel concerns here would give out a statement, it was said in circles connected with the independent steel industry that the Government's prices, as a matter of course, would go into effect on all orders booked between this time and Jan. 1, on which date another revision of prices may be made in accordance with the Government's decision that if present price-fixing does not satisfy requirements or assure a reasonable profit for the manufacturers the prices will be changed again.

Coke prices, as fixed by the Government, may cause a greater stir than the steel prices. It was admitted that the new rate of $6 a net ton on coke would help the steel mills, as cheaper fuel means a great deal in the manufacture of finished iron and steel. The question was raised whether sufficient coke would be manufactured, since it requires approximately two tons of coal to make one tone of coke, and there is an additional expense for labor in the making of coke. The coal price of $2 a ton at the mine on bituminous would show, it was explained, that the coke would cost $4 a ton for the product, not counting the expense of labor, carrier charges, and operating expenses. Therefore, it was stated, there may have to be another revision of coke prices before that industry can operate on a satisfactory basis.

Chicago Satisfied with Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—So satisfactory are the prices fixed for iron and steel products that Western steel makers are convinced the announcement will be followed almost immediately by a marked revival in business, writes the financial editor of The Chicago Herald. Many industrial concerns, pending the investigation by the Federal Trade Commission of steel prices, refrained from making commitments for their steel requirements until definite announcements had been made.

Those engaged in steel making and in the selling end of the business in the West are well satisfied with the prices. Not only do they regard them as affording a satisfactory profit to the mills, but as fair to the consumer.

L. E. Block, Vice President of the Inland Steel Company, said:

"The steel and iron prices fixed by the Government are considerably below those prevailing, but I imagine that under all the circumstances the steel manufacturers will be fairly well satisfied with them. All steel manufacturers have on their books a very large number of unfilled orders taken at the higher prices. These contracts will stand.

"Buyers who have contracted for iron or steel at the higher prices must accept delivery at those prices, but I do not believe this will be productive of any serious inconvenience."

Wage Increase for 15,000 Steel Workers.

JOHNSTOWN, Penn., Sept. 24.—Fifteen thousand steel workers, employes of the Cambria Steel Company and the Lorain Steel Company here were today notified that effective Oct. 1 their wages would be increased 10 per cent.

CALLS ON BANKERS TO FORGET WAR GAIN

P. W. Goebel Declares Only the Needs of Government Must Be Considered Now.

READY FOR BIG CONVENTION

Leading Financiers of Nation Will Speak at Atlantic City— 3,000 Delegates Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 24.—The American Bankers' Association today held the preliminary meetings of its convention to discuss a policy of co-operation with the Government in the successful prosecution of the war. All the financial recources of the nation, including the Federal Reserve Banks, are practically mobilized in this great organization, which speaks for 17,400 members, 7,700 national banks, and 20,000 State and private banks, whose channels of credits which may be drawn on cover North and South America. In mobilized capital they have at their command $16,000,000,000. About 3,000 delegates are expected to answer the urgency call of the convention.

Experts of the various departments of Governmental activity who will deal with the questions of financing the war, the distribution of food, and financial encouragement of farmers will be heard. Among the long list of speakers are W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, Lord Northcliffe, Chairman of the British Mission, and Basil P. Blackett, special representative of the British Treasury; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University; General W. F. Thayer, Governor W. P. G. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland, former American Ambassador to France, and Governor Walter Edge of New Jersey.

The big questions of the convention are a proposed campaign for saving and the coming Liberty Loan. Delegates point out that the savings must be tripled in order to provide funds to carry on the war. The expenses of the first year are estimated about eighteen billions of dollars, in contrast to the ordinary savings in peace times of five billions a year. A variety of plans will be put before the country with a plain statement of fact of what the people will have to do to get funds. The banks have proffered their services as agencies to look after the encouragement of thrift in their own communities. This discussion will be opened at the meeting tomorrow at the opening of the convention of the Savings Bank Section.

"Let us be practical and patriotic," P. W. Goebel of Kansas City, Kansas, President of the association declared in his opening address today. "The bane of America, especially in war times, is waste. Check it. Bankers must avoid arousing dissatisfaction in these times. Let us do our duty and not make it possible for any one to say of American bankers that they profited by the war. We all must think of nothing else but war needs. War today is the nation's principal business to be developed, and it must become the business of all."

Representatives from Washington today urged the bankers to spread community interest in the food problems. It was made clear that the Government alone could not stimulate domestic food production sufficiently to keep the American people from going hungry in these times, and the aid of the delegates was solicited as powerful influences at home. Increased production, conservation, and substitution were the central points of their messages.

The increased use of perishable vegetables and poultry instead of cereals and red meats was advocated by G. H. Powell, representing Food Administrator Hoover, as the ships now going to Europe could carry only cereals and beef to the Allies. He declared that the food problem could not be solved unless the people co-operated with the Government's suggestions.

The urgent necessity for the American people to substitute other cereals in place of wheat for their food was urged by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Pierson, who pointed out that, while the estimated production of wheat was 700,000,000 bushels, the estimated American consumption was 640,000,000 bushels and that 500,000,000 bushels must go to our allies to enable them to continue the war. The use of other cereals than wheat, he said, should be continued until the estimated yield of 1,000,000,000 bushels in the harvest in 1918.

"Prices of perishable vegetables were kept down last Summer to an increase of only 21 per cent. because of the hundreds of thousands of war gardens planted throughout the country," said Charles Lathrop Pack, President of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, in contrast with the much greater advance in the prices of other foods.

"The farmer is the best friend the country has," said Mr. Pack, "and the more quickly we find it out the better. If he is prosperous, you bankers and all the rest of us are prosperous. The thing for you to do is to get together and smash the cornerstone of high prices. The man who is carrying the ball in this game of supplying food to the world is the city farmer who, as a result of the country-wide campaign the National Emergency Food Garden Commission has been conducting, has planted 3,000,000 food gardens during the year.

"His work is of double value, because he has produced $350,000,000 worth of food free on board, kitchen door. He has tackled Mr. Middleman, thrown him for a loss, and is driving him back from the goal of high prices. Now, with a flying wedge of the banker and farmer to help, a touchdown for conservation is certain. Your part, Mr. Banker, is to work with the farmer. Aid him over the rough spots so that he can produce more foodstuffs than ever before. Wake up to the fact that this country is at war. This is not child's play. This is not a parlor game or the annual manoeuvres. It is war, and we can now paraphrase Sherman by saying, 'War is supplies.'"

The Executive Committee of the American Bankers' Association today authorized a committee of three members to work with similar committees of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and National Association of Credit Men to bring about the wider use of trade acceptance to convert national commercial credits into usable form. This suggestion was made last week at the war convention of American business.

TAMMANY TO OMIT HYLAN RATIFICATION

Quiet Work for Nominee for Mayor Will Take the Place of Redfire and Music.

HOPES TO WIN WITH HIM

Independent Organizations Busy in Arranging Demonstrations of Indorsement.

Tammany Hall will burn no red fire and provide no band music for the glorification of the candidates on the Tammany Hall-Democratic fusion ticket this year. There will be no rally at Tammany Hall.

Tammany's ratification has been a feature of every State and municipal campaign as far as the memory of men now in politics can travel back. It has been the great opening event of every campaign. In the Wigwam in Fourteenth Street the heaviest guns of the campaign heretofore have been unlimbered. And orators have harrangued crowds at overflow meetings.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, Chairman of the General Committee of Tammany Hall, said yesterday that no arrangements were being made to ratify the nomination of Judge John F. Hylan and his associates on the Tammany Fusion ticket, at Tammany Hall. Nor did Senator Wagner hold out any prospect that arrangements would be made for a rally at the Wigwam before the campaign ends.

"We have not been in the habit of holding those meetings recently," said the Senator sadly.

It is a fact, nevertheless, that Tammany held a ratification meeting for President Wilson, whom Tammany did not like, last year. Judge Samuel Seabury, who was the Democratic candidate for Governor, and who likewise was disliked by the Tammany crowd, did not get a look-in on this ratification, for the simple reason that it was held before the Democratic primaries had returned its verdict in favor of the Judge.

In 1906, when William R. Hearst was a candidate for Governor, Tammany ratified his nomination by a meeting at the Wigwam, where enough redfire was burned to dim the glare of all preceding campaigns.

Remembering all these things politicians did not receive the report that Tammany was going to omit the opening event of its campaign as an indication that the heart of Tammany does not throb for Hylan. Questions put to Tammany leaders readily disclose the fact that Tammany is not only fond of Hylan, but hopes to make him the next Mayor of New York City. Tammany, as a matter of fact, looks forward to a Hylan administration with more pleasant anticipation than it has looked forward to the administration of any Democratic Mayor since the days of Robert A. Van Wyck.

But the Tammany leaders have reached the conclusion that it will help Judge Hylan and the other candidates on the Tammany ticket if Tammany keeps in the background until after the last ballot has been counted on Election Day. Tammany has determined to conduct a gumshoe campaign, and to leave it to the Democratic Fusion Committee, the Business Men's Association, and other "independent" organizations promoting the prospects of their candidates to disport themselves in the limelight.

The independent Hylan organizations are exceedingly busy at present. Three large "demonstrations" in Judge Hylan's honor are being planned by the Brooklyn Business Men's League. One will be held at the Labor Lyceum in that borough.

The first meeting of the Tammany Hall Speakers' Bureau will be held this evening at the Wigwam. Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen on the Tammany-Democratic Fusion ticket, will tell the prospective campaign orators what they must and must not talk about on the stump. John W. Keller, who was Commissioner of Charities and Correction under Mayor Van Wyck's administration, will be head of the Speakers' Bureau.

It was announced yesterday that the Real Estate Men's League for Hylan, of which former State Tax Commissioner Joseph S. Schwab is Chairman, would give a dinner to Judge Hylan at the Hotel Biltmore on the evening of Oct. 25. Judge Hylan, Charles L. Craig, candidate for Controller, and Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, candidate for President of the Aldermanic Board, will be the guests of honor and principal speakers.

Mr. Craig announced last night that Congressman Murray Hulbert would be his campaign manager. In a letter to Mr. Hulbert the candidate for Controller said:

"As you know, the Controller is Chairman of the Port and Terminal Committee of the Board of Estimate, and because of my deep interest in the matter of west side improvement I expect to make that the special feature of my campaign, particularly in its relationship to the development of New York Harbor.

EX-POLITICIAN OWES MILLION

Claims Against James Smith, Jr., Filed in Surrogate's Court.

Ex-United States Senator James Smith, Jr., former Democratic leader of New Jersey, owes more than a million dollars to his friends, business men, and banks, according to a list of creditors filed yesterday in the Surrogate's Court by the Fidelity Trust Company of Newark, to which Mr. Smith assigned his property when he got into difficulty two years ago.

This list shows that the claims total $1,191,921.41. The largest creditor is the Federal Trust Company of Newark, of which Mr. Smith was President up to two years ago. He owes the bank $377,388.44. Gottfried Krueger, the brewer, father-in-law of one of Smith's sons, has claims of $210,691, and Peter Hauck, Sr., and Peter Hauck, Jr., the latter the husband of a daughter of Smith, come next with $25,000 apiece. A dozen Newark banks have claims ranging from $5,000 to $60,000, and the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York City one for $13,521.84.

One of the creditors is Edwin H. Hatch, a New York broker, who was recently sentenced to the New Jersey State Prison for seven years for stealing $350,000 from the Mutual Trust Company of Orange. Smith owed Hatch $114,000. Smith is living in Newark with relatives.

ITALIANS HOLD GAINS AGAINST ALL ATTACKS

Inflict Severe Losses on Austrian Storming Parties — Air Squadrons Make Raids.

ROME, Sept. 24.—The Austrians made a counterattack yesterday on the positions which the Italians recently captured in the Marmolada region. In this effort the attacking forces suffered heavy losses, according to today's War Office announcement. The text of the statement reads:

There was artillery activity along the entire front yesterday.

A counterattack by storming parties against the positions recently occupied by us in the Marmolada region cost the enemy considerable losses and some prisoners.

The railway line in the Bazza Valley east of Tolmino was the objective of our air forces yesterday. In the morning one of our bombarding squadrons, well escorted, arrived almost by surprise over the railway station of Grahavo when an intensified railway movement was proceeding, and four tons of bombs were dropped there. At night an airship, by dropping numerous high-explosive bombs, greatly damaged an establishment in the neighborhood of Podmelec. At the same time another airship again bombarded numerous enemy troops in the Chiapovano Valley.

Two enemy machines, brought down by our airmen, fell in flames.

DENIES WOODS HAS QUIT.

Mayor Mitchel Says Police Commissioner Will Retain Office.

Mayor Mitchel emphatically denied yesterday a rumor that Police Commissioner Arthur Woods had sent him his resignation.

"That rumor is wholly and utterly false," said the Mayor. "Commissioner Woods has not tendered his resignation. He will remain Police Commissioner until Jan. 1, and if this Administration is re-elected, he will remain four years more.

The Mayor was told that one of the alleged reasons for the Commissioner's resignation was that he was disappointed at not having the opportunity to run for Mayor and that he had the Mayor's promise that he would not run for re-election himself.

"That story is just as completely untrue as the other," said the Mayor. "If I could have obtained relief from the duty of leading this cause under the war conditions and brought about the nomination of any one of the very excellent Commissioners in this Administration, or one of my associates in the Board of Estimate, I would have been happy to have supported that man. As everybody knows, I had other desires for myself. As a matter of fact, one of the conditions upon which I agreed to become a candidate again was that Arthur Woods would sacrifice his own comfort and continue as Police Commissioner for four years more in the event of my re-election." Asked whom he would have been willing to recommend for a Mayoralty candidate, the Mayor said:

"Prendergast, McAneny, Woods, or Adamson."

FAVORS AN AIRCRAFT BOARD

House Committee Recommends One of Nine Members.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The House of Representatives today received a favorable report from the Military Affairs Committee on the bill to create an Aircraft Board of nine members. In effect this legislation creates a new department of aeronautics, as it combines the airplane services of the Navy and War Departments under one head with the Aircraft Production Board.

The measure placed before the House today is a combination of the proposed legislation to create a Cabinet post for a Secretary of Aviation or Aeronautics. The present bill is deemed a solution of the problems of aeronautical administration, and is indorsed by the President and members of his Cabinet.

The report to the House explains that the measure creates an Aircraft Board of nine members, consisting of the Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A.; two other army officers to be appointed by the Secretary of War, the Chief Constructor of the Navy and two other naval officers, and three civilian members, one of whom shall be Chairman. The Chairman will be appointed by the President with the approval of the Senate.

The board will direct the purchase and production of all aircraft, engines, and ordnance used in connection with the aircraft program. It will make no contracts, however, but may recommend them. Contracts are to be made by the already constituted authorities of the army and navy.

TWO NEW WARRANTS IN GUNMEN CASE

Brother of Philadelphia Policeman Accused of Murder in Connection with 'Bloody Fifth' Killing.

MAY BRING OFFICIALS HERE

District Attorney Martin, Before Leaving for Philadelphia, Says Grand Jury Will Take Up Case.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—Out of the mass of evidence which was gathered by District Attorney Rotan and his assistants in the course of the day's investigation of the murder in the "Bloody Fifth" Ward on primary day, there developed succinct material to warrant the placing of a murder charge tonight against James Clark, a brother of Detective Harry Clark of the Central Station. He has formerly been known as "the man with the eyeglasses."

Coincident with the charge of murder made against Clark, Captain Tate of the Detective Bureau made public a charge of conspiracy against Michael O'Sullivan, an operative employed by a private detective agency. The charges against these two men are regarded by the police as highly important in linking the connection of the New York gunmen with "men higher up" in the conspiracy.

Captain Tate announced late this afternoon that he was well satisfied with the day's developments.

"Costello and Mascia have admitted so much to me that some might call their statements a confession," he said. "They corroborate Falcone's confession, made in New York. They have named all their associates in the two gangs of thugs. Their information is so valuable that I believe we will arrest every member of the gang. I have asked each policeman detailed to the Fifth Ward on Wednesday to write out of a full statement of what he did from the time he got there until he left."

Mascia, Costello, and Falcone, otherwise known as "Jimmie the Gash," who were captured in New York, have made so many startling admissions, the detectives said, that they were bewildered at the revelations. They "peached," the detectives said, on Clark and O'Sullivan, who is alleged to have been a member of the New York Assembly years ago, and they made other statements, according to Isadore Stern, which prompted him to assert that Deutsch and Bennett may be arrested on an actual murder charge.

The detectives say they have evidence that O'Sullivan went to the Keystone Hotel last Monday and engaged rooms for six of the gunmen.

"They will remain here until Wednesday morning," I'Sullivan is alleged to have told the clerk.

The gunmen remained in their rooms most of the time and attracted no attention. The other gang—there were about eighteen gunmen in both squads—meanwhile were in a hotel at Ninth and Race Streets, the detectives say. The six in the Market Street Hotel got out early Wednesday morning without the clerk seeing them.

Both gangs met in the Fifth Ward, the detectives say.

James G. Gordon, counsel for Isadore Stern, at whose instance Mayor Smith, Police Lieutenant Bennett, and Isaac Deutsch were placed under $10,000 bonds to appear at a hearing on charges of conspiracy to commit aggravated assault and murder, in a statement tonight, declared he was prepared to prove who authorized the bringing of the alleged gunmen from New York and who paid them.

Mayor Smith said he regretted that his hearing had been postponed until next week, as he was "ready for it and prepared to answer any charges."

District Attorney Martin of Bronx County, New York, was here tonight assisting the local officials in the investigation. Policeman Eppley's funeral was held today. Many men prominent in city affairs were honorary pall-bearers, and gathered inside and outside of the church where the services were conducted.

District Attorney Martin of the Bronx went to Philadelphia yesterday for the purpose of giving the authorities there all the assistance he could in clearing up the conspiracy which led to the killing of Policeman George Eppley in the "Bloody" Fifth Ward on Primary Day. It was said on good authority yesterday that Mr. Martin would ascertain incidentally how much of the conspiracy was hatched here.

If it develops that the plans for the Fifth Ward exploit were actually prepared in New York, there is every possibility, according to members of District Attorney Martin's staff, that the prominent Philadelphia politicians, alleged to have been involved in the plot, from Mayor Smith down, would be invited to appear before the Grand Jury in Bronx County, which will within a few days begin an investigation of the charges against the four alleged gunmen who were arrested in this jurisdiction on Saturday.

"The murder charge will of course take precedence if we can get evidence," said Mr. Martin yesterday before leaving for Philadlphia. "I shall give the Philadelphia District Attorney all the help I can. But no matter what happens in Philadelphia, we have enough evidence to prove some grave charges in the Bronx."

The four prisoners, arrested in this city, were arraigned before Magistrate Koening in the Morrisania Court yesterday, but at their own request, the hearing was postponed until Saturday. Prior to the arraignment, the four men were lined up in the complaint room, where Falcone and Burkhardt were identified by a colored chambermaid as the two men who had stopped at Benny Cutler's hotel in Philadelphia for two days prior to the Fifth Ward fight.

nounced that the defense sought an adjournment until the following day. This was granted.

Dr. Schultze's testimony was to the effect that it was impossible that a wound such as Mrs. King had sustained could have been self-inflicted, for the reason that the arm could not be bent into a position to fire an automatic revolver in such a direction that the bullet, entering the skull two inches behind and two inches above the middle of the ear, would range directly forward and strike the interior of the forehead. One of the questions asked by Mr. Cansler was:

"Supposing that a woman were placed in a hermetically sealed chamber with an automatic revolver, and that when the door was opened it was found that she had received just such a wound as that which caused the death of Mrs. King, would you under those circumstances say that the woman could not have killed herself?"

Dr. Schultze was silent. When the question was repeated he said:

"You've answered the question yourself. That question contains its own answer."

"No, I did not answer it," said Mr. Cansler. "And I want you to answer it. Now, in such a case as that, regardless of the fact that no one else could have killed the woman, you would still have gone to the witness stand and claimed that she could not have killed herself, would you not?"

"Wait a minute," said the expert. "What is the size of the chamber you are assuming?"

"Its size has nothing to do with it," replied the lawyer.

"Oh, yes, it has," said Dr. Schultze, because if the chamber were too small she could not live in it long enough to be shot."

The lawyer then supplied the hermetically sealed chamber with dimensions and walls of steel. He proceeded to press the question anew.

"Well," said Dr. Schultze, "if such a thing happened, I would have to abandon all my experience, information, and study, because I would have to deal with a new set of facts and natural laws."

"That's not answering the question," insisted Mr. Cansler.

"Well," said Dr. Schultze, "then I would add that I had discovered a rival to Houdini."

A Tilt with Defendant's Counsel.

"Who's that?" asked the lawyer, and nearly every one in the courtroom asked the same question of his neighbors. Dr. Schultze explained about the magician's tricks, and when Mr. Cansler persisted with his hypothetical question said:

"If such a thing happened as you described I would have no opinion. I could have none. I would be merely perplexed, as I would be by one of Houdini's tricks."

"Never mind Houdini, whoever he is, but see if you cannot give us a better answer to the question."

Dr. Schultze insisted that he had answered the question, and the Justice agreed with him. Dr. Schultze also was closely questioned as to who sent him to Concord, why he was sent, and who paid him and how much.

Dr. William Henry Burmeister of Chicago, who performed the autopsy, also testified that the nature of the wound and the absence of burns and singeing of hair precluded the possibility that the woman might have killed herself. He also was questioned why he came all the way from Chicago and who paid him. He said:

"The Chicago Coroner sent me."

"Who is behind him?" asked Mr. Cansler.

"The people of Cook County," was the reply.

The weakest witness for the prosecution was W. H. Bingham, who accompanied Gaston and Afton Means on the automobile ride which ended in the death of Mrs. King. Bingham, who had stated at the inquest that he could see Mrs. King by moonlight as she lay on the ground and the lights of the town were illuminated before the party started on the trip, testified today that he thought the lights of the town were not lit and that as he now remembered it, it was a mixture of moonlight and sunlight which enabled him to see. He said, however, that he had tried hard to forget the occurrence and that he believed that his testimony at the Coroner's inquest was better than it could be today.

Among those seated at the table with co½unsel for the prosecution at today's session were C. M. Ambrose of the Federal Department of Justice and Attorney General J. Ross Manning of North Carolina.

When the trial was called today the defense objected to holding the hearing before Magistrate Palmer, and Magistrate Pitts is conducting it. No reason was assigned.

ADMITS AUTOPSY ON MRS. BINGHAM'S BODY

Graham Kenan, Her Cousin, Asserts Relatives Acted on Advice of Leading Physicians.

SAYS FACTS JUSTIFIED IT

But Results of Medical Investigation Have Not Yet Been Made Known to Family.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 24.—Graham Kenan, first cousin and brother-in-law of the late Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham, followed up the announcement made by former Judge Bingham's attorneys at Louisville yesterday that his wife's body had been secretly exhumed at night and an autopsy held upon it by admitting that the autopsy had taken place. Mr. Kenan, who is a lawyer himself, issued the following statement:

"The facts and circumstances relating to Mrs. Bingham's illness and death, and as disclosed to members of her family, justified them in and made it their duty to consult leading physicians, who advised that an autopsy be performed. This has been done in the usual and regular way in the broad, open daylight by the best experts obtainable, but the results of their investigation have not yet been made known to the family.

"All interested may be assured that any investigation which has been or may be made, has been and will be conducted in a proper and legitimate manner and with absolute fairness to all parties concerned.

"The feelings of the family naturally made them desire to have as little publicity as possible given the matter.

"I hope the public will be fair enough not to jump at any conclusions based on the facts now in their possession."

County Health Officer Nesbitt also issued a statement later in which he said he had issued a permit last Tuesday for the disinterment of Mrs. Bingham's body at the request of Graham Kenan, who told him that the family was anxious to ascertain, if possible, the cause of death, "the matter not having been settled to their satisfaction."

Judge George Harriss of the County Court will start an investigation tomorrow to determine if an offense has been committed against the laws of the State by those who exhumed the body without the consent of Mr. Bingham or a court order.

William J. Burns, who was said to have been present at the disinterment of Mrs. Bingham's body, was in Washington yesterday. The manager of the detective agency at Broadway and Park Place said Mr. Burns was not at the exhumation, and that the agency and its head had no knowledge of the case or any connection with it whatever. The manager suggested that the statement made by attorneys for Judge Bingham, in which the name of Burns was mentioned, was probably based on reports that had reached the lawyers from some person who may have consulted with the head of a branch office of the agency.

Hotel at Keansburg Burned.

KEANSBURG, N. J., Sept. 24.—Fire this morning destroyed the big New Point Comfort Hotel at the shore end of the steamboat pier here. The loss is said to be in excess of $32,000. Some damage was also done to the big Auditorium nearby, which cost $40,000 last Winter.

FIGHTING OUR FOOD PLANS.

Enemy Agents Here Spreading Wild Stories, Dr. Wilbur Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The charge that pro-German interests in various parts of the country are attempting to overthrow the food conservation campaign was made today by Dr. Raymond L. Wilbur, President of Leland Stanford University and head of the Food Conservation Division of the United States Food Administration. Every effort, he said, was being made to render futile the work of his agents in connection with a good pledge week.

People were being told, Dr. Wilbur said, that if they signed the pledge card and worked with the Administration their homes would be invaded later and the goods they had canned taken away. Among the colored people of the South, it appears, propagandists have been circulating a rumor that the intention of the Government is to take food away from the negroes and give it to the white people. Dr. Wilbur has received reports also that pro-German employes in bakeries have been instructed to burn bread, and thus do their bit for the Kaiser.

"That our enemies on the other side of the fence are fighting our plan is one of the best recommendations the plan can have," said Dr. Wilbur. "To me the most significiant sign as to the value of food pledge week is the fact that the pro-Germans here have recognized its importance and are fighting it hard.

"The activities show that they realize as well as we do that a huge American food conservation army will be the biggest thing in American history and will test whether or not a democratic people can organize themselves sufficiently to prove their form of government worth fighting for."

Robbed of $3,000 in Jewels.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Mrs. J. Clifton Edgar, wife of Dr. Edgar, a specialist, was robbed of a diamond bracelet and ruby ring, valued at $3,000 on Aug. 29, it was learned today. Mrs. Edgar had the jewels in a case at her country home here. She left Greenwich on Aug. 29, and it was not until she opened the jewel case in New York that she discovered her loss. She said this afternoon that she was unable to say whether the jewels were taken before she left Greenwich or after her arrival in New York.

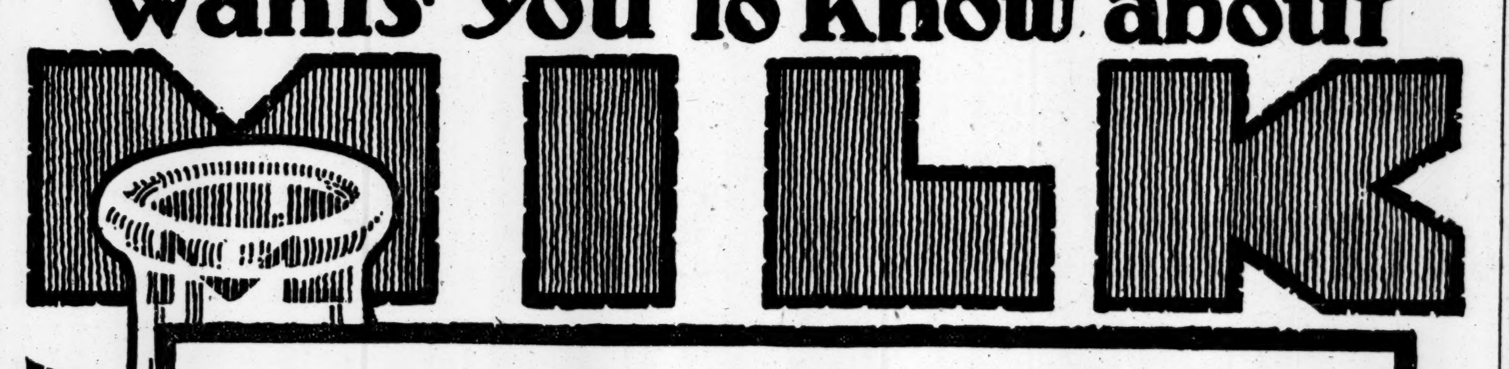
The Dairymen's League Wants You to Know about



YOU, the public, are our partners in the milk business. We produce on forty-four thousand farms, in six states, the vast river of milk which you use. We sell this milk to the retail companies who deliver it at your door. You need the milk and we want you to have it at as low a price as possible. It cost us much more to produce milk this year than it did last. The cost of dairy feed, labor, cows — everything, has gone up in twelve months from fifty to one hundred percent. We could not afford to sell our milk at the old prices and we have advanced the price to the retailers.

The Prices We Are Asking Barely Cover Cost of Production

We must get these prices or discontinue milk production. Milk at prevailing prices, or even higher, is a cheaper food than meat or eggs which, meanwhile, have advanced in prices. All foods are high just now and milk is no exception.

Milk Is Cheaper

Milk is cheaper at prevailing prices, is more easily digested, builds more tissue and furnishes more energy than the ordinary foods we eat. Children need it especially—a quart a day. Their growth depends on it.

More milk, better milk, at reasonable prices, are the watchwords of the Dairymen's League. For health's sake, drink more milk. For economy's sake, double your milk order today.

If your dealer can't supply all the milk you want, notify us.

GRAND JURORS ASK GOFF FOR RELEASE

Object, According to Report, to Alleged Political Trend of the Rockaway Park Inquiry.

THEIR REQUEST IS DENIED

Justice, However, Instructs Them as They Desired on Duties of District Attorney Before Them.

Several members of the extraordinary Grand Jury which has been investigating the Ruth Cruger case and the Rockaway Park transactions yesterday requested Justice Goff to relieve them from further service. Although District Attorney Swann insisted that they sought this release for business reasons merely, the report was persistent that they really wanted to quit because they believed the District Attorney was trying to force the Rovckaway Park inquiry along political lines. In denying that there had been any protest against the use of the Grand Jury for political purposes, District Attorney Swann said:

"So far as I know the Grand Jurors made no such charge, either to Justice Goff or to myself. It was my impression that some of them, on realizing that the investigation might last several months, did not feel that they could take so much time away from their business, and hence they wanted to be relieved."

"Did the foreman tell you that some of the Grand Jurors objected to the political nature of the investigation?" the District Attorney was asked.

"He did not," replied Mr. Swann. "So far as I know there is absolute harmony in the Grand Jury room. When they came before Justice Goff this morning, it seemed to me that they were chiefly concerned with the bearing of the statute of limitations upon the matters under investigation."

Asked whether the Grand Jury objected to the presence of certain of his assistants while their deliberations were going on, Mr. Swann replied:

"I told the Grand Jurors that they could select the assistants whom they preferred, and I was assured that the men now handling the case were acceptable. I was also assured that the Grand Jury did not object to their presence. On several occasions some of the jurors did call my attention to the fact that the proceedings in the Grand Jury were being made public through the newspapers. When they called my attention to this matter it was always in a friendly, and not complaining, way, and I always assured them that I would do all in my power to prevent any information from leaking out of my office."

The Request Denied.

Justice Goff denied the request, whereupon the members asked him to reinstruct the Grand Jury as to the exact scope of their work and the relevancy of certain types of evidence which the District Attorney was trying to put before them. Upon receipt of the request Justice Goff summoned District Attorney Swann and Edward C. Cammann, foreman of the Grand Jury. They remained in conference fully an hour, discussing the pertinence of the evidence, that Assistant District Attorneys Black and Kilroe were endeavoring to present in the Rockaway Park investigation. One of the chief points at issue, according to Mr. Swann, was just how far the Grand Jury could go into the investigation of matters upon which no prosecution could take place under the statute of limitations. After Mr. Swann left the conference, Justice Goff summoned the Grand Jury before and said:

"It is ordained by law that indictment for felony must not be found after five years from the commission of the offense, or, for a misdemeanor, after two years. This, however, does not mean that the Grand Jury is precluded from inquiry into the conduct and transactions of persons hodling public office or employment in relation to public matters in their trust or charge, even though because of lack of time the statute of limitations interposes a bar to indictment. The reason is that the Grand Jury is authorized by law to inquire into the conduct of public officials and of public officers without limitation as to time or scope of the inquiry. The purpose is to enable the Grand Jury by its inquiries to discover and expose, if any, improper practices in public offices or wrongful acts of public officials to the end that proper and efficient measures be taken to correct and remedy abuses.

In Their Own Control.

"As to the method or manner of examining witnesses and introducing testimony before you, that is largely within your own control, but it should be borne in mind that the District Attorney is the legal adviser of the Grand Jury and that he has the right to be present and advise the Grand Jury as to the law of any case before him. There may be cases of such a complicated nature that require pursuit along a certain line which at first sight may to the layman appear to be irrelevant. But it is rare that such a state of things arises before the Grand Jury, and it is advisable that, if possible, the appearance even of irrelevancy should be avoided."

Justice Goff's ruling upon the restrictions affected by the statute of limitations was held in certain quarters yesterday to point to a collapse of the indictment against ex-Senator William H. Reynolds for perjury which he was alleged to have committed in June, 1912. It is the contention of District Attorney Swann, however, that Mr. Reynolds could not take advantage of the statute because he did not maintain a "continuous residence" in the jurisdiction of the court for five years after the alleged crime was committed as required by law. During that time, the former Senator, according to Mr. Swann, had left the jurisdiction for an interval of three or four months, so that the statute of limitations had still about two months to run after Mr. Reynolds was indicted.

SEE NEW CENSORSHIP IN ENEMY TRADING ACT

Congressmen Complain "Joker" in Measure Gives Administration Power Denied by Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—In the opinion of several Congressmen, many of the powers of censorship over newspapers, which the Administration endeavored to obtain through the Espionage act, and which Congress denied, are contained in a section added to the new Trading with the Enemy act, the conference report on which was adopted by the Senate by a vote of 48 to 6.

The "Joker" inserted, it is held, gives the Postmaster General unusual authority, and, while apparently aimed at foreign language newspapers which might be accused of seditious utterances, extends the jurisdiction of the executive end of the Government to all publications.

In the new section is a paragraph on which legislators who fought against rigid censorship provisions are basing their charge that Postmaster Burleson receives supervision of the press in a most obnoxious manner. It reads:

"Any print, newspaper, or publication in any foreign language which does not conform to the provisions of this section is hereby declared to be nonmailable, and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, or association to transport, carry, or otherwise publish or distribute the same, or to transport, carry, or otherwise distribute any matter which is non-mailable by the provisions of the act relating to espionage, approved June 15, 1917."

Senator Morris of Nebraska called the attention of the Senate to the paragraph.

"This is a desperate attempt to put the newspapers out of business," he said. "Under this provision the Postmaster General can absolutely put out of business every newspaper in the United States. He could exclude from the mails every paper that does not meet with his approval and then, under this provision, it would be unlawful for any one to distribute them by automobile, express or even hand delivery. It would result in the coercion of every newspaper in the land."

The action of the conferees was condemned also by Senator Cummins of Iowa, who said he felt that it was a piece of assumption to accept such an addition to the bill without giving the members of either the Senate or House a chance to review it.

"The whole question," he said, "is who is it that will determine whether the publications are treasonable or seditious. The effort in the section seeks to prevent a trial. I am not in favor of making an innocent man criminal before his trial. An injunction should be asked. Then the issue would come up in the courts and you would not execute the criminal before the trial."

Another protest was raised by Senator Vardaman, who argued that under the Constitution free speech was inviolate By the terms of the espionage law he said, the Postmaster General was "made the censor by statute." He thought it was time, he said, that the people of the United States should be protected against such Congressional action as well as against treason.

If the interpretation of several of the legislators is accepted, the proposed law, if adopted and approved after the conference report, would apparently make it possible for Postmaster General Burleson at his will to determine whether a publication is seditious or otherwise opposed to the Government's war policy, and list it as unmailable. The laws working together would practically make it impossible for any agency to handle the papers thus placed on a blacklist.

AMERICAN SUICIDE IN CHINA.

Unidentified Man Shoots Himself at a Hotel in Tsinan-Fu.

TSINAN-FU, Shantung Province, China, Aug. 30.—An American shot himself here on Aug. 9, and left no papers or records which made it possible for the American colony to identify him. The man came to Tsinan-Fu in October, 1915, and lived at a hotel until the time of his suicide. He never talked of his past, and refused to associate with other Americans.

H. L. Baxter was the name under which he registered. He gave his age as 40, but was apparently somewhat older. He was about 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighed probably 140 pounds, wore spectacles and had a full beard. No money was found among his possessions.

Resinol

That itching, burning skin-trouble which keeps you scratching and digging, is a source of disgust to others, as well as of torment to you. Why don't you get rid of it by using Resinol Ointment? Physicians have prescribed it for many years. In most cases, it relieves irritation quickly and heals eruptions promptly. It is very easy and economical to use. Acts even more promptly if aided by Resinol Soap.

Resinol Ointment is so nearly flesh-colored that it can be used on exposed surfaces without attracting undue attention. Contains nothing that could irritate the tenderest skin. It comes in two sizes (50c and $1), never in bulk.

All druggists sell Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. You'd better try them!

NEW ERA IN CHARITY IS SEEN BY MAYOR

Tells at Cornerstone Laying of City's Broader Conception of Duty to Wards.

SEES EXPENSE JUSTIFIED

New Structure at Randall's Island Will Replace Some Built Nearly Fifty Years Ago.

Mayor Mitchel told what had been accomplished in the way of caring for the city's dependents under his administration yesterday at the laying of a cornerstone for the new institution for feebleminded at Randall's Island. The Mayor's speech was taken as the opening of the campaign for his re-election. About two years ago the Mayor and several members of the Board of Estimate made an unannounced midnight visit to the island and found conditions so deplorable that plans for the erection of a new building soon followed. The Mayor said in part:

"We are marking what is the formal beginning of a new era in the city's conception toward its own duty to public wards. This institution had endured for many years. True, eleven of the buildings on this island dated back to before the year 1869, so the institution, judged by the life of buildings in the City of New York, was old. Those buildings, Commissioner Kingsbury said, had not been built as the buildings of the cities of old, to endue a hundred or a thousand years, but it looked from the way they were used, from the tenacity with which the city clung to their use after they had become useless, that the city regarded them as built to last a thousand years, no matter what their condition. That was the trouble with the institutions on Randall's Island; though the buildings were constructed to last but a few years and had outlived their usefulness, they were treated as if they were there to remain forever.

"In an institution such as this the buildings should last no longer than their usefulness, and these buildings which are being erected today, under this appropriation of $1,600,000, ought to endure no longer than their usefulness, and when the day of that usefulness has passed, because better methods have been found for the treatment of the unfortunates who may occupy them, because better methods of construction have been devised and more scientific plans of treatment, then these buildings must come down and new buildings take their places that will meet the higher standards of a later date.

"That is progress, and nothing short of it is progress. The Board of Estimate has appropriated $1,600,000. Those funds will reconstruct the institutions upon Randall's Island; some of the old buildings will remain, but the institution will be constituted chiefly of new and scientifically planned buildings. We have gone out to the communities of the country most progressive to learn the best that is being done anywhere in the United States in the planning of buildings of this character. Mr. Barber has studied the institutions at Waverley in Massachusetts. He has learned what has been done wherever this problem has been treated in the United States, and these buildings, under his plans and under the advice of Dr. Fernald, will be the last word in buildings designed for the treatment of the feebleminded charges of the city of New York or of any other community."

The Mayor told of conditions he had found on the island when he made his midnight visit there and how wretchedly the inmates were quartered. At that time, he said, there was but one physician on the island, and he was not resident. Now, he said, the institution had eight resident physicians and all the inmates received the best hospital treatment. He continued:

"I know that in those days there was insufficient food, insufficient clothing, no recreation, no vocational training, no means for the employment of the time of the children; an attempt to teach to minds incapable of receiving them, it, subjects for which they were not prepared, and no effort to teach what they might assimilate—the use of their hands. I know that in those days crippled children were placed upon the top floor of fire traps from which there would have been no escape in case of fire. These conditions are past, and let me say that whatever the changes of politics or of administrations may be, now that the public attention of the people of the City of New York has been focused upon this institution, there can be no ultimate retrogression."

URGES LEGAL KILLING OF HOPELESS INVALIDS

Dr. Guild Wins a Favorable Vote From the "Progressive Medicine" Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Legalized euthanasia, providing easy death for the aged, infirm, and those suffering from incurable maladies, was urged today at the opening of the sixth annual convention of the American Association of Progressive Medicine, and received the support of a majority of the delegates.

Dr. W. A. Guild of Des Moines read a paper in which he advocated the establishment of Federal or State commissions, with power to legalize the putting to death of individuals who were absolutely past remedial measures and desired to have their sufferings ended.

"I decided to urge this," said Dr. Guild, "when a man who had cancer of the tongue for seven weeks, day after day, begged me for death. Before the end came he almost cursed me for forcing him to live a life which was one long agony to him.

"What we mean by 'legalized euthanasia' is merely legalized easy death. Adults who want to die, and whose recovery is pronounced hopeless by a board of consulting physicians, will be killed by some form of anaesthesia. Likewise, parents of a young child may request its death under similar circumstances."

Dr. Guild said there were 200,000 persons in the United States at the present time who were praying for death.

After discussing Dr. Guild's paper the association, by a vote of 87 to 24, passed a resolution to refer the suggestion to a committee, with instructions to submit to the Legislatures of every State recommendation of action favorable to the proposed legalizing of euthanasia.

German-Americans Protest.

The German-American Central Association of Newark is drawing up a protest to Congress against "the spread of slanderous stories throughout the land." At a meeting in Turn Hall, Newark, the association went on record as unanimously in accord with the Socialist Party because of the latter's stand for peace. Regarding the "slanderous stories" George Grimme, President, said:

"The foreign rabble under cover of our association with the allies are going about sowing seeds of hatred and discord by their lies about the German soldiery. We know, and every German knows, they are lies, but the average American doesn't know, and we have a right to be protected against these stories."

New Clubhouse for Sailors.

A new clubhouse for the use of sailors from warships stationed in the Hudson River near Ninety-sixth Street is to be opened on Oct. 1 by the National Service Committee in a house at West End Avenue and Ninety-third Street, donated by Professor Brander Matthews. The clubhouse will be directed by the National Special Aid Commission as part of its string of Soldiers' and Sailors' Home Clubs.

HUDSON sets another new mark in fine Closed Cars

Fall and Winter Models of Chauffeur-driven Coaches Now Ready Reasonably Prompt Deliveries

◆

HUDSON makes motor mode. For years the Limousines, Town Cars and Laudaulets have been the accepted criterion of discriminating users. There is never anything extreme in design, nothing to offend good taste, nothing to interfere with serviceability. The same master coach builders, who have for so long used the Hudson as an opportunity in which to express their skill, are responsible for these new offerings. We think you will agree that they express the ultimate of the coach building art.

If you would know the predominant popularity of Hudson Super-Six closed cars mark how they outnumber those of any other make on Fifth Avenue. And are not the Hudsons the most beautiful?

There is a fine buoyancy about the Hudson Super-Six closed car not so apparent in other cars. It is due to the Super-Six motor with its great and flexible reserve power. There is no sluggishness in its motion. The action is smooth, quiet, resilient, responsive.

The variety of Hudson Super-Six chauffeur-driven coaches is sufficiently large so as to avoid any possibility of their appearing commonplace. The quantity built is great enough to assure the minimum cost. The almost prohibitive cost of the custom-made body is eliminated. There is individuality and smartness and yet there is not a single unconventional detail.

Selections should be made early to assure wanted deliveries

Comparisons Show the Value of Concentration

From October, 1916, to June, 1917, a boy of 16 made the following record:

Plane Geometry	89	Algebra I	74
English I	69	Algebra II	74
English II	69	Cicero	63
French II	60	Advanced Latin Composition	63
Physiography	76	Physics	81
Chemistry	98

The same student spent three years in a well-known preparatory school in this city, and during that time passed only two subjects.

This is only one of many excellent records made by Clark School Students.

The Summer session is still open and will continue until October 1, 1917. The Principal will be at the school from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. daily, and will be glad to talk to parents whose children have failed in other schools.

The author of "Sari" and "Miss Springtime" has still a command of authentic melody, smooth orchestration, and a fluent variety in mood and modulation. Unpretentious as is the score of "The Riviera Girl," it throws a glamour of luxury, tinged with moonlight poetry, about the thronging life of Monte Carlo. Here, if you wish, is the fabled flower of which amorous fancy is bred, "love-in-idleness."

Josef Urban also holds his own. The scenes, which are all keyed to the velvet, impenetrable blue of a Mediterranean sky, are of monumental stateliness and rich simplicity in color. The costumes give the note of variety and rapid change, but discretely blend throughout with the dominant tone of music and scene.

The book is another matter. Once upon a time there may have been a telling story of the love of the vaudeville singer Vareska for Count Michael: how she married another and bogus Count in order to be socially worthy of him (via the divorce court); how the bogus Count, seemingly the most romantic of lovers, first appeared to be a waiter in disguise, which quite dished the plot; and how, in the end, he shone forth in his true colors as a Prince. Such a story has the potentiality of moods worthy of this rich and varied music, of these rich and varied scenes. But, if it ever existed, the true form and pressure of it have been lost in the work of Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse.

The tale as it is handed out at the New Amsterdam is too sketchily brief and disjointed to gain a moment's credence, or even interest. Not an easy art, this, of developing the plot of an atmospheric operetta! It differs as widely from the true art dramatic as it does from that of fashioning the so-called plot of a Broadway musical comedy. Unfortunately the authors seemed to have concluded that their present task was of the latter and humbler order. The program admits it. But the one indispensible feature of a musical comedy is—comedy. "The Riviera Girl" is destitute alike of a comic idea and of a true comedian.

The best part of the text is the lyrics. "There'll Never Be Another Girl Like Daisy" was very airily sung by Arthur Burckley and Clarence Harvey, and Daisy appeared to dance for them out of the "legitimate" ballet of their youth in the very charming person of Marjorie Bentley. "Half a Married Man" had a lilt, half macabre, half grotesque, that was altogether delightful, and was feelingly sung by Carl Gantvoort and a quartet of girls. "A Little Bungalow in Quogue" may have been reminiscent, but Sam Hardy gave it a touch of racy humor, of which the evening was sorely in need.

Wilda Bennett, in the title rôle, sang acceptably and danced with a really exquisite grace. She was always winsome, and there were moments when the wistfulness which should have been in the story and was not shone forth in her features. Carl Gantvoort was the Prince—her husband in name and her lover in fact. He, too, showed more of the operatic passion of his plight than was allowed to appear in the lines and action—a really loverlike and princely figure.

It cannot be said that "The Riviera Girl" makes any real appeal to the risibilities or to the love of obvious romance. But it is always in the best of taste, is sometimes gay and witty, and in its scenic and musical setting it is of the very highest order.

TO IMPROVE SOLDIERS' FOOD

Gorgas Organizes a Staff of Specialists in Nutrition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Major Gen. Gorgas, the Surgeon General of the Army, has organized in his office a food division for the purpose of safeguarding the nutritional interests of the army. This work, carried on in co-operation with the Quartermaster Department, will include food surveys of each camp conducted by specialists in nutrition, together with inspection of food received for soldiers' rations and study of methods of preparation.

The idea is to carry the work further than prevention of sickness through improper food; it is to recommend changes to provide more healthful and appetizing meals.

Some fifty or sixty commissioned officers will be engaged in the work of making food surveys at the camps, with about twice their number of enlisted men to assist in the work, which is under the direction of Major John R. Murlin, formerly of Cornell University Medical College, New York City. Working with him are Captains Caspar Miller of Philadelphia, Frank C. Gephart of New York, and Lieutenants A. W. Thomas of New York and N. P. Blutherwick of Washington.

That they may be thoroughly familiar with army cooking methods, the Surgeon General will detail men from the food division to attend the army schools for cooks and bakers. After taking the course there, these men will use their previous scientific training and experience in recommending improvements in the preparation and serving of food at the camps. They will also receive training at the Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, in the approved method of food inspection.

ALL-DAY EXPRESSES NOW.

New Service Provided for Third Avenue Elevated Line.

As the result of conferences between Public Service Commission officials and transportation experts of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, all-day express trains will soon be running on the Third Avenue elevated line. The plan is to run southbound expresses until noon, and northbound until 7 o'clock in the evening.

The express service will begin at 6:04 o'clock in the morning at the northern terminus of the road. It is expected that the service will relieve the congestion on the subway as well as on the elevated, and will greatly promote the comfort of those traveling during the rush hours.

At a hearing before the Public Service Commission yesterday afternoon A. G. Peacock, counsel for the Interborough, said that the proposed extension of the express service would begin not later than the first week in November, although efforts would be made to inaugurate it next month.

Valerie Bergere Marries Actor.

Valerie Bergere, vaudeville actress, was married last night to Herbert Warren, an actor and motion picture director. The ceremony was performed at the home of Miss H. Winifred De Witt, 200 West Seventieth Street, by Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan.

Earthquake in California.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Sept. 24.—A slight earthquake was felt here at 1:20 P. M. today. No damage was done.

ROBERT EDESON ACTS INDIAN

He Appears in "Flying Arrow," a Tricky Playlet, at the Palace.

Robert Edeson returned to vaudeville at the Palace yesterday afternoon in a sketch called "Flying Arrow," the chief virtue of which was to give the star the opportunity for the creation of another effective Indian type not unlike the hero of "Classmates." The author of the piece is said to be himself an Indian, but he is an Indian who has been to theatre. "Flying Arrow" is one of those tricky playlets which are written without sufficient ingenuity to deceive, and which accordingly manage to be nothing in particular except a vehicle for a star.

Wellington Cross, appearing with a pianist instead of the customary Lois Josephine, worked the audience up to a high pitch of enthusiasm, and the program also included George White and Emma Haig repeating their familiar dance act; the perennial James and Bonnie Thornton and a tabloid musical comedy which was above the average.

'BRANDED' WILD MELODRAMA

White Slavery the Theme of Oliver D. Bailey's Play at Fulton.

A melodrama entitled "Branded," written and produced by Oliver D. Bailey, last night began an engagement at the Fulton Theatre. The theme of the piece is white slavery, and the extent to which it proceeds in the unmasking of that evil would be thoroughly revolting if the play were not such wild melodrama as to preclude any one taking it seriously. Last night's audience entered into the spirit of the thing and vigorously applauded the righteous sentiments of its heroes and heroines.

Mr. Bailey figured in the drama several seasons ago as one of the authors of "Pay Day," a melodrama, which was turned over night into a satire on the movies. This circumstance, it may be, will suggest to Mr. Bailey what can be done with "Branded." At the piece now stands, it is a satire on play writing, producing, and acting.

"OUT THERE" COMES AGAIN.

Laurette Taylor Resumes Her Role, with New Recruiting Speech.

The second of Laurette Taylor's promised consecutive seasons in New York began at the Liberty Theatre last night with the revival—or rather resumption—of "Out There." This piece, which had far from exhausted its popularity when the oncoming of Summer brought the run at the Globe to an end, will be played for only a limited time, and will be followed by at least two new plays, both of which are the work of J. Hartley Manners.

The cast now supporting Miss Taylor in "Out There" is, with one minor exception, the same as that which appeared in the play at the Globe. The play itself has been slightly changed by the substitution of a new recruiting speech in the final act, and pacifists and conscientious objectors are now made the subject of Miss Taylor's discourse in Trafalgar Square.

CAN'T DEFLECT TORPEDOES.

Naval Experts Have Abandoned Hope in Electro-Magnetic Devices.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—It was learned today that navy experts had virtually abandoned hope that the anti-submarine campaign can be advanced by the employment of electro-magnetic devices. Much has been written and said about the use of such devices to deflect torpedoes, and it has been remarked that probably such a device had been used recently in deflecting a torpedo fired at a merchant ship by a German submarine. At the Navy Department it is asserted that no such device is being used, and that hope that such means can be found to combat submarines was abandoned some time ago.

Destroyers have been found to be the most effective weapon against the German submarines, and they, with other measures taken by the American, French, and British navies, have been responsible for cutting down the number of vessels falling victims to the U-boats.

DUTCH ENVOYS SEE WILSON.

President Hopes They Will Be Able to Settle Embargo Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Members of the Dutch economic mission to the United States, A. G. A. Van Eelde, J. B. Van der Houven Van Oordt, and Joost Van Vollenhoven, accompanied by Minister Van Rappard, were received today by President Wilson. The President welcomed the visitors to the United States and expressed the hope that they would be able to arrange satisfactorily with the Exports Council the matter of shipment of food to their country.

The mission is continuing negotiations with the Exports Council and is endeavoring to have the cargoes of grain-laden Dutch ships now in Atlantic ports unloaded so that the vessels may obtain food in other countries for shipment to Holland.

Liberty Theatres in Army Camps.

Marc Klaw, who is co-operating with the War Department in the planning of cantonment amusements, said yesterday that the theatres know being built in the national army camps will be known as Liberty Theatres. Committees are now being formed to see to it that each cantonment theatre is supplied with consecutive attractions. Sam H. Harris and Irving Berlin will organize the talent in the national army, and Mr. Berlin and George M. Cohan have volunteered to furnish the material for camp minstrel shows.

"Hitchy-Koo" Moves to 44th Street.

The Raymond Hitchcock revue, "Hitchy-Koo," was transferred to its third New York house last night, and is now quartered at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. The Hitchcock forces have taken possession of this house for the remainder of the season, and it will be known during their tenancy as Hitchcock's Forty-fourth Street Theatre. A second revue will be installed around the holidays.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Monday, Oct. 15, is announced as the opening date for "Chu Chin Chow" at the Manhattan Opera House.

"The Red Clock," a musical comedy by Val Crawford, Schuyler Green, and Silvio Hein, had its first performance in Buffalo last night, and will be seen here during the second week of October.

The company now being seen here in "The Man Who Came Back" will give a performance of the piece in Plattsburg on next Sunday night.

"The Pipes of Pan," by Edward Childs Carpenter, will go into rehearsal next week under the direction of the Selwyns. It will be seen at a Broadway theatre in November.

Mrs. Stuart Robson will be a member of the company which will support Grace George at the Playhouse.

Lieut. John Philip Sousa and his band of 250 enlisted musicians, comprising the Great Lakes Naval Band, will come here from Chicago to participate in the Red Cross Rosemary Pageant on Oct. 5. Two concerts, also for the Red Cross, will be given at Carnegie Hall on the following day.

A performance under the aspices of the British Recruiting Mission will take place at the Hippodrome on the night of Sunday, Oct. 7. Captain and Mrs. Vernon Castle will head the program.

"Tiger Rose," which will be seen at the Lyceum Theatre next week, was produced last night at the Belasco Theatre, Washington. The piece is a melodrama of the Northwest, by David Belasco and Willard Mack, and the cast includes Mr. Mack and Lenore Ulrich.

BREAK CHLOROFORM 'CHAIN.'

Washington Officials Ban War Appeals for Anaesthetics.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Official announcement was made today that statements contained in the text of a certain letter being sent to Government employes soliciting money for purchasing anaesthetics were considered objectionable because found to be based on misrepresentation.

"These letters," said an announcement issued through the Committee on Public Information, "have been referred to both the representatives of the English and French Governments, who state positively that the assertion on which this appeal is based is absolutely without foundation."

The entire letter was not made public, but the objectionable part of the text was given out as follows:

"Owing to the scarcity of anaesthetics, operations that cause indescribable pain have to be performed daily without their aid to mitigate suffering. We are making an appeal to you to subscribe 24 cents toward purchasing chloroform to use in the hospitals of the Allies. Please send a copy of this letter to four of your friend and number it ——. Do not fail, or the chain will be broken and the good cause defeated. Send the money to ——, New York City. It is hoped to raise this number to 500, so as to help in making this effort a success."

THE GERMAN PLOTS.

It would be a mistake to think of the State Department's revelations concerning German plots in the United States as merely historical, as dealing with things of the past. They deal with things of the present. If Germany was spending money to organize disloyalty within the United States when she was at peace with us, she most certainly did not become high-minded and stop it the moment she went to war with us. She is still spending money, and for the same purpose. The thing needs no proof. She is paying every man who will accept pay for the same purpose for which, before the war began, she was paying every man who would accept pay, to handicap and weaken the arm of the American Government.

How are we to recognize the trail of her money? Before the war she was organizing strikes, blowing up factories, and purchasing the creation of a false public opinion against trading with the Allies. The outbreak of war somewhat altered her aims; there have been no purchased strikes lately and no dynamiting of factories. Her aim, which is always the same—the weakening of the Government's arm—can now be best attained by creating a false public opinion in favor of laying down our arms and consenting to peace before the objects of the war are attained. All her own moves from Berlin are now directed to that end, and when we find a movement in the United States which duplicates the moves from Berlin it is safe to assume that Germany is backing it in the same way in which she backed other movements, to quote von Bernstorff, "on former occasions."

It makes no difference that some of the men who are engaged in this movement may be merely foolish or deluded and not in receipt of money from Wilhelmstrasse. There are others who are, and these dupes are merely their tools. One and all they are doing the work for which Germany pays, those who get the pay and those who do not. The ignorant zealot goes where the paid traitor sends him. That the ignorant zealot does not know the paid traitor is paid does not alter in the slightest the deadly effect of his action, the deadly effect calculated on and purposed by the German paymaster.

The Secret Service has done remarkable work in producing the proof of these German machinations. It will be observed that Secretary Lansing has apparently selected, in each revelation, some choice disclosure from one particular set of proofs, and then has made his next revelation from another set. The documents involving Justice Cohalan and others were taken from the game bag which the Secret Service filled when it raided Wolf von Igel's quarters; but the discovery of the horrible plot to poison Rumania came from a different game bag, the revelations of the use made of Sweden from another, the Zimmermann plot to bring on war with Mexico and Japan from another. It is evident that the Secretary has barely touched his mass of material. It might be said that he has made one selection from each pigeonhole and then passed on to another. We have probably not yet more than a glimmering of the extent to which we have been encompassed by plots, plots laid while Germany was at peace with us and protesting friendship; but it may help us to remember the President's statement, made when he asked for a declaration of war, that these plots were working "even before the war began," that is, even before Germany invaded Belgium.

He spoke the truth when he declared that "in such a Government, following such methods, we can never have a friend; and that in the presence of its organized power, always lying in wait to accomplish we know not what purpose, there can be no assured security for the democratic Governments of the world." But the lesson for the day is not the lesson of Germany's venomous hate or the skill with which she has plotted against us for years; we knew that before. The lesson for the day is not to take new anger for what was done in the past, but to be watchful over the present, to remember always that German money and German plotting are as active in the world today as ever, and to look upon every movement that tends to weaken the Government's arm as conceived, organized, and financed by Germany until we know beyond dispute that it is not. The only course of safety for him who would serve his country is to keep out of suspicious company and follow the one path which he knows cannot possibly be secretly organized and financed by the enemy; the path of unhesitating loyalty to his Government and of friendship to all its allies.

IS NEW YORK FOR WAR OR PEACE?

The meeting in Madison Square Garden Sunday for the ratification of the nominations on the Socialist municipal ticket was instructive to Americans in this city. While the United States is bending all its energies to the work of the war, these Socialists, ever docile helpers of Germany, are clamoring for peace. We know the platform of opposition to the war which they adopted at St. Louis last April. Now they are trying to commit New York to peace, just in time to boost the German propaganda for it carried on in every Entente and neutral country. "New York City," said one of the speakers, "needs a Mayor who knows "that the city is in the United States, "and is not a suburb of London." This is the way the German peacemakers here talk. They are not German. Oh, no! Their candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen denied the charge. They merely assail Great Britain, denounce the war of "capitalism," and strive for a peace that will be a German victory.

Mr. Morris Hillquit, their candidate for Mayor, a famous sigher for the peace plots at Stockholm, described the campaign so clearly that nothing need be added to his description:

> The municipal campaign in this city will be the only great political contest in the United States since our entry in war. It will offer the first real opportunity to the greatest community in the country to express its sentiments on war and peace. The verdict of the citizens of New York will be eagerly awaited by the people of the country, aye, I may say without exaggeration by the people of the whole world.

Is New York for war or peace, for the United States or Germany? Mr. Hillquit represents the Socialist pacifists and pro-Germans. Behind Judge Hylan will be many disloyalists, many pro-Germans, the domestic elements of German intrigue revealed now and then from Washington, the men who hate England more than they love the United States. Since Mr. Hillquit has no chance of election, it is not to him that the various forces of anti-Americanism not Socialist will turn. Mayor Mitchel is the candidate of ardent American patriotism. In his own party and in other parties he has made enemies by his patriotism. And he has made friends by it among men of all parties and of no party. He stands for vigorous prosecution of the war. So does New York; and so it will show at the polls, to the discomfiture of Germany and all its friends, all the seditionaries and the seekers of a German peace.

PRIORITY.

Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board announces that he will call a conference of shipbuilders to arrange an agreement that they will not entice workmen away from each other by increases of wages. That suggests another subject for the priority board. We have heard much of priority of transportation and priority of products. Now there is an object lesson of the necessity of controlling priority of labor. The Government is by far the greatest trader there is now. There is no bidder for labor comparable with the Government. A chief cause of trouble in the coal trade is the competitive bidding of the Government for labor. Coal operators are under economic limitation regarding the wages they can pay, and, moreover, there is a specific restriction upon their paying over $3.60. The Government pays $6 a day for workers at the cantonments, and overtime makes a week eight days. The Government gets its cantonments, and nobody grudges it its priority. But it is got in the manner which is objectionable because it repeals the law of supply and demand.

The Government shipping does not have to earn a profit. Contractors for Government shipping, therefore, are able to pay whatever wages the Government will regard as costs. But that throws out of gear the entire industry. And no industry stands alone. All industries are competitors for labor today, and the Government purveyors pay the highest wages, with the result of a shortage in other industries apparently not in relation. Sudden wealth is so unsettling to capitalists that the folly of the newly rich is a byword for those accustomed to deal with ample funds. In just that manner there is something about the doubling of wage-earners' pay which unsettles their judgment. Instead of giving more work for more pay, they tend to become less efficient. The coal trade could spare men for munitions works if the remaining force would work full time for higher wages. But the larger the wages the greater the merrymaking which shortens the supply of labor. Hypocrisy and selfishness were behind the old cry that wages should be kept small to encourage temperance and frugality and for the higher good of the wage-earners. That theory is not behind the fact that there is not coal enough for both family and factory use because of competitive bidding for labor, the Government being in the position of the Seattle shipbuilders whose concession of a 33 per cent. increase of wages on Government work upset the Pacific Coast.

These examples illustrate the manner in which the priority of products passes over into priority of labor. Whoever demands products demands labor. Whoever commands labor or products now lessens labor and products for others. There was unanimous approval of the stoppage of competitive buying with foreign tax money, which raised the price of our food beyond the reach of domestic consumers and damaged the foreign buyers by reducing their resources unnecessarily. Will there be similar approval of the stoppage of competitive wage increases above an economic scale? Here is a new subject for the priority boards of all trades, including the bidders for labor on Government account. The Government should have priority, because its demand is the common demand. But the competitive market for labor established by the Government with tax resources is a common injury. Chairman Hurley sees it, and moves to restrict the practice in a manner causing regret that he no longer heads the commission which is so embarrassing the coal trade.

A STUDY IN PSYCHOLOGY.

> Crashing through the upper floors of the school building, the bomb dropped into the infants' room and exploded among a big class of children not over 5 years old. Thirteen of these little ones were killed. Two of the thirteen were blown to such small fragments that no trace of them could be found.
> —From a report of the great German air raid over London on June 13.

Most people have felt a shuddering interest in the unknown men who plan these raids. Their identity, like that of the men who plan the massacres of passengers by submarines, is kept a secret. There are few of us who have not tried to conjecture what manner of men they are, whether their faces are any index to what we feel their minds must be, how they look, how they go through the ordinary business of life. We all feel that the minds capable of conceiving such things as that instanced in this paragraph, and of instigating other men to do them, must be somehow different from other minds. How do they appear to those who know them? Do the men who meet them in everyday business see in them persons of an extraordinary cruelty and brutality, or, in the usual walks of life, do they seem normal and like other men?

After the war, when its secrets are given up, the identity of these men capable of conceiving and instigating the wholesale slaughter of the innocent will be made known, and doubtless most of us have looked forward with a gruesome interest to learning then what manner of men they were. But a fortunate revelation makes it unnecessary to wait. One of them has been made known to us, and in his person the curious may study the psychology of the whole class. He is not a German, moved by a blind devotion to duty which excludes from his consideration the horrors his proposals involve. He is an American. He is a Justice of the Supreme Court of New York. He is one of the inner circle of leadership in Tammany Hall. He is the man whose "very secret" request, transmitted through Wolf von Igel to the German Government, was that Germany should help Ireland by "aerial attacks on England." His name is Daniel F. Cohalan.

FOR THE INTEREST OF ALL.

Secretary McAdoo makes an appeal that is nation-wide, universal, in announcing the issue of the war saving certificates authorized by Congress. There will be denominations as low as $5, bearing 4 per cent. interest. Savings may be accumulated through the purchase of stamps, in books issued for the purpose, until the price of a certificate has been put by. All the people, says Mr. McAdoo, must practice saving on a large scale, for in no other way can the Government be financed for carrying on the war. The saving certificates plan "will give "every man, woman, and child in "America, no matter how small his "means, the opportunity of doing "something to help the Government."

The same appeal will be made, must be made, for the next issue of the Liberty Loan. The money is to be spent for the benefit of the whole people, it is for the interest of the whole people that the Loan should be subscribed, and oversubscribed. It must be a pull all together. The interest at stake in the success of the Loan is the interest of the whole population. Every banker, every merchant, every manufacturer, every man of business, every farmer, every investor, and the owners of property or securities of any kind are working in their own interest and for their own benefit when they work for the success of the Loan.

The truth of that is plain, for if the Loan subscription should fail, if it should fall short of the full amount, there would be a shrinkage in values affecting, and most disagreeably affecting, the owners of all classes of property. There would be a fall in security prices which would be felt by every investor, even the smallest. For the failure of the people to come to the support of the Government by bond subscriptions would be construed as an indication that the people were giving only half-hearted support to the Government in prosecuting the war. That in itself would be appalling, for now that the war has been brought so near to its end, much nearer, we imagine, than the American people realize, and to that end which is the only way of ending it which can insure our future peace and safety, it would be calamity greater than the imagination could measure were there any abatement of effort or zeal, courage or determination anywhere among the Allies.

This is said not because there is the slightest danger of any such faltering, or of failure of the Loan, but to make it plain that every American man, woman, and child is interested in the Loan subscription and will for that reason strive to make it successful. Self-interest is a most powerful auxiliary to the forces of patriotism, loyalty, and national pride that will co-operate for the Loan and make it successful. This is another reason why Government advertising of the bonds is not going to be necessary. The bankers, merchants, manufacturers, and private organizations that will enlist in the service of the Loan will be spending money in their own interest when they spend it for advertising, if advertising is necessary, in addition to the service the newspapers will gladly, loyally, and voluntarily render.

THE DRAFT SLACKERS.

There are about 10,000 men of the national army now at Camp Upton, and more than 200 of the men called to the colors have thus far failed to respond. Of the 399 out of the 1,682 men included in the second call who did not respond on time many have since reported at the camp, and presumably most of these had reasonable excuses for their tardiness. It is not unlikely that of the still missing contingent some are ill or, because of their ignorance of the draft law and a lack of respect for discipline and authority engendered by their habits of life, have gone away from their homes and have failed thus far to receive the summons. Such have poor enough excuses, of course, but they will suffice for the present, and these offenders will soon acquire discipline and respect for authority at the camp.

But, after all these possible exceptions have been made, there still remains entirely too large a number of drafted men who have deliberately shirked the call, who have deserted. We must assume that not one of these realizes the seriousness of his offense or comprehends the severity of the punishment to which he is now liable. There is scarcely a doubt that all of these slackers will be rounded up in time and subjected to military discipline. While none of them is physically a weakling, all must be lacking in moral strength. They are clearly the victims of the evil influence of the pacifists and other disloyal persons who have been, openly sometimes, but generally by underhand means, persistently trying to defeat the Government's military plans. The talk they have heard daily—the specious arguments against compulsory service, the vicious peace cackle—has had its effect on their undeveloped minds. They have no valid excuse for their neglect of their duty, but they are really less to blame than the people who have so badly influenced them.

Some of them will in time be transformed into competent and obedient soldiers. The able-bodied man who does not make a good soldier when he has been thoroughly trained is a rare specimen of humanity. But in their early days in camp these slackers can scarcely hope to be happy. More than 12 per cent. of the second contingent of men ordered to Camp Upton still had not been accounted for yesterday. This is too large a proportion, but it is a phenomenon that will disappear as the calls to the colors continue. Men of this type will learn in time that the nation's call must be promptly heeded. The convicted slacker will have no sort of standing in the community, he cannot obtain decent employment in civil life. He will be an outcast. It is a pity that the evil-minded people who endeavor to influence ignorant and weak-minded young men thus to subject themselves to ignominy cannot be brought to the bar of justice. But the lines are drawing closely around them. The day of reckoning will not be long postponed.

OUR MEN IN FRANCE.

The announcement in a dispatch from a correspondent of The Associated Press that the vanguard of our expeditionary forces is now so near the fighting line that some of our soldiers have actually found their way surreptitiously into the British trenches is inspiriting, but it is not to be taken as an indication that the American troops are soon to get into action in France. The impulsive fellows whose eagerness to be under fire led them away from their command have been ordered to behave hereafter. They will not be placed in opposition to the Teuton forces until they are prepared to advance in force. Our strength is not to be dribbled away because a certain contingent of our troops is ready for the fray.

These men in the advance guard are acquiring knowledge of modern warfare and skill in action which they will display when the time comes. All our troops now in France are enjoying advantages which were denied to the English and French soldiers who went in the war at the beginning. Meanwhile, there is no hurry in the American preparations on that side of the ocean. The hurrying must be done here. Equipment, arms, and ammunition, and inexhaustible supplies must be provided for the soldiers now there and those who are going. There must be speed in the training camps, in the ammunition factories, in the clothing shops. There must be speed, directed by the highest order of intelligence, in the army bureaus. On the other side we can afford to make haste slowly. The vanguard cannot learn too much about the war game. When the time comes the blow will be struck effectively.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Nobody's Too Old for Service.

People frequently express what presumably is sincere regret that because of age or some other physical disqualification they must remain at home, quiet and ineffectual, while their more fortunate, but not more patriotic, fellow-citizens are privileged to take personal and direct part in the prosecution of the war. As a matter of fact, there is not one of these Americans, man or woman, of any age above infancy, who cannot serve the country's cause—who cannot do it as personally and directly, though in a different way, as the stalwart young fellows who are going to the firing line.

All they need do to accomplish this result is to read carefully and heed the successive appeals to be sparing in the use of this or that necessity of life that are coming almost daily from the head of the Food Commission.

Mr. Hoover is not asking any of us to go hungry, and still less to approach the starvation line; he is not seeking to impose restrictions on diet that would result in anything deserving to be called hardship. He simply points to one or another staple of which we should consume a little less than has been our custom in better days, and he either tells us, or trusts our own intelligence to find out, how we can make up for these voluntary deprivations by substituting something else equally nutritious, but less suitable for transportation to our European allies.

His latest appeal is for a lessened consumption here of sugar. That, unquestionably, is among the best of foods, and, unquestionably, too, at least ninety-nine out of every hundred of us, if we will, can use less of it and leave a larger amount available for sending to France. Unless this is done, the supply of that country, already below the limit where scarcity means widespread injury to health, will fall to the vanishing point.

Of course, there is not much excitement in using one lump of sugar instead of two, in going without some of the cakes and pies that take a lot of it, in cutting down even more rigorously the candy of which we have been in the habit of buying more than was good for us. There will be no special glory in doing it, and no tangible reward, but thus we can all help to advance the day of victory, and do, if not the whole of "our bit," at least something practical, useful, and honorable.

Holding Back Wheat from Market.

A long dispatch in The Kansas City Times reveals and explains the disquieting fact that 60 per cent. of the 18,000,000 bushels of wheat raised this year in Oklahoma remains in the hands of the farmers, and that, instead of sending it to market, they are feeding it to their hogs. The reasons given for this are three—first, the high price of corn, coupled with a practical inability to get corn at any price; second, that at present comparative prices of wheat and hogs the farmer realizes more profit by feeding his wheat than by selling it; third, some of the farmers are feeding their wheat because they desire to voice a protest against governmental control of wheat prices without in any degree affecting the price of commodities which the farmer must buy.

Noticeable by absence from this list is any reference to the world's desperate need of wheat at the present time, and no hint is given that these Oklahoma farmers are considering the possibility of sharing with other people, just now, an obligation to make sacrifices for the general good instead of weighing relative profits and taking the highest one within reach. However, too much should not be expected of farmers, any more than of other people, and if, as stated in this same dispatch, corn costs $2.25 a bushel—and little can be bought even at that price—while at the Oklahoma elevators the price paid for wheat is from $1.80 to $1.95, not $2.20, it is not so surprising that the possessor of the wheat turns the cheaper grain into the bacon and hams for which there is at present such an eager demand.

It is not pleasant to read, however, that the farmer feels that he is deprived of a "righteous profit" now that the law of supply and demand is working in his favor, and, in effect, that if this and other nations want his wheat in the shape of wheat, they will have to see to it that it is at least as profitable in that shape as in any other.

Teutonism at Its Height.

If any more proof were needed to convince an attentive world that things German are at least as German as things Spanish are Spanish—the latter peculiarity was noted long ago—it would be provided by the Volkszeitung of Cologne. For that paper presents, among the conditions on which alone Germany can consent to make peace, the truly amazing one that no American capital shall be used for the industrial rehabilitation of Belgium!

This is much the same as insisting that nobody at all shall help the Belgians to get on their feet again, for of course the Cologne editor ignores the possibility that Germany may be expected, or even compelled, to "pay damages" for the frightful injury she has done in their country. But the German purpose, if he knows it, and he evidently thinks he does, goes further than the repudiation of this debt—it is nothing less than that Belgium shall remain permanently, or at any rate indefinitely, in her present state of ruin and helplessness, and that the only people who are likely to have, at the end of the war, any money to invest in Belgian trade and manufacture must promise not to interfere with the situation which Germany the inerrable has created in her own good pleasure.

OUR TROOPS ABROAD.

Praise for the Engineers Training in England.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to an article in today's issue of The Times re Gertrude Atherton's letter of Sept. 12, which grieved me sorely at the moment, I should like to quote some extracts from a letter just received from a nephew.

His unbiased opinion of the American soldier in England will dispel any unkind impression caused by said letter.

It is too bad that youthful exuberance should have been so misconstrued. To quote from my letter dated Aug. 29:

> I would like to say right here that I have seen quite a few of the United States Engineers Regiments from New York, San Francisco, and other points in the Middle West which have passed through the big American Engineers base, close to our own camp. Have met quite a few of them and it certainly is good to see their splendid appearance and, best of all, how seriously they take this soldiering business. Their discipline is good also, really better than that which prevails in the Canadians, even if I do say it myself.
>
> I had meant to send you a description of their big march through the West End of London, where they made such a hit. Do you know I have heard many of them who had been inspected by the King remark, "Not a bad old sport, is he?" I took special note of it, coming from Americans, and was certainly pleased to hear them say it.
>
> Although I am not a flag waver myself, I think a lot of the King, he is so democratic and human, and if all of the American troops could see him, it would do a great deal toward bringing the Empire and the States to a closer understanding. * * *
>
> There is one paramount question which I hope and pray your country will realize the great necessity of looking into, and acting on, while there is time.
>
> That is to work like mad, day and night, and turn out fast planes in unlimited numbers. They can do it, and I think they will. Every machine put out is one more than the Boche will have. We are just able to keep him in check, so the American surplus must be the deciding factor, and without doubt will be the means of ending this war.

I send this message so that every American soldier (officer and private) may know what a hearty welcome awaits him overseas, especially from the tired, war-worn Canadians. J. B.

Cardinal Gasparri's Peace Plan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It may have been true, as the Papal Secretary said, that compulsory military service has led to many wars, the Governments always having ready at hand a fighting instrument, but that does not prove that the suppression of conscription by means of an arbitration tribunal, with a guarantee of boycotting the nations which may again attempt to introduce conscription, will prevent future wars—a plan which Cardinal Gasparri stated was the best so far suggested. Although the suppression of conscription would weaken the fighting ability of the nations, wars would come just the same, but in a less scientific degree. Also, it would be futile in case three or four great nations united to promote military preparedness, for the others to try to boycott their equals. Boycotting is not a strong enough means for attaining international harmony in the future years.

This plan of disarmament is a step backward to a negative purpose. The better way is the creative way—to use the advance made in warfare for constructing an international police, governed by an international court of arbitration in accordance with President Wilson's plan. As for Cardinal Gasparri's question, "In which country would this court be located without being influenced by local politics and prejudices?" it is a mere technical problem which must [illegible] can be overwhelmed by the great principle. Free Carriage for Soldiers' Parcels.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One hears from time to time of various things done and ideas set forth for the comfort and well-being of the troops at home and abroad. Those who actually have their men on the soil of Europe feel that their parcels of food and other comforts should go free. As one put it, the 60 cents she paid in postage on a parcel could have been saved to her or she could have used that 60 cents to send more to her man. These parcels must keep on going and the 60 cents will pile up to a goodly sum, which, in these days, could be used on the children, in this particular family, and no doubt other families.

So much room is taken up anyway for mail—its going free would simply entail another war expense on a nation well able to afford it, probably not more than four million dollars for the remainder of the war, and what is such a sum when the expenditures these days are figured in the billions? Some also wonder why they have to pay postage on their letters, though these same persons appreciate the fact that it costs no more for a letter to France than to any part of the States. What a small matter anyway to such a nation as we are!

Marcus Aurelius for the Kaiser.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Some morning when the Kaiser is reading for the improvement of his mind his eye may chance to fall upon the following passage in the "meditations" of a worthier Emperor:

"Never value anything as profitable to thyself which shall compel thee to break thy promise, to lose thy self-respect, to hate any man, to suspect, to curse, to act the hypocrite, to desire anything which needs walls and curtains."—"Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius Antoninus," Book 3, Paragraph 7.

Glass porches stare and peer
All up the terraced hill—
Glass porches tier on tier
Where, mummy-wrapped and still,
Day-long the T. B.s lie,
Wards of the winds and sky.

Remote from life as though
By wizard's conjury,
By witch's spell, laid low,
Whom fairy's touch might free
From watching clouds pass over—
Snows weirdly wreathe and cover.

Might free to seek their tasks,
To be by walls shut in,
To wear their separate masks
Of labor, love, or sin.
Alike, now, every one,
Nurslings of storm and sun.

Strange, dun chrysalides
With hungry eyes and minds
Adventuring through space
While the health-giving winds
Pass, heedless of their boon,
Buffet each dull cocoon.

Health each desires—to enjoy,
To marry, buy or sell.
Too late, one lovely boy
Implores, "God, make me well!
Grant, God, that I may fight Against the Prussian might!"

Glass porches stare and peer
All up the terraced hill—
Glass porches, tier on tier,
Where, mummy-wrapped and still,
Day-long the T. B.s lie,
Wards of the winds and sky!

BOOKS FOR SOLDIERS.

Suggestion That Citizens Give from Their Libraries Instead of Cash.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The proposal to furnish our soldiers with a million readable books is admirable. But the plan of raising a million dollars in cash is at least questionable. When so much money is required for war expenses, and there are so many calls for hospitals and other deserving charities, why make a call for that large amount to be expended in buying books, when all the books that are wanted can be had for the asking?

I am ready to give half of my library—books that are readable, interesting, and all in good condition. The half that I should retain consists mainly of reference books and large volumes not suitable to be handed round in camp. I believe there are thousands of persons in our country who would gladly make a similar offer. And if the work of appealing for the books and collecting and shipping them is systematized, the boxes for packing can also be had for the asking. I presume the cost of transportation would have to be met.

Furthermore, if the books must be bought, they need not cost a dollar apiece. Every publishing house has "remainders," unsold copies of good books that are no longer called for by the trade. In some instances the remainders are quite large; and these books can be had at a low price. Of course it is not intended that the gift to our soldiers shall consist exclusively of new novels. We can do better than that for them.

Before calling for cash, let us send out an appeal for books. The loyal press throughout the country would publish it. A receiving depot can be designated in every city and village. All sorts of merchants would give empty packing boxes, and there are willing hands enough to pack the books. Probably some discount could be obtained from the transportation companies, great and small. As often as we found a citizen who could not bear to part with his books, we could ask him to give a little money instead. It is safe to say that one-twentieth of the proposed million dollars would meet all the necessary expenses of the transaction. We should find a large number of persons who, because of increased taxes and the high cost of living, cannot afford to contribute cash, but will give liberally of their books. ROSSITER JOHNSON.

PATIENCE WITH DISLOYALISTS.

Civil War Lenience Cannot Well Be Repeated at This Time.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If this nation had no other problems that were demanding immediate attention and solution it would be an interesting experiment to allow the German propagandists here in this country to go just as far as they like in their efforts to "queer" America and to render us easy prey for William of Germany—get us in such a nicely bedevilled state of mind that we would be easy picking. We remember that we came out all right with the "Copperheads" in the war between the States, and have seen them reaping the harvest of their acts from that day until this. The surviving ones are still pointed out to young children as horrible examples of men who sought to betray their country into the hands of the enemy. So the Copperhead of '61, '62, '63, and '64 has served a good purpose. Every village still has a Copperhead or two for show and "horrible example" purposes. But the civil war reptile is rapidly becoming extinct and his mantle has fallen upon his pro-German brother. The Copperhead family was such a numerous one that the Washington Government thought it wise not to try to exterminate it, as there were times during the war to preserve the Union that the outcome of an open encounter would have been considered doubtful. So the Copperhead was left, largely, to his own devices until the war was over, and public opinion commenced administering his punishment and has been on the job ever since.

So it would be a nice and interesting experiment if we could see our way clear to let the 1914-1917 Copperhead have his own way, and be left undisturbed, and to leave it to the coming generation to "hand him his." But times are not propitious for trying what might turn out to be a very costly experiment. We have only to look at Russia. The new Provisional Government was a bit proud and cocky over the fact that it allowed the German trick Socialist, Lenine, to go and come when he pleased. The newspapers of the new revolutionary Government even went so far as to print Lenine's speeches. It was in a kind of spirit of bravado they did it. He and his crowd can't hurt us, was the way they felt about it. And the pro-German press and speakers here in this country were quick to taunt us with the splendid example that Russia was setting us whenever the Washington Administration showed any signs of wishing to curtail the activities of the Kaiserists. The whole world now knows the results that have attended the work of the pro-German "Copperheads" in Russia. They let down the bars for the Kaiser, who is now simply eating 'em up. And let us make no mistake, to do to America what Lenine and his crowd have done to Russia is the ambition of every pro-German in America. We are hardly in the shape to allow the experiment to proceed any further.

Is the War Breaking Down?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have received a second circular from the People's Council of America and sent the following reply:

The Rev. J. L. Magnes:

Dear Sir: I have no time for an extended comment on your address of Sept. 2, but I notice on Page 6 that you assert that the backbone of the war is broken, and you ask, "Why then go on with the war?"

But I do not believe the backbone of the war is broken. The Kaiser still wins victories and shouts "Onward with God." In his spirit and the spirit that upholds him in Germany, and, unfortunately, out of Germany, is the backbone of the war. It is a spirit as yet uncrushed, and it is to be crushed, not by messages or speeches or conferences, but by the only thing it understands, brute force.

Your former communication to me followed upon the horror of the Belgian Prince. This one comes to me when we are all shocked by the new hideous word of reproach to be held for generations against this German spirit, "Spurlos versenkt."

In this spirit of barbarity lies the cause of the war, and especially the reason for its continuance. It is, in my opinion, his commendable failure to realize this spirit that led Mr. Wilson to believe peace possible so long that he was called a coward by one party and accused of merely changing his mind by the other. What he discovered was that he was dealing with a different mentality, a different spirit from ours. You might have peace without victory with honorable foes. But here is an entire ethnic group poisoned with Prussian views as deadly to the human spirit as prussic acid is to the human body.

This virus must be destroyed and those afflicted with it rendered harmless.

Trust them? And what about the fourth partition of Poland? Yours truly,

CHARLES A. DOWNER.

PLATTSBURG ALTERNATES.

The Ruling of the War Department on the Present Camp.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In order that the men who were on the alternate list for the present Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg may be informed of the results obtained by a committee appointed to interview Secretary Baker as to the likelihood of gaining admission to the present camp, I ask you to publish the inclosed correspondence. Might I be permitted to state that the committee was of the opinion that Mr. Baker would be difficult to approach? Instead, to our pleasant surprise, we met him without any trouble and learned that he would listen with an attentive ear to any legitimate plea.

PATRICK J. TREACY.

[Inclosures.]

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, Sept. 10, 1917.

My Dear Mr. Treacy:

After your call the other day I dictated, as you remember, a memorandum to the Adjutant General, and have just received the reply, which I inclose.

I am forced to believe that the decision of the Adjutant General is wise, in view of the fact that the camps have now been in session about two weeks, and admissions at this late date would undoubtedly bring in men far behind in preparatory work.

I regret very much that it is not possible to do what you and your associates so ardently desired.

Cordially yours,
NEWTON D. BAKER,
Secretary of War.

Mr. P. J. Treacy:

New York City.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
The Adjutant General's Office.
Memorandum for Secretary of War.

1. Referring to your memorandum of Sept. 7, relative to admitting the remaining seventy alternates for Plattsburg Training Camp as a body:

This could not in fairness be done at Plattsburg alone; and the conditions in the other eight camps are not necessarily the same.

2. The capacity of the camps and the instructor personnel have been calculated in accordance with published instructions, and it would upset the schedule to admit all the alternates at this time. If there are vacancies they will be filled under existing instructions as follows:

On Sept. 5 telegraphic orders were sent all commanding officers of training camps that Sept. 10 would be the last date on which alternates would be admitted. Vacancies occurring after that date will not be filled. Furthermore, vacancies existing in any State quota can be filled by alternates of that State only. I recommend strict adherence to this program.

POST OFFICE FIGURES.

Nobody Knows What It Costs to Handle Second-Class Matter.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Hon. Claude Kitchin, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee in the House of Representatives, is an orator with an imagination, in statistical matters, which frequently takes poetic flights in the clouds.

You were quite right in pointing out in The Times of Friday morning the absurdity of Mr. Kitchin's figures with respect to the loss to the Government on copies of The Times mailed as second-class matter. Any intelligent discussion of the second-class postage question should be based on statistical facts. When the Post Office Department, which should be an authority in such matters, is asked what it costs to transport and handle second-class matter, the best it can do is to "estimate" that the cost is from eight to nine cents a pound.

The Postmaster General, of course, understands, as does everybody else who has attempted to investigate the second-class postage question, that it is absolutely impossible to find out what it costs to handle this matter. They have to guess at it. The Hon. Hoke Smith, Senator from Georgia, the other day, in a speech on the floor of the Senate, stated that while it was possible to ascertain the exact cost of transporting second-class mail, there was no way to determine the cost of handling it. Just what proportion of the expenses of the Post Office Department for handling should be apportioned to each class of mail is an impracticable problem to solve. The Government must have postmasters, assistant postmasters, regular carriers, and rural route carriers, whether there is any second-class mail to handle or not, and probably just as many of them if there were no second-class mail.

Isn't it ridiculous to claim that it costs over eight cents to handle a pound of second-class mail, when the Postmaster General has admitted that the Government is making money on parcel post packages, and is able to transmit and handle them for less than three cents a pound? Why should it cost any more to transport and handle second-class mail than it does to transport and handle parcel post packages?

This whole question is up in the air. If the truth were known, probably the Government makes enough money on the immense number of letters produced by the advertising departments of the various publications of the country to offset all that it loses in handling this mail.

The publishers are asking for simple justice, and not for any advantages that they ought not to have. They are willing to pay their share of the war taxes, but they want to be permitted to live, and they cannot pay taxes unless they do live. The zone scheme proposed by Mr. Kitchin would ruin or cripple hundreds, if not thousands, of worthy publications. M. T. RICHARDSON.

High Prices at New Camps.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I want to bring before the public the tremendous question of rent and board which confronts the army woman today. Now, more than ever, the army wife desires above all else in the world to be near her husband so that the family life may continue in some form up to the time that the father is ordered to France, perhaps never to return.

From every part of the country where our training camps are situated comes the same cry: "Rents are so high, board is so dear, we can't afford to go there."

Why are the people so unpatriotic at this war time as to raise their rents and board and thus make it impossible for army families to keep together as long as possible?

Prices around Camp Upton are unbelievable—at Bellport, a small home, $1,000 for six months; hotels, single room, $25 a week; double room, $50 a week. L. G.

HOUSE MOVES FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Adopts by 181 to 107 Rule to Create a Committee to Deal with the Subject.

DEBATE A HEATED ONE

Annoyance of President by Pickets at White House Denounced as "Outlawry."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—With less than two-thirds of the membership voting, the House late today adopted by 181 to 107 a special rule to create a Committee on Woman Suffrage.

Opponents of the rule attacked the creation of a new committee as entirely unnecessary, on the ground that the Judiciary Committee was amply able to handle the suffrage question and had planned to report the so-called Susan B. Anthony amendment to the House early next December. They also declared the rule to create the committee and the formation of the committee itself were "merely a sop thrown by politicians to the advocates of a warning cause."

The debate was a warm one from start to finish. Anti-suffrage members took advantage of the occasion to denounce the women who have picketed the White House for months past, annoying the President when he was struggling with weighty questions of the greatest moment to the nation—problems requiring his full and undivided attention.

Representative Stafford of Wisconsin bluntly called the action of the pickets "outlawry."

Representative Walsh of Massachusetts opposed the measure, declaring that in creating the committee the House would be yielding to "the nagging of iron-jawed angels," and said the White House pickets were "bewildered, deluded creatures with short skirts and short hair."

Representative Webb of North Carolina, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, pointed to the fact that the platforms of both the Republican and Democratic Parties defined suffrage as a State matter, and one which should be settled by the State.

Representative Pou of North Carolina, Chairman of the Rules Committee, led the fight for the adoption of the rule. He declared that President Wilson had written him urging the naming of the committee, and when Mr. Webb said he did not think the President ever had made such a statement, Mr. Pou produced the letter. It was not read.

Representative Jeannette Rankin of Montana made the principal speech for the rule. She quoted the Constitutions of some of the States to show the difficulty of gaining woman suffrage State by State.

"Perhaps it is news to you to know that some of the women of the United States can never be enfranchised except by a Federal amendment," Miss Rankin said. "Constitutions of the States are such that it is practically impossible to amend them."

She pointed to the Constitution of New Mexico to illustrate this. "There," she said, "to amend the Constitution, it is necessary to have three-fourths of all the votes cast and to have a majority of two-thirds in every county."

While the House was voting, four of the Woman's Party pickets were arrested for displaying banners before the White House. They were released on bond to appear tomorrow.

ROOT DENOUNCES SUFFRAGE AGITATION

Says It Is Unfortunate That Subject Should Be Thrust Forward at This Time.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Elihu Root made known his opposition to woman suffrage in emphatic utterances at a mass meeting here tonight. Mr. Root presided, presenting Mrs. James Wadsworth, Jr., President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, and Mrs. Grace Duffield Goodwin of Connecticut.

"It is unfortunate," said Mr. Root, "that the subject should be thrust upon us now, at a time when all that care for their country require all their energy and strength and enthusiasm and heart and soul for the service of their country in the peril that confronts it. I think it unfortunate that we should be compelled to turn aside from our efforts toward making our country victorious over that cruel, brutal, and arrogant enemy which does not hesitate to murder women and children, and which seeks to destroy the liberties of the world, in order to have controversy over the question of woman suffrage.

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women. I formed an unfavorable opinion of the project many years ago, and time, far from changing my opinion, has but confirmed it. I am opposed to it because I think it would be bad for the government of the country, for the State, and bad for women."

Mrs. Wadsworth said she became actively interested because she believed the Government was threatened with a serious illness—feminization—and decided something must be done to stop it.

Mrs. Goodwin's reference to Mr. Root's mission to Russia caused a demonstration that interrupted her for some moments. She had just remarked that women opposed to the vote were unwillingly forced to act. "The Suffragists tell women they should have the vote because Russia has given it," she went on. "Poor, blind Russia, which owes an incalculable debt to the gentleman back of me." Then followed the outburst.

WAR TAX FIGHT NEAR END.

Senate and House Conferees Expected to Agree Soon.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Although on the verge of a complete agreement on the war tax bill many times today, the Senate and House conferees again failed to get together and adjourned until tomorrow with the hope of concluding their long struggle then.

Continued disputes over excess profits taxation and a few minor matters blocked the agreement expected today by many of the conferees. The Senate members were reported ready to accept the compromise plan or graduated war excess profits rates proposed by the House representatives when further dispute arose over renewed attempts to provide a flat exemption of 8 per cent. of invested corporate capital.

It is generally believed that any agreement on war excess profits will not materially change the Senate's proposed gross levy of $1,060,000,000.

RESIGNS RED CROSS POST.

H. H. Harjes Relinquishes Direction of the Society in France.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—H. Herman Harjes of the banking firm of Morgan, Harjes & Co. has resigned as High Commissioner of the American Red Cross Society for France and Belgium.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—America's name has been further endeared to the French people by the work of the American Red Cross in France, says a cablegram from Ambassador Sharp to the State Department made public tonight.

The Ambassador tells how Major Murphy, head of the Red Cross Commission, and his staff have absorbed the activities of many relief organizations, retaining the benefit of their knowledge of conditions.

"The Red Cross in Paris today," his message says, "is in every respect a business organization, conducted by men of experience in business affairs; but it is far more than such designation commonly signifies. Business qualifications are not the only ones possessed by its chiefs for administering this great work. They are men of heart and unselfish devotion to the cause and are actuated by an intense zeal to make every dollar intrusted to their care yield its full measure of good."

MISS HALLOCK A BRIDE.

Daughter of Late Columbia Professor Weds Andrew Gabel, Jr.

Miss Josephine Hallock, daughter of Mrs. William Hallock, and Andrew Gabel, Jr., of this city were married yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Chapel of the Intercession, the Rev. Milo H. Gates officiating. Only the immediate relatives attended.

The bride's father was the late Dr. William Hallock, who was senior Professor of Physics of Columbia University at the time of his death in the Spring of 1913. He was also Dean of the Faculty of Political Science at the university and widely known as a writer on science.

Lieut. Lawrence Weds Miss Rogers.

First Lieutenant Austin L. Lawrence and Miss Cecelia A. Rogers of Flushing, L. I., were married yesterday afternoon in St. Michael's Church at Flushing.

Lieutenant Lawrence is a member of the Dental Corps of the 165th Infantry, now with the Rainbow Division at Camp Mills. His brother, Major George Lawrence of the same corps, acted as his best man, and Lieutenant Andrew Lawrence of the same regiment attended the wedding.

YOM KIPPUR FAST BEGINS AT SUNSET

Jews Throughout the World Will Observe the Day of Atonement.

24 HOURS OF WORSHIP

Rigorous Religious Observances to Mark Occasion and Outpouring of Charity Is Expected.

The fast day known as Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, will be observed by the Jewish people throughout the world, beginning at sunset this evening, and ending at sunset tomorrow evening. This is the most important day of religious observance to the Jews, and is more generally regarded as a holy day than any other festival or fast day in the Hebrew calendar. The observance of the Day of Atonement is distinguished from all other observances by a most rigorous day of fasting and prayer, and from the beginning of the celebration until its end the places of worship of the Jews, both orthodox and reform, are crowded with worshippers. The services, beginning at dusk this evening, continue for several hours, and then are resumed tomorrow morning, and are practically continuous during the day until sunset brings them to a close. Some of the ultra-orthodox, chiefly among the Russian and Polish Jews, remain in the synagogue, praying and exhorting, during the entire twenty-four hours that the fast continues.

The observant Jew, both orthodox and reform, abstains entirely from all business or work of any kind, except in great emergency he may be permitted to do such acts of succor or charity which require immediate attention, and which cannot be deferred until after the end of the fast. During the continuance of the fast he is prohibited from eating or drinking anything in the shape of food or sustenance, and not a particle of food or a drop of water is permitted to pass his lips. Under the orthodox dispensation none is exempt from this rigorous fast except the sick, nursing mothers, children of tender years, and the very aged and decrepit, but there are not many of the latter among the orthodox Jews who avail themselves of this exemption. The fasting begins at sunset and continues for twenty-four hours, until the sun has set, and at least three stars are visible in the heavens. They indicate to the pious Jews that the day is past, night has come, and with it the end of the fast, so that they can return to their homes from the synagogue and break their fast.

Collections for Stricken Jews.

The services this evening are solemn and impressive. They begin with the chanting of the "Kol Nidre," an ancient Hebrew melody, and they continue until at sunset the concluding service, known as "Neilah," is chanted as the stars come out. The "Shofar" is sounded and this brings the services and the fasting to an end. During the afternoon tomorrow there will be a memorial service for those who have passed away during the preceding year.

At all the temples and synagogues collections will be taken up for the relief of the Russian and Polish Jews suffering in the war zones, and to augment the $10,000,000 fund, for which appeals have been sent out by the American Jewish Relief Committee through Mr. Paul Warburg.

Ten per cent. of every dollar contributed to Jewish war relief on the occasion of Yom Kippur, will be added to the fund by an anonymous giver, the Campaign Committee of the American Jewish Relief Committee announced late last night.

The committee, through every synagogue, is appealing for funds and it is hoped that New York's contribution at this time will be no less than [illegible]000, so that the giver, whose name is withheld at his own request, will make a contribution of $100,000, if the total amount is secured.

Holiday to Net Big Fund.

It is believed that this holiday season will net the largest amount for Jewish war relief that has been secured in any corresponding period since the war began. Special stress is being laid upon appeals in Greater New York, but the entire country is being embraced in the effort to swell the $10,000,000 fund being sought in the national campaign.

As a result of negotiations between Isidore Hershfield, representing the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America and the State Department, the Secretary of State, Robert Lansing, has instructed the American Ambassador to Japan and the American Consul at Yokohama to make an investigation as to the number and condition of the Jewish war refugees who have been stranded in Japan on their way from Russia to America.

Reports have reached this country that hundreds of Jewish immigrants, most of them women and children from war regions in Russia, were unable to proceed to America because of limited steamship facilities and that they were being exploited. It was also rumored that the female travelers were likely to become white slave victims. The society communicated with its branches at Seattle and San Francisco and their reports confirmed the information that the immigrants were in a terrible plight.

RESTORING WAR ZONES.

Red Cross Supplies Tools of Production in Northern France.

The success of the German armies in devastating wide areas in France has forced the American Red Cross to concentrate its work into six districts, a telegram to local headquarters from H. P. Davison, Chairman of the War Council of the Red Cross, yesterday stated. Mr. Davison had received a cablegram from the Red Cross Commission in France saying that "twentieth century Frenchmen have to begin where the North American Indians would begin, by hunting for food and temporary shelter, a few clothes to cover them, a handful of household goods and utensils, such as pots, knives, and spoons—an agricultural implement or two, and perhaps a rabbit and some chickens, and, if they are very lucky, a goat or a donkey."

Mr. Davison says that "it is to help such people as these that the American Red Cross has located its relief warehouses at strategic points just behind the lines, such as Soissons, Noyon, and Peronne, and is shipping in food, clothes, blankets, beds, mattresses, stoves, kitchen utensils, reapers, and binders, mowing machines, threshing machines, garden tools, and hundreds of other articles of prime importance to people who were prosperous and contented only three years ago."

Of the six rehabilitation districts established by the Red Cross, one is for the extreme north and Pas de Calais, one for the Somme, one for the Oise, one for the Aisne, one for the Marne and Meuse, and one for Meurthe and Moselle. Resident American delegates have been selected as overseers of distribution and relief. Edward Eyre Hunt is chief of the bureau.

To Change Greek King's Staff.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The Greek Government, according to an Athens dispatch to Reuter's, Limited, has decided to replace discontented aides de camp who served ex-King Constantine and who remained with King Alexander. A list of military and naval officers has been submitted to the King from which to choose new members of his staff.

W. L. Ransom Opens Headquarters.

Headquarters from which will be conducted the personal campaign of ex-Justice William L. Ransom, Fusion candidate for District Attorney, were opened yesterday in the Heidelberg Building, Broadway and Forty-second Street. Louis Marshall is Chairman of the General Committee conducting the campaign, and William Bondy is Chairman of the Executive Committee. Alfred C. Coxe, Jr., will be Mr. Ransom's campaign manager. Charles D. Hilles is Treasurer of the organization. The Secretary of the Campaign Committee will be Valentine Taylor, who was counsel to Governors Sulzer and Glynn and who has been Deputy Attorney General and counsel to the Sheriff under Democratic administrations. At his headquarters last night Mr. Ransom said:

"I shall poll more votes than either of the Tammany candidates and be elected."

McCloskey Appointed Magistrate.

Mayor Mitchel yesterday appointed Francis A. McCloskey of 215 Montague Street, Brooklyn, to be an extra City Magistrate for the term of eight years, pursuant to a request received from the Board of City Magistrates. The new Magistrate is a graduate of St. Francis Xavier College and the Columbia Law School. He has practiced law mainly in Brooklyn and is a member of the Brooklyn organization of the City Democracy. The salary is $7,000 a year.

PROMISE WAR LOAF TO COST EIGHT CENTS

New York Bakers Vote to Reduce the Price When Flour Reaches $11 a Barrel.

TO BE SOLD OVER COUNTER

Decision to Produce Wholesome Bread Taken as Result of Conference with Hoover.

The Manhattan and Bronx branches of the New York State Master Bakers' Association at a meeting yesterday afternoon legislated for a war loaf for New York City, to cost 8 cents over the counter, just as soon as flour reached the price promised by the Government of $11 a barrel. The "war loaf," which the bakers assert will be "honest, good, old-fashioned home-made bread," will weigh fourteen ounces, and will contain no excessive moisture or adulterations. The manufacture of it would be discontinued, it was stated, as soon as peace came.

The resolution to this effect passed yesterday, which President A. J. Gunderman of the association told the members would be adopted throughout the State, and probably by the bakers of the whole country, was the result of a conference in Washington between representatives of the association and Mr. Hoover. The bakers assured the Food Administrator of their anxiety to "do their bit," and in return they were frankly warned that if they did not support the Government in this crisis they must expect to see the Government regulate their business, possibly at no small inconvenience to themselves. The resolution, introduced by Maximilian Strasser, follows:

> We, the Manhattan and Bronx master bakers, assembled for the purpose of protecting our interest at this critical time, and realizing our obligation toward the people, especially the poor and poorest, who must have bread before all else, go herewith on record as follows:
>
> The setting a price for wheat but not for flour has created a rather unsatisfactory condition for the merchant baker, especially the small retail manufacturer of bread, who is handicapped by the limit of capital or storage space, or both, and must, therefore, buy his supplies of flour on the prescribed thirty days' shipping limit.
>
> We have tentatively been assured that flour in New York market would be sold below $11 for the 1917 crop, whereas as a matter of fact it is but little below $12 for future delivery, spot flour of good quality commanding several dollars' premium. The above stated facts are beyond our control, and we should not be held responsible for conditions necessitating high-priced bread.
>
> To put ourselves right before public and press, we make the following statement:
>
> With the promised $11 flour shall come the pound loaf of bread weighing, when well baked and cooled, 14 ounces net, to be sold by us over our counters at eight cents, delivery to be charged extra.
>
> Our bread shall not contain excessive moisture; shall be free from all adulterations; shall be honest bread, wholesome and of high nutritive value, free of minerals used in some instances to deceive the public. In short, we shall continue the manufacture of bread by employing skilled mechanics rather than chemists.

In calling the meeting to order, President Gunderman told the bakers that the time had come for them to demonstrate their patriotism.

"The Government," he said, "expects the bakers to create their own standard. It believes, and I think rightly that the bakers know best about their own business, and we must agree among ourselves on a loaf to be sold at a certain price. What is done here will be followed, probably, in Brooklyn and the other boroughs, and later, throughout the whole country. The Government has about 800 formulas in its possession for making bread, but so far it has declined to interfere in the details of our business. It has declared not for a standard formula, but for a standard price."

Mr. Strasser, who explained his resolution at length, told the bakers that they must co-operate with the Food Commission or submit to regulation.

"A business which can't work in harmony with the Government just now," he said, "may expect nothing less than Government regulation. If you don't act on this matter of a standard price you will be forced to later. We bakers have been criticised, unjustly, I believe, for boosting prices. The rise in the price of flour has not been noticed. I say, therefore, let us show our patriotism and our willingness to help out."

Cost of Bread Estimated.

The following is an estimate of the price of the ingredients in the proposed eight-cent loaf as submitted by Mr. Strasser. The estimate is for 300 pounds of dough.

Flour	$11.00
Yeast	.75
Salt	.10
Sugar	.35
Fat	.80
Malt extract	.10
		$13.10
Adding to above ingredients the cost of manufacture, selling and managing expenses, wrapping, coal, rent, depreciation of plant, incidentals, to the amount of		10.50
Making a total of		$23.60
The return on the selling price of 8c. a loaf would be		24.00
Leaving for unforeseen expenses (per barrel of 300-pound yield)		.40

In the discussion over the resolution it was pointed out that the eight-cent loaf need not be by any means the only bread on sale at a baker's. The "war loaf" would contain a little less fat, sugar, and malt extract than the ordinary loaf. There would be an extra charge for delivery, and the customary waxed paper would be replaced by white wrapping paper.

There was some talk of abandoning the manufacture of cakes and fancy pastry to facilitate the increased production of bread, but no action was taken.

Mrs. Beaumont Left $1,103,066.

The estate of Mrs. Jessie F. Beaumont, who died at Brighton, England, on Jan. 3, 1916, and was the wife of Henry Cecil Charles Beaumont, for many years a resident of England, left an estate of $1,103,066, of which only $86,627 was taxable in New York State. She gave half the residuary estate to her brother, William G. Fellows, who died six months after her, and a life interest in the other half to her husband, which goes after his death to her cousins, Helen Cronkhite Butler, Eliza C. Howe, and Elisha P. Cronkhite. Her estate included $829,055 in securities, $270,925 in mortgages, and $64,644 in English assets.

Investigate Realty Dealer's Death.

The police at Tottenville, S. I., last night began an investigation of the circumstances of the death of Theodore Frank, a real estate dealer, of 1,310 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, whose body was found in Raritan Bay, near Ward's Point, Tottenville, yesterday with a wound in the head. It was believed by the police that death had been accidental, and that the gash in the head might have been caused by a fall. This was not the cause of death, physicians said. There was no mark in the clothing to identify the body when it was found, and a description was sent out by the police. Frank's son, Theodore, went to the police station last night when his father failed to return home and identified the body.

Pierrepont Edwards Dies at 84.

Pierrepont Edwards, who was British Consul in this city from 1861 to 1882, died yesterday at his home at Bedford Hills, N. Y., in his eighty-fifth year. Mr. Edwards was the son of English parents, and, though born in this city, never became a citizen of the United States. He was the British Vice Consul here before the civil war and when the war began he was appointed Consul.

ALBERT G. WHEELER DEAD.

Builder of Chicago Tunnel Was a Pioneer in New York Subways.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Albert Gallatin Wheeler, capitalist and traction expert and formerly active in the construction of New York subways, died at his residence here today in his sixty-fourth year. Mr. Wheeler came to Chicago with the slogan "Carry the freight under ground; leave the streets to the people." He formed the Illinois Tunnel Company, which constructed many miles of tunnel under the business section of this city, and used solely for the hauling of freight. He built a marble home on the Lake Shore at the height of his affluence, and it became one of the sights of the city. He sold it a year or more ago. He was heavily interested in an automatic telephone company which failed here.

Albert Gallatin Wheeler was born in New York April 27, 1854. He engaged in the produce transportation business here for ten years and became identified with the construction of underground telegraph lines, railroads, and subways in this and other cities in 1879. The Illinois Tunnel Company was formed by him in 1899.

Mr. Wheeler married Miss Cassie Gould Taylor of Allentown, Penn., in 1873, and the family lived in this city until it moved to Chicago in 1899. Albert Gallatin Wheeler, Jr., a stock broker, who married Miss Claudia Carlstedt in 1898, and whose marital troubles have been before public notice, retained a residence in this city.

Mrs. H. H. Van Cleve of Red Cross.

Mrs. Harriet Hemiup Van Cleve, widow of Seymour Van Cleve and one of the first members of the American Relief Committee in London at the outbreak of the war, died on Sunday at her home, in Minneapolis, Minn., in her seventieth year. Mrs. Van Cleve was a member of one of the pioneer families of the Northwest. Her father was Judge Norton H. Hemiup. She spent much of her time abroad, but returned to this country in 1916 to raise funds for the American Red Cross. She lectured here and through the country to the Pacific Coast, later journeying to Honolulu in the interest of war relief work.

Mrs. Van Cleve was a member of the Women's Press Club of this city. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Joseph W. Jenkins of London, and a son, George B. Van Cleve of this city.

Jacob H. Friedlander.

Jacob H. Friedlander, a retired business man, who devoted the last years of his life to philanthropic work, died yesterday at his home, 5 West 122d Street, in his sixty-fifth year. Mr. Friedlander came to this country from Russia fifty-two years ago, and had been a resident of Harlem for thirty years. He was a member of the Hebrew Free Loan Society, the Hebrew Sheltering Society, and the Beth David Hospital, and a Director of the Uptown Talmud Torah.

Professor Otto Hackh, Composer.

Professor Otto Hackh, a veteran musician, composer, and vocal teacher and many years ago an instructor at the Stuttgart Conservatory in Stuttgart, Germany, died last Friday at 257 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn. More than 400 of Professor Hackh's compositions of orchestral and chamber music have been published in Europe and this country. He was 66 years old. Funeral services will be held today at the Fairchild Undertaking Parlors, Brooklyn, at 2 P. M., and the interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Maspeth, L. I.

Sallee Has Honor of Pitching His Team to Victory in the Decisive Game.

HOLKE'S SINGLE SETTLES IT

Kauff Carries Across Two Runs Which End 1917 Race with New York in Front.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—The Giants clinched the 1917 pennant by humbling the Cardinals in today's game, 2 to 1. To the veteran Slim Sallee fell the honor of pitching the contest which gave the flag to the Giants, and the long limbed southpaw performed the task intrusted to him in a highly satisfactory manner. Only twice during the game was he in any difficulty. Those occasions came in the seventh and eighth innings, when the Cardinals garnered five of the seven hits allotted to them by Sallee. Bill Doak, Sallee's opponent, also twirled a fine game, allowing only four hits. However, the blond pitcher was rather free with passes, and two of the six bases on balls he issued figured in the scoring.

The Giants settled right down to business at the start of the game, scoring a run in the first inning. Burns and Robertson were easy outs, but Kauff walked and stole, second. Heinie Zimmerman, premier cleanup hitter, banged a double down the left field foul line, scoring Kauff.

The new champions tallied a second run and clinched the title, in the sixth. Robertson singled to left, and Kauff beat out a bunt, which rolled past the box, just out of Doak's reach. Zimmerman laid down a sacrifice, advancing both runners. Doak passed Fletcher in order to get at the light hitting Jimmy Smith, and the bases were filled. McGraw substituted Wilhoit to hit for Smith.

Wilhoit rapped a sharp grounder at Miller, whose quick throw to Snyder forced Robertson at the plate, but Holke singled to centre scoring Kauff. McCarty ended the inning by forcing Wilhoit at third.

An unfortunate stumble by Arthur Fletcher helped the Cardinals to their only run in the seventh inning. Miller cracked a grounder to the short field, but Fletcher, after making a fine pick-up of the ball, stumbled and fell and Miller was safe. Hornsby forced Miller, but Cruise singled to left centre, putting Hornsby on third and taking second on the throw in. Paulette beat out a hit to Holke and Hornsby crossed the plate.

Fletcher having put Sallee in a hole, proceeded to extract him from it by whisking up Baird's grounder, stepping on second, forcing Paulette, and whipping the ball to Holke in time to complete a brilliant double play.

The Cards got after Sallee again in the eighth, but the rally was of short duration. Snyder singled to left, and Smyth was put in to run for him. Gonzales batted for Doak, and singled to right, Smyth stopping at second. Long boosted a fly to Burns and Betzel, batting for Jack Smith, lifted a fly to short centre which Kauff smothered after a spirited run. Miller was thrown out at first.

Horstman pitched the ninth inning for St. Louis and turned the Giants back in one, two, three order. As the last Cardinal runner was retired in the St. Louis half of the ninth, the Giant players hurled their caps and gloves in the air and dashed off the field in high spirits.

NEW TEAM BRINGS FLAG HERE.

Only Three of McGraw's Players Among Pennant Winners of 1913.

After four years of vain endeavor the Giants once more have fought their way to the championship of the National League. With a brand new team, but the same old Manager, the Metropolis again is to be the scene of part of the annual baseball classic.

When John McGraw's veteran championship outfit went to seed in the Autumn of 1914, after winning three championships in a row and five since McGraw took charge, and was distanced for the pennant by the Boston Braves, it was a bitter blow to the scrappy leader, one that he did not overcome for more than a year. He deemed his champions worthy of rank with any other team, and it took him a year to decide that the players of the 1911, 1912, and 1913 title outfits were no longer able to hold their own. Then it was that McGraw began to build a new leading team.

When Christy Mathewson lost his usefulness as a pitcher, or rather his effectiveness against opposing batters, it sounded the death knell of the old Giant team. It brought to the surface the weaknesses of the other players with greater clearness than any other one thing.

McGraw almost made a clean sweep in making over his new team. In fact only George Burns in left field, Arthur Fletcher at shortstop, and Davy Robertson in right field remain of the former championship aggregation. Merkle, Doyle, Meyers, Snodgrass, Milton Stock, Matty, and Marquard, all have gone, and in their place a set of younger players is to be found.

McGraw's present champions, which ascended to that title yesterday by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, was gathered together late last year, too late to keep Brooklyn from winning the pennant, but soon enough to make a record of twenty-six straight victories and convince all that it was of the highest calibre. In his manipulations for a new pennant McGraw traded carefully and well. He obtained Heine Zimmerman from the Cubs in exchange for Larry Doyle and a couple of misfits. This probably was his greatest trade.

Cincinnati was in need of a manager, and McGraw had the man in Mathewson. McGraw wanted Herzog to round out his infield, and the Reds agreed that an exchange was for the betterment of each team. Walter Holke came from the minors to the Giants, but developed major ability at first base. Later Brooklyn decided it needed a first baseman to help it win a pennant last year, especially as Jake Daubert was injured. McGraw wanted a hard-hitting catcher. The result was a trade of Merkle to Brooklyn for Lew McCarty.

McGraw's pitching staff of 1913 seemed to be wrecked, so he stepped into the market again and, aided by Federal League inroads on other teams, managed to bring Pol Perritt and Rube Benton to New York. Slim Sallee was dissatisfied with his berth in St. Louis, and McGraw knew it early enough to make a deal for the slim sheriff of Higginsport. A liberal expenditure of money following the death of the Federal League brought Benny Kauff, Bill Rariden, and Fred Anderson to the club.

Thus the Giants were gathered from many fields, moulded into a fighting aggregation of hitting, fielding and pitching power in less than a year and shoved at a pace fast enough to clinch the National League pennant for 1917 two weeks before the race was scheduled to end. McGraw has acquired another team, which while it does not seem as well balanced as the former championship nine and lacks a Matty, it has enough young players in it to provide a battle for several years to come for the seven other clubs which were disappointed by the year's results.

It is McGraw's sixth National League pennant, and establishes a record in this respect. Several managers won five pennants but none more. McGraw led a team to victory in 1904, 1905, 1911, 1912, 1913, and this year.

Continue Their Winning Streak by Defeating Mackmen, 5 to 4.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—Cleveland won today's game here, 5 to 4, and ran its winning streak to ten straight. The game was devoid of features except for Chapman's baserunning, which included stealing three bases and bringing in his team's first run by stealing home.

TIGERS DIVIDE TWIN BILL.

Defeat Senators, 8 to 3, and Then Lose to Them, 2 to 0.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Detroit split even with Washington here today in its final appearance of the season, winning the first game 8 to 3 and losing the second 2 to 0. The visitors bunched hits on Ayers and Waldbauer, a recruit, in the opening contest, but in the second game Shaw held them hitless until the ninth inning.

In the first contest Cobb made four hits and a sacrifice in five times at bat, stole four bases, and scored two runs.

NEW CHICAGO TEAM TRIED ON DODGERS

Pony Infield Victorious for Cubs When Deal Gets Triple in Eighth Inning.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Coming up to the plate in the eighth inning, after fanning twice, Turney drove a single to centre that scored Rollie Zeider from second base in a rally that beat Brooklyn, 4 to 2. Charley Deal put the finishing touches on the sport with a three-base blow to the centre-field fence that chased over the winning tallies.

Previous to that eighth-round riot the Cubs were helpless before the pitching of Sherry Smith, getting only four scattered hits. The Dodgers, on the other hand, were in possession of two runs, earned off Jim Vaughn in the first and second innings, after which they subsided and put forth their best efforts to keep the Cubs tamed.

During the first seven innings the Mitchells got only one man past second, and only three reached that station.

The lineup Mitchell sent into the contest was a hint as to what may be expected next season. Pete Kilduff, a natural second baseman, who has been filling in at short since he was obtained from the Giants, was moved over to the middle station, and Charley Pechous, recruit third baseman, was tried at short. Leslie, a Texas League recruit, got the first-base assignment, and Merkle, regular initial sack guardian, was stationed in left field.

MORAN'S MEN WIN IN VAIN.

Defeat Pirates, While Giants' Victory Ends Their Pennant Hopes.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24. — Philadelphia continued its unbroken series of victories by winning from Pittsburgh today, 2 to 0, but was eliminated entirely as a contender for the National League championship through the victory of New York over St. Louis.

Bender was effective with men on bases, and kept Pittsburgh hits scattered. He also figured in both of the runs made by his team. He singled in the third inning, went to second on a wild pitch, third on an out, and scored on a sacrifice fly by Stock. In the ninth inning Luderus doubled to right, went to third on a hit by Evers, and tallied on Bender's second hit.

BRAVES AND REDS IN TIE.

Rudolph and Eller Battle for Twelve Innings to Draw.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24.—Cincinnati and Boston played twelve innings to a 2 to 2 tie here today, darkness calling a halt to the game, which was a fine pitching duel between the veteran Rudolph and Eller.

Mitchell started the game for Cincinnati, but lasted less than an inning. The first two Boston batters up singled, then Mitchell walked the next two, forcing in a run. Eller then took up the burden and retired the side, with but one more run scoring, that on a sacrifice fly by Smith. For the remainder of the game Eller never was in danger.

Rudolph also pitched great ball, having but one bad inning, when the Reds touched him up for three hits and two runs, tying the score in the fourth.

MISSES SEARS WIN AT NET.

Evelyn and Eleanora Advance in Longwood Tennis Play.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Miss Evelyn Sears, former national singles champion, and Miss Eleonora R. Sears, holder with Miss Molla Bjurstedt, of the national doubles title, won their matches with ease in the opening round of the women's patriotic lawn tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club today. The former defeated Mrs. Kenneth Billings in love sets, while Miss Eleanora Sears defeated Miss Helen M. Shedden, 6—2, 6—2. The winners will meet in the next round tomorrow.

The field was somewhat small and the play as a whole of a routine character. The only unexpected happening was the defeat of Mrs. N. W. Niles by Miss Katherine Farrar, in two hard-fought sets.

HARVARD CALLS CANDIDATES

Football, Baseball, and Track Men to Report Today.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 24.—A call to candidates for football, baseball, and track teams to report tomorrow was sent out tonight by the Harvard University athletic authorities. Candidates for the crew have been ordered to report on Thursday.

Hugh Duffy will coach the baseball men, Pooch Donovan the track team, and Bill Haines the crew. First practice of the football players will be started tomorrow by Percy Haughton, coach of former years. Mr. Haughton will not act as regular coach, but will devote his spare time to the team, and will assist a regular coach if one is selected.

SCRIMMAGE AT FORDHAM.

'Varsity Successfully Withstands Attacks by Scrub Eleven.

The scrub eleven could make little impression on the Fordham 'Varsity in a lively scrimmage yesterday afternoon. Although the second string players received the ball throughout the twenty-minute tussle, their average gain was less than a yard. The 'Varsity forwards stopped all of the bucks and end runs that were attempted.

Galligan, who played half back on the High School of Commerce team last season, reported yesterday, and was tried in the scrub backfield. He is fast and aggressive. Ulrich, who has been coming fast on the scrub combination, was advanced to right guard on the 'Varsity.

A long dummy signal drill was also held, and the players went through the plays with plenty of drive, although fumbles were frequent. An eleven from the United States Training Station at Bayshore requested a game yesterday, and it is likely that they will be accommodated on Oct. 6.

CORNELL PRACTICE OPENS.

29 Candidates Report for Season's First Football Work.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Twenty-nine candidates for Cornell's football team this Fall reported for the first practice of the season today, with Captain-elect F. P. Shiverick, who has received a commission in the United States Army, absent. Van Horn and Hoffmann were the only two 'Varsity men on hand. Twenty candidates reported to Coach Moakley for the cross-country team.

SOCCER SCHEDULE OUT.

High School Elevens Will Start Season's Play on Saturday.

Soccer football among the high schools of the five boroughs will begin Saturday, according to the schedule ratified at the last meeting of the High Schools Games Committee, and which was announced yesterday. The program shows a total of eleven playing days, the majority of them on Saturdays, and the teams will be carried into December before the schedule is completed. The title last year was won by the represenatives of Curtis High School.

RUTH BLANKS WHITE SOX.

Red Sox Pitcher Holds New American Champions Scoreless.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Ruth of Boston shut out Chicago today, 3 to 0, turning back the new American League champions when they came within scoring distance. Russell tried out his arm for four innings and then gave way to Williams, another southpaw Rowland may use in the world's series. Neither Chicago pitcher was hit hard, but five of Boston's seven hits were involved in scoring its three runs.

With two out in the first, Gainer walked and scored on Lewis's double to right. Cooney's single and Gainer's double in the third sent over the second run. The last Boston score came in the sixth, off Williams, when Gainer singled, Lewis sacrificed, Gainer scoring on Walker's single to centre.

A single and two bases on balls in the Chicago ninth filled the bases with two out, but J. Collins, who had already made two doubles and a single, was easily thrown out by Cooney.

RHINE MAIDEN FAR IN FRONT AT WIRE

Leads Dorcas by Three Lengths on Day of Upsets at Aqueduct.

With a chilly wind sweeping across the Aqueduct track and searching out the spectators in the grand stand and a card of the overnight variety, the racegoers had little to warm them up at the races yesterday. Winning favorites also were scarce, the only distinctive one being discovered in the steeplechase captured by Morton L. Schwartz's Crest Hill. E. F. Whitney's Rhine Maiden, winner of the Regret Handicap, was practically an equal choice with the Cleveland Stable's Dorcas, which ran second.

The start and the manoeuvring before the barrier went up had much to do with the victory of Rhine Maiden. There was a field of only five horses, but the assistant starters whipped and dragged some of the mares about so that they were almost beaten before being dispatched on the mile journey. When the barrier was lifted Rhine Maiden was off in front and Dorcas was two lengths behind the other starters.

Keogh on Rhine Maiden hustled her along so that at the end of the back stretch she had a lead of five lengths on Fairy Wand, while Dorcas had managed to move up to third place with Diversion close on her heels. Robinson tried his utmost in the stretch to get on terms with Rhine Maiden and was only a length behind at the eighth pole. The energy expended before the start and in catching up later told then, and Dorcas weakened to allow Rhine Maiden to win by three lengths. Dorcas saved the place by a length and a half with Fairy Wand finishing third.

The opening handicap for two-year-old fillies was another event to puzzle the speculators, with the entry of John Sanford closing favorite at 8 to 5. Neither Stitch In Time, nor Heather Belle, which carried the Sanford colors, was ever prominent, H. P. Whitney's Ruth Law cutting out the pace, only to give way to Samuel Ross's Ballymooney in the stretch. Ruth Law got her head in front again in the last sixteenth, but McTaggart outrode Robinson and landed the purse by a neck.

Manganese, favorite for the third race at six and a half furlongs, withered after taking the lead in the stretch, and W. Cahill's Miss Kruter came on to win rather easily, with Manganese holding the place from Imperator.

In the fifth, a scramble for two-year-olds, J. K. Allen's Rapid Firer jumped to the front early and won by a length and a half from Woodthrush, with the favorite M. L. Schwartz's Approval in third place. Imported horses finished first and second in the last race for maidens at a mile and a sixteenth. Pierre-A-Feu, the 8 to 1 shot, beat out two strongly played horses in Conduit, which finished second, and Puts and Calls, which took show money.

GREB TO BOX IN BROOKLYN.

Pittsburgh Middleweight Will Meet Howard Tonight.

Brooklyn boxing fans will get their first look at Harry Greb, the Pittsburgh boxer, tonight, when he faces Johnny Howard, the Bayonne, N. J., middleweight, in the main ten-round bout at the Broadway S. C. This will be Greb's second metropolitan appearance. While his first performance was not impressive, it is expected that he will show better form against Howard. Another ten-round bout is arranged; Larry Hansen, the Danish lightweight champion, will meet Paul Edwards, a local boxer.

TROTTING PURSE UNDECIDED

Busy Lassie and Straight Sail Still to Race for Stake.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—The winner in the feature event of today's Grand Circuit card will have to be determined tomorrow, for when the sun set this afternoon the contest was still on and Busy's Lassie and Straight Sail were left after five heats to battle for the sixth one, all other horses being ruled out. Bacelli was awarded third and Miss Perfection fourth.

The Chamber of Commerce 2:08 trot, purse $3,000, developed a bitter struggle. Horses took turns at winning heats, and Straight Sail had to wait after the first heat until the fifth before she won again. The betting made Straight Sail early favorite.

The 2:17 class race was a come-from-behind victory for Lon McDonald and his Jay Mack. Burt K., an added starter, won the first two heats and lost the third by a neck to Jay Mack, who had the stamina to go out and land the next two and the race.

The summaries:

VANDERBILT GIVES TROPHY.

Puts Up $500 Prize for Hackneys at Horse Show.

Reginald C. Vanderbilt has donated a trophy valued at $500 for the best registered English hackney exhibited in harness at the National Horse Show on Nov. 12 to 16, the entire receipts of which will this year be turned over to the American Red Cross, the Directors of the association paying every expense.

With three exceptions, the prize is the largest of this year's Horse Show, and two of these are Vanderbilt gifts, the Sir James Cup for gig horses, which is valued at $850, having been donated by the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt when he was President of the National Horse Show Association, while the Alfred G. Vanderbilt Memorial Gold Cup, valued at $1,000, was given by Mrs. Vanderbilt after the noted amateur four-in-hand whip went down on the Lusitania. Judge William H. Moore won a leg on this trophy, which is for four-in-hand road teams, in 1916, and J. Campbell Thompson won a leg the year before. It must be won three times before it becomes the property of any exhibitor.

Vanderbilt interest in horses goes back almost 100 years, to the time when Commodore Vanderbilt, then Captain of a Hudson River steamboat, drove an unnamed brown mare of local celebrity in trotting races on Third Avenue, from the end of the pavement, at Seventy-eighth Street, to Bradshaw's Roadhouse, at 125th Street. Some of the matches excited great interest and were chronicled in America's first sporting paper, The Spirit of the Times, now defunct, as early as 1837. To the year of his death Commodore Vanderbilt continued to drive fast trotters almost daily on the roads.

MISS WAGNER UNDEFEATED.

Wins Seven Matches in One-Day, One-Set Tennis Tourney.

Prominent local women tennis players engaged in a one-day, one-set tournament at the Howard Beach clay courts, near Rockaway Beach, Long Island, yesterday. The contestants were divided into two sections, and in one Miss Marie Wagner, national indoor champion, won seven matches and lost none, and in the other Miss A. Iler had a string of five victories to her credit and one defeat.

All matches were limited to one set, and the player who first won six games was credited with victory. Miss Wagner met and defeated Mrs. L. Z. Murray at 6—1; Mrs. Ingo F. Hartman, 6—2; Miss Alida Doyle, 6—1; Miss Edith Bagg, 6—3; Mrs. M. B. Huff, 6—2; Miss Bessie Holden, 6—1, and Mrs. W. H. Pritchard, 6—1. Mrs. Huff defeated Miss Doyle at 6—1; Mrs. Pritchard, 6—5, and Mrs. Hartman, 6—3. Miss Holden defeated Mrs. Pritchard at 6—2; Mrs. Hartman, 6—3, and Mrs. Huff, 6—2. Miss Bagg defeated Mrs. Huff, 6—5. Mrs. Pritchard disposed of Miss Doyle, 6—2. Mrs. Hartman disposed of Miss Doyle, 6—4, and Mrs. Murray, 6—2.

In the other division Miss Iler was triumphant over Miss Adele Cragin at 6—4; Mrs. Embree Henderson, 6—0; Mrs. H. J. Kolb, 6—3; Miss Caroma Winn, 6—4, and Mrs. Percy Wilbourn, 6—4. Mrs. Albert Humphries defeated Miss Iler at 6—4; Mrs. Henderson, 6—0; Miss Cragin, 6—4, and Miss Winn, 6—4. Mrs. Wilbourn disposed of Miss Cragin at 6—5; Mrs. Humphries, 6—3, and Mrs. Kolb, 6—3. Miss Winn scored over Miss Cragin at 6—0 and Mrs. Kolb at 6—0.

AMATEURS IN THE RING.

Only Five Bouts Go Scheduled Number of Rounds at Crescent A. C.

Short bouts were the rule last night in the opening amateur boxing tournament of the Fall season, the preliminaries of which were held at the Crescent Athletic Club in Brooklyn. Competition was held in four classes, and of the entire eleven contests held, only five went their scheduled distance of three rounds. The quickest knockout of the evening was scored in the 145-pound class, when T. Stapleton of Paterson knocked out T. Murphy, St. Bartholomew's Club, in the first round, fifty-four seconds after the bell had started the boxers on their journey.

The longest bout of the evening was in the 135-pound class when it was necessary to put Anton Enz, Paulist A. C., and F. Mann, Union Settlement A. C., through four rounds before a decision was finally agreed upon. At the conclusion of the regulation three rounds the judges disagreed, and again after ordering an extra round a disagreement resulted, so that the Referee had to render the verdict.

CLINE AND JACKSON BATTLE TO A DRAW

Lightweights Share Honors in Ten Rounds of Lively Boxing at Manhattan A. C.

Irish Patsy Cline, the Harlem lightweight, and Willie Jackson of the Bronx, who jumped into sudden fame recently by knocking out Johnny Dundee, battled last night for ten rounds at the Manhattan A. C. for the privilege of opposing Benny Leonard, the world's lightweight champion, in a bout for the title, but at the final bell in their ten-round exhibition there was little to choose between the pair.

Only a spirited rally in the closing rounds of the contest saved Cline from going down in defeat, for throughout the earlier part of the bout the Bronx lad showed clearly to advantage. Jackson's snappy blows to the face and stomach alternated with heavier ones and gave him a commanding lead in the first three rounds. But as the contest progressed Cline seemed to improve, and the fourth session found him taking the initiative.

From then until the finish in the tenth session Cline gave a good account of himself, and frequently he carried Jackson before him to the ropes in a rush, where there would be a lively exchange of blows until the combatants were separated by the referee. In these latter round exchanges Cline showed to advantage, and it was this, with his cleverness in making Jackson miss frequently, which earned him an even break in the honors.

Wool's higher'n a kite! But what's the use of worrying when there's so much else to fret about? And besides, at the very worst, it can't possibly affect prices before the Winter of 1918—at least, not so far as you or we are concerned.

Meantime, there is the satisfaction of knowing that prices for this Fall and Winter are all based on the fabric-costs of a year ago.

We go on the principle that no merchant has a right to ask more than a fair profit on what he himself has paid. Makes no difference what the present market brings, although, as any woolen man will tell you, we could readily clean up a handsome profit on the woolens now in hand.

They're all-wool woolens too.

Everything men and boys wear.

OUR COPPER TRADE NOW $450,000,000

American Production Ten Times Greater Than That of Any Other Nation.

IS 63% OF WORLD'S OUTPUT

Geological Survey Places Country's Yield for 1916 at 1,928,000,000 Pounds.

The world's copper production, past and present, was outlined in a statistical statement made public yesterday by the National City Bank. It showed that the world production of copper, which totaled less than 100,000 tons in 1850 and 130,000 tons in 1860, was 272,000 tons in 1890, 496,000 tons in 1900, 850,000 tons in 1910, 1,000,000, tons in 1913 and 1,400,000 tons in 1916. The United States output, according to the bank, has more than kept pace with this rapid growth of world production, our share of the world total having been 55 per cent. in 1913 and 63 per cent. in 1916. World production increased approximately 40 per cent. in the three-year period 1913-1916; that of the United States about 60 per cent. The copper import of the United States for the fiscal year 1916 totaled $120,000,000 in value and the export $324,000,000.

The American production is nearly ten times greater than that of any other single country and formed in 1916 63 per cent. of the world output, America's total for that year having been 881,000 metric tons (of 2,204 pounds) against 90,000 by Japan, 67,000 by Chile, 55,000 by Mexico, and 53,000 by Canada. Our own production increased from 556,000 metric tons in 1913, while that of other parts of the world grew from 450,000 metric tons in 1913 to 516,000 in 1916.

The United States is of course the world's largest exporter of copper and, curiously, it is also the world's largest importer. The fact that we have, as the result of a very large production, the world's best facilities for smelting and refining, and are also for the same reason the world's greatest copper market, leads other countries to send their copper to the United States to be smelted and refined. As a consequence our imports of copper in ore ranges above 100,000,000 pounds per annum, and in pigs, bars and plates more than 200,000,000 pounds per annum.

As a result of this large importation, combined with the very large domestic production, the United States has enormous quantities of copper for exportation, the total exports of pigs, ingots and bars, in the fiscal year 1915 having been 677,000,000 pounds, in 1916 711,000,000 pounds and in 1917 1,022,000,000. In fact the quantity of copper exported totals nearly one-half as much as the domestic product plus imports. The value of the domestic product in the five years ended with 1915 was nearly $1,000,000,000, and of imports $230,000,000, while the exports in that five-year period aggregated $650,000,000 value.

The price at which our copper has been exported has greatly advanced since the beginning of the war owing to the demand for large quantities of copper for use in the manufacture of brass for shells and other purposes. The average export price of copper passing out of the United States in form of pigs, bars and ingots was, in the fiscal year 1914, 14.9c. per pound, in 1916 22.4c., January, 1917, 27.4c., and in June, 1917, 31.1c. per pound, or materially in excess of the price now fixed by the Government for domestic use or for export to the Allies of 23.5c.

Copper production in the United States is stated by the Geological Survey at 1,388,000,000 pounds in 1915 and 1,928,000,000 in 1916. Arizona, Montana, Michigan and Utah are our largest producers of copper, the 1916 figures showing Arizona product 694,000,000 pounds, Montana 352,000,000, Michigan 269,000,000, Utah 232,000,000, Alaska 114,000,000, Nevada 101,000,000, and New Mexico 80,000,000 pounds. Alaska has greatly increased her product in recent years, the total quantity of copper sent from Alaska to the United States having been, in the fiscal year 1915 36,000,000 pounds, 1916 117,000,000 pounds, in the fiscal year 1917 121,000,000 pounds.

Chile is the most important source of our imports of copper, the quantity of pig copper received from that country having been in the fiscal year 1917 138,000,000 pounds, against 86,000,000 from Peru, 79,000,000 from Canada, 78,000,000 from Mexico, and 10,000,000 pounds from Japan. Of copper in ore the quantity from Chile was in the fiscal year 1917 37,000,000 pounds; of copper content, Mexico 37,000,000 pounds, Canada 32,000,000, and Cuba 46,000,000 pounds.

The exports of copper are chiefly to Europe and at the present moment chiefly to the Allies, though before the war there were large exports to Germany, and considerable quantities to Austria-Hungary. In the fiscal year 1914 the pig copper exports included 311,000,000 pounds to Germany, 179,000,000 pounds to the Netherlands, 173,000,000 to France, and 152,000,000 pounds to Great Britain. In the fiscal year 1917 there were no exports to Germany; to France the total was 373,000,000 pounds, to Great Britain 305,000,000, Italy 151,000,000, Russia in Europe 92,000,000, and the Netherlands 5,000,000, against 179,000,000 pounds in 1914.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The account of the Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Company will in the future be handled in this market by Alfred Fantl, resident buyer, 116 West Thirty-second Street. Mr. Fantl now occupies an entire floor at that address, having recently added about 6,000 square feet of space to his previous quarters.

A meeting of the silk buyers of the Dry Goods Alliance will be held a week from today at 404 Fourth Avenue.

Coupons Would Not Help.

It is the opinion of an executive of one of the big local stores that a coupon or stamp premium arrangement, as has been suggested, would not have much effect in encouraging women to carry home their parcels, especially patrons of the so-called higher class stores and shops. It had been suggested that if stamps or coupons were given by a store, or a combination of stores for "toting your own," later to be redeemed in merchandise when a specified amount—representing, say, $100 worth of non-delivered goods had been collected, women who were now ignoring the plea to carry small parcels, or who were clamoring for discounts, would look on the proposition more favorably. About $2 worth of merchandise, according to the suggestion, could be allowed for each $100 worth of coupons, which would really be a 2 per cent. rebate. The objection was raised by the executive, however, that if a scheme of this kind did not work so thoroughly as to enable the store materially to reduce its delivery costs it would only be an added expense. On the ground that it would not work out satisfactorily, he condemned it.

***

Veilings Have Done Well.

Reports emanating from sellers of veils and veilings indicate that Fall business in these goods has to date been about the best ever. One reason for this, in trade opinion, is that rarely, if ever, has the beauty of the offerings of any season exceeded the current ones. Draped effects are in high favor, largely as a result of the stimulus afforded by present millinery styles. Silk nets in a variety of weaves are much in vogue. Chantilly, Grecian and polka dot effects in nets are attractive, some of them being edged with chenille or fur, and sometimes with a band of embroidery in colors that are more or less "high." Chin veils with fancy borders are neat and attractive, while hand-run floral or scroll motifs also are seen. Hexagon and filet mesh veils are running strong.

***

Handkerchiefs Highly Decorative.

The days of utilitarian ideas in handkerchiefs appear to be over, for the elaborate ones that are seen in the wholesale markets at the present time do their chief duty as accessories in setting off the garbing schemes of the ultimate owners. So elaborate have they got, in fact, that it is becoming hard to find one simple enough to use in removing the resultant stains of a sad scene at the matinee or movies. Some of the lines now offered include dainty Swiss goods that show bird or floral designs running through the borders in various delicate colors. Some neat effects in white also are displayed, these depending chiefly on the intricacy of their embroidered designs for their beauty. One of the present market features is said to be the way women are taking soft-finished khaki-colored handkerchiefs, the vogue evidently growing out of the offerings of these goods to men for service use.

***

Burlap Shortage Hurts Business.

The scantiness of burlap supplies in this market has practically brought business to a halt in the case of more than one seller. Largely because of this scarcity, the week opened yesterday with little of interest so far as trading was concerned. Prices continue steadily to mount, these being the figures asked yesterday for standard forty-inch goods: 10½-ounce, 15½c; 10-ounce, 15c; 8-ounce, 11.1c, and 7¾-ounce, 11c. Prices both at Calcutta and Dundee are higher than they are here, which means still higher local figures to come. Neither in financial matters nor in available freight space does the situation at Calcutta show any improvement.

***

It Won't Help Business.

Speaking of the adulteration of all-wool fabrics recently suggested by the Commercial Economy Board, an authority in the local dress goods trade remarked yesterday that "the cessation of the manufacture of all-wool fabrics would give a high value to that now in stock. Unless imports were controlled foreign goods would come in and get the trade. In export fields our adulterated fabrics would have to be sold in competition with the genuine article from other countries. Even granting there is a shortage, which I do not believe there is, I doubt very much the wisdom of such a move as that suggested."

Gray Goods Buying Falters.

The up and down condition of cotton yesterday put a check on buying of gray goods here that was not altogether pleasing to sellers after the activity in the closing days of last week. About the only solace the situation contained for them was the upturn at the close which reduced the day's net change to rather small proportions. With a religious holiday coming tomorrow, however, there is a belief in certain quarters that the market will be more or less quiet through most of the week. The recent upturn in goods prices also acted as a check on buying, and the result was that there were few, if any, sales made that were worthy of special comment. This was true of both printcloths and sheetings, from all accounts. The mills held firmly in their price views, however, at these levels for spot shipment:

39-inch, 80-80s..	13⅝c	38½-inch, 64-60s..	9⅝c
39-inch, 72-76s..	*12¼c	38½-inch, 64-56s..	9¼c
39-inch, 68-72s..	11¼c	38½-inch, 60-52s..	*9c
39-inch, 56-44s..	7⅝c	38½-inch, 60-48s..	8⅝c

Using Lighter Goods.

The late sample lines of many of the men's suit manufacturers, it is reported, are going to have a much larger display of garments made from thirteen and fourteen-ounce fabrics than has ever been shown before. That lighter weight Winter suits could be worn than those which have prevailed heretofore is generally conceded. The idea behind the move to the lighter weight cloths is said to be the alleged shortage of wool and its abnormally high price. The publicity given to what might be called the "save the wool" movement is expected to cause a switch on the part of men in all sections of the country to these suits of thinner cloth.

***

Cotton Cassimere for Summer.

It is reported that cotton cassimere will in all probability prove one of the most popular fabrics for Summer suits for men as an appropriate substitute for the high priced all-wool cloths that ordinarily are used. It was pointed out by an authority in the men's wear trade of this city that cotton cassimere is very much like wool, both to the eye and to the touch. It will also wear well and will not wrinkle as badly as most wool substitutes.

***

Bustle Also in Low-Priced Suits.

Fur trimmings and the bustle effect, the two most striking features of the Fall and Winter style tendencies, are not confined to the high priced and exclusive clothes for women. Several local manufacturers of popular priced suits, besides showing a great many garments trimmed with fur, are displaying also many attractive treatments of the bustle effect. Though the most elaborate and accentuated of these are bought by the retailers more for purposes of display, the more modified treatments are being taken in fair quantities and are said to be proving very popular with the public.

***

Women's Neckwear Sales Active.

About the best selling class of models in the local market for women's neckwear at the moment can best be described as "long line." It embraces quite a variety of goods, not the least of which are the so-called surplice effects. Other novelties include the bib effect, which has a kind of U opening in front and which drops well down over the chest of the wearer. Stocks and jabots continue to do well, especially in the higher-priced goods. One attractive combination of this kind shows a black stock with an inverted V opening in the front, from which the jabot drops. It is finished off with tiny black buttons up the front of the stock. Another shows a novel treatment in which the fancy back of the stock comes high up under the ears of the wearer. Satin collars "done off" in the shape of a sailor's knot also are good.

PAPER FAMINE IN GERMANY.

Several Berlin Journals Unable to Appear on Saturday.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The shortage of print paper in Berlin is so serious that many of the city's important newspapers were unable to appear on Saturday, according to Berlin advices to the Exchange Telegraph's Amsterdam correspondent. Other newspapers were issued only in four-page form, with the prospects for a paper supply so poor that they may soon have to stop publication altogether.

No Berlin newspapers reached Holland yesterday except forty copies of the Tageblatt, says the correspondent. Virtually all the newspapers in Saxony have ceased publication for an indefinite period.

The situation, says the Tageblatt, is serious. The advertising of the new German war loan, it points out, will naturally be impossible under these conditions, as well as the printing of advertising of other kinds.

WANTS TO TAX MANGANESE.

Brazilian State Proposes Levy on Exports to United States.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 24.—Government officials of the State of Minas are discussing the project of imposing a tax of about 8 per cent. on all manganese exported to the United States, the tax to be put into effect immediately.

The American Consulate General at Rio Janeiro has been actively engaged for many months in an effort to facilitate the movement of manganese to the coast. In spite of the endeavors of the Central Railroad to move as much manganese as ships bound for the United States can load, the movement is often accomplished only with great delay. Last month for the first time the movement of manganese over the Central Railroad exceeded 50,000 tons.

Equitable Gets $2,656,656 Judgment

A deficiency judgment for $2,656,656 was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday against the New Mexico-Colorado Coal and Mining Company in a suit brought by the Equitable Trust Company. The judgment arose out of the foreclosure of first mortgage bonds of the Yankee Fuel Company and of the Santa Fé, Raton & Eastern Railroad Company, which were guaranteed by the defendant. The bonds were sold on March 1 last, and the judgment represents the difference between the amount demanded in the complaint and the sum received for the bonds.

EXTRA DIVIDENDS

The inclusion in the Senate Bill of a tax on undistributed profits makes a period of extra dividends seem probable.

Our Statistical Department has prepared a discussion of this subject, giving the approximate disbursements which will be made by some of the larger industrial companies whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stocks Enjoy a Spirited Advance on News of Steel Price Awards.

Having accustomed themselves to the belief that the President would approve prices of $68 a ton for steel shapes and plates, the traders' first feeling yesterday upon the announcement of a settlement on the basis of $60 for shapes and $65 for plates was one of disappointment. The announcement reached Wall Street in the early afternoon, and for the next half hour prices moved uncertainly back and forth around the final prices established by last week's close. At the end of that time the significance of the award began to percolate through the district and the market developed a stronger tone. The close was made with prices generally higher and with sentiment more cheerful than it has been for some days past.

As a matter of fact, the quotations approved by the War Industries Board were more pleasing to most manufacturers than they cared to admit. The public has been hearing so much about extreme prices paid for steel and pig iron that it had come to accept them as fixtures. Steel plates have sold at 10 and 11 cents a pound; pig iron at more than $50 a ton, but these figures never correctly represented the market. By comparison with prices a year ago, when advances had already made considerable headway, the new basis is considerably higher, in most cases. It is sufficiently high to insure the continued operation of plants at a good profit and to disabuse any one of the idea that the Government is going to adopt an indirect method of confiscation in order to get its materials at a low figure. The prices made yesterday apply to all purchases, whether by Governments or individuals, but do not interfere with existing contracts.

If some of the steel men were inclined to regard the settlement as figured too closely on the existing basis of costs, they agreed with the majority in hailing the announcement as an excellent thing for the trade as doing away with the uncertainty which has been holding up operations. The effect of the delay in reaching an agreement has been to check both consumption and production. Perhaps that view was reflected in the late rise in the market. From a low of 109½ made a few moments after receipt of the news United States Steel rose 3 points before 3 o'clock, closing at 112⅝, with a net advance of 2 points for the day. The rest of the list moved sympathetically with the steel issues. General Motors led in the recovery by selling up 4⅝, but Marine preferred gained 2¼, American Sumatra 3⅞, Baldwin 4¼, Canadian Pacific 3, and Louisville & Nashville 2.

There was a great deal of peace talk in the Street yesterday, but it had no apparent effect on prices. Until the announcement of the steel settlement the list moved erratically within narrow limits.

LONDON MARKET IS STEADY.

Large Dealings in Rubber and Specialties a Feature of the Trading.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Money was in increased supply today. Discounts were quiet. Suspension of the issuance of the five-year 5 per cent. exchequer bonds led to the belief that a fresh issue of shorter-term bonds, redeemable at a premium, was contemplated, or that there would be a resumption of the offering of yearly Treasury notes.

The stock market was quiet, with a steady tone. A feature of the trading was a large business in rubbers and specialties. Mining and metal shares were firm. The usual week-end investment business was done in gilt-edged issues. Argentine rails were weak, being influenced by the strike. American stocks were dull.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse. Three per cent. rentes, 61 francs for cash; exchange on London, 27 francs 18 centimes; 5 per cent. loan, 88 francs 20 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Traders Hesitate Over Price Fixing.

The stock trading community took more time than it usually does in making up its mind in regard to the probable effect of the fixed steel prices. When the first news came from Washington, on the tickers, Steel common was selling around 110 and in a few minutes it moved forward to 110⅝. Then hesitation was evident. Slowly the quotation eased off until 109½ was recorded. This level was not reached for nearly a half hour after the prices were made public, and for another half hour irregular movements occurred, with the trend no more than slightly forward. Traders appeared to be waiting for further details of the price program. When news came around 2:30 o'clock that the prices were to apply to all steel bought in this country, the market appeared to make up its mind. The steel stocks gained rapidly from that time until the close.

Relief from Suspense.

The fact that the Government, the other allies, and the public are to get the same prices for steel products was not what promoted the buying of stocks. Rather, traders thought that so broad an application of price-fixing might tend to depress the earnings of the companies. What was clearly evident in commission houses was relief that the Government had decided on prices. The long wait was ended. Speculators were able to see the way ahead more clearly than in many weeks, and were in position to exercise their judgment and imagination about quoted values, unaffected by a matter which had long put a damper upon trading in stocks.

⁂

British Treasury Bills.

The ninety-day British Treasury bills offered by J. P. Morgan & Co. will be sold this week at a discount of 5½ per cent., the same rate as that quoted last week. In the first three weeks, the Morgan firm put out $55,000,000 of the bills at 5¼ per cent. discount.

⁂

Peace Talk and Prices.

There seemed to be considerable peace talk and gossip around yesterday on the Cotton Exchange and notably in shipping circles. Most of it, however, particularly in the cotton market, was of the nebulous variety, which, while itself pure speculation, has little perceptible effect upon speculators, although it may have contributed somewhat to the general feeling of uncertainty which was revealed in yesterday's unsettled cotton market. Peace talk is generally supposed to be bullish on the Cotton Exchange, although war times have seen such prices for cotton as never ruled before. But such as there was did not seem to have that effect yesterday. There was plenty of height and depth, but little breadth, to the market.

Airplane Standardization.

An airplane man in the financial district was asked why, with all their resources, England, France, and Italy together had so far been unable to do more than hold even with Germany in the air, and were waiting for the United States to clinch supremacy. His answer, in view of the Liberty Motor, may be interesting. His opinion was that Germany is second only to the United States in learning how to standardize, and this, with remarkable resourcefulness and skill in repairing every machine, no matter how badly smashed, that falls within her lines—and as most of the fighting is over her lines, there is where most of them fall—had enabled her so far to hold her end up.

⁂

Money Utopias.

The Paris correspondent of The London Economist reports that M. Raffalovich, who was technical delegate to the International Money Exchange Conference, held in Brussels in 1894, has written a letter warning the public of the danger of money Utopias. He points out that all responsible governments will do their utmost after the war to replace the paper at present on the market with metal currencies. At the same time, he shows that the fall in prices, which will be due to other causes besides the redemption of paper money, will give rise to many protests and prophesies, that attempts will be made by interested persons to maintain or even increase the inflated circulation. He pays a warm tribute to England for having maintained the principle of gold standard, and is confident that England, after the war, will be in a much more favorable position than France. He deplores the fact that despite the way in which the public has handled paper money since the war, it remains as ignorant as ever of monetary phenomena, and he protests against the danger of the proposals made for the creation of an international money standard.

⁂

Foreign Business of Banks.

Among the many changes that have been brought about in banking since the outbreak of the war has been the development of the "merchant-banker," a species of banking men scarce in the United States, but of vital importance in building up a country's foreign trade. Merchant-bankers are still scarce, but a number of bank officials who formerly devoted their time to pure foreign exchange operations have lately subordinated that work, and have been directing their attention to the financing of foreign business transactions. The foreign exchange market has been unusually quiet of late, and the little business that has presented itself has been handled by juniors. Most of the foreign exchange experts of the large banks and trust companies now give up their time to assisting manufacturers and merchants in financing import and export shipments. Some of the institutions have built up large departments which now handle the work. In a number of instances big banks have made it a practice to accommodate business men of very small capital. It is in this way that the bankers of the country are doing effective work in developing the country's foreign trade.

DEFICIT FOR N. Y. RAILWAYS.

Net Loss $148,053, Against Income of $1,439,707 the Year Before.

The annual report of the New York Railways Company, made public yesterday, shows in several items the effect of the strike of last Fall upon the company's business. The company carried 314,627,792 passengers, a decrease of 68,675,292 from the previous year; earnings decreased $2,220,422, or 16.19 per cent., compared with the previous year, and operating expenses, while decreasing, did so to the extent of only $505,269, or 6.03 per cent. Injuries and damage to persons and property charged against the operating account amounted to $783,701.

The ratio of operating expenses to operating revenue for the year was 68.46, as compared with 61.06 the previous year. Actual operating expenses were $7,868,810, including maintenance charges of $2,159,638. Taxes amounted to $1,032,012. After all income deductions, &c., the company showed a deficit for the year of $148,053, compared with a net income of $1,439,707 the year before. Advances in wages made during the year totaled about $637,000.

Superior Steel Earns 46 Per Cent.

The Superior Steel Company, which manufactures rolled strip steel, declared yesterday an initial quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the $6,000,000 common stock payable Nov. 1 to shareholders of record Oct. 15. Reports from official quarters show earnings in the first eight months of the year at the rate of 46 per cent. on the stock, after providing for preferred stock dividends, but without making allowances for sinking fund requirements and the excess profits tax.

SAYS LIBERTY LOAN WILL HELP BUSINESS

Charles H. Sabin Asserts Money Will Be Spent Here and Increase Prosperity.

MEANS NO LOSS OF GOLD

Head of Guarantee Trust Company Believes Foreign Exchange Will Be Further Stabilized.

Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, believes that the new Liberty Loan can be floated without seriously disturbing business and that in the long run the sale of Government bonds will promote materially the prosperity of the entire country.

"The proceeds from the sale of Liberty bonds will be expended in this country by our Government and by the allied Governments, to whom we are making loans," he said yesterday. "As Secretary McAdoo has explained the situation is largely a mere matter of shifting credits, and the money will remain in this country and will not involve any loss of gold or any loss of values. It is obvious that the more money there is spent in this country the greater will be our prosperity. The greater, too, will be America's dominance of world finances and exchanges. The new Liberty Loan will exert a potent influence in stabilizing foreign exchange. It will strengthen and help to make secure the position of the American dollar, which today rules the money markets of the world.

"A leading English financial writer acknowledges that London has surrendered 'its proud position as the foremost money market in the world, as the clearing house for all nations, and as the banker to whom the enterprising commercial men of every State came when they were in need of banking assistance.' Another authority likewise declares that in the United States 'are some of the very best business men that the world holds today.' These writers point to our great natural resources, to our soil, which is capable of supporting five times the population it maintains at present, and to our almost unlimited room for expansion.

"The payment of the interest on and principal of the Liberty Loans will not impair the resources of our fields, factories, or mines. The money will come from the annual income and production of the country, now estimated as amounting to $50,000,000,000 in value.

Bunmer Crops Bring Prosperity.

"Bumper crops in all staples, except wheat, and great increases in grain values, are generating a prosperity which will be apparent first in the West and later throughout the entire United States. Food is the basic factor in determining the cost of production of practically all that humanity consumes.

"In this connection it might be well to consider a recent invoice made of our economic resources, which disclosed some impressive facts. For instance, there are twice as many cattle and swine in the United States as in any other country, with a total value of live stock products of more than $4,000,000,000. Our corn crop is ten times greater than that of any other country. While our wheat crop is not as large as we had hoped for, it is bigger than that of any rival. Our cotton output is more than half of the world's supply. Our coal production is nearly half a billion tons annually, which is about twice that of Great Britain, our nearest competitor. Our oil production, of over 300,000,000 barrles, is twice that of Russia, which ranks second.

"Our output of iron and steel is twice that of Germany, our nearest rival. We produce more copper than all the remainder of the world put together. In manufactured goods last year, our output was more than $36,000,000,000, and the balance of our exports over imports amounted to more than $3,000,000,000. Our gold reserve of approximately $3,000,000,000 is more than one-third of the world's total. Our wealth is now more than $2,000 for every man, yoman, and child in the country. Our railroad mileage is more than double that of all Europe.

Our National Wealth $250,000,000,000.

"The total wealth of Great Britain, France, and Germany amounts to $227,500,000,000. The national wealth of the United States aggregates $250,000,000,000.

"A perusal of these facts must certainly reassure even the most dubious as to our ability to absorb not only the second Liberty loan, but a third and fourth, if necessary."

The patriotic Service League of 509 Fifth Avenue has offered to aid in the flotation of the next Liberty Loan. For the present, it will devote its energies in canvassing the Nineteenth Congressional District. Among those identified with the work of the league are Charles S. Fairchilds, James C. Egbert, Franklin H. Giddings, Charles Evans Hughes, Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church; Langdon P. Marvin, Morgan J. O'Brien, Alton B. Parker, James T. Shotwell, John B. Stanchfield, Oscar S. Straus, Maude Wetmore, Everett P. Wheeler, George W. Wickersham, F. Cliffe Johnston, J. Edward Weld, Carl A. Mead, Arnold Frye, William J. O'Donnell, and Arthur H. Brooks.

George B. Cortelyou, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, and now President of the Consolidated Gas Company, is Chairman of a special committee of the Liberty Loan which is looking after the public utility corporations. Last week when his company sent out dividend checks to its stockholders, folders were inclosed calling attention to the forthcoming Government loan. The company proposed to send similar folders to its thousands of gas consumers when distributing its monthly bills.

$400,000,000 ISSUE OF TREASURY NOTES

Bear 4 Per Cent. Interest From Tomorrow and Are Payable Dec. 15.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Secretary McAdoo, under authority of the Bond act approved by the President today, annnounced tonight that he offered for subscription at par and accrued interest through the Federal Reserve Banks $400,000,000 of Treasury certificates of indebtedness, payable Dec. 15, with interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum from Sept. 26. The official announcement follows-

"Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve Banks from Tuesday, Sept. 25, to 12 o'clock noon (local time) Tuesday, Oct. 2. The certificates will be in denominations of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

"They will be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except (a) estate or inheritance taxes and (b) graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes and excess profits and war profits taxes, now or hereafter imposed by the United States upon the income or profits of individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations; and the interest on an amount of bonds and certificates authorized in the Bond act, the principal of which does not exceed in the aggregate $5,000, owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, will be exempt from the taxes provided for in clause (b) above.

"Upon ten days' notice, given in such manner as may be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, this series of $400,000,000 may be redeemed as a whole at par and accrued interest on and after any date, occurring before maturity of such certificates, set for the payment of the first installment payable after allotment of the subscription price of any bonds offered for subscription by the United States hereafter and before the maturity of such certificates.

"The certificates of this series, whether or not called for redemption, will be accepted at par, with adjustment of accrued interest, if tendered on such installment date in payment of the subscription price then payable of any such bonds subscribed for, by and allotted to holders of such certificates. As fiscal agent of the United States, the Federal Reserve Banks will be authorized to allot in full in order of receipt of applications up to amounts specified for each district.

"Payments may be made at par and accrued interest on and after Sept. 26 until Oct. 3 inclusive. After allotment and upon payment Federal Reserve Banks will issue interim receipts pending delivery of definite certificates. Qualified depositaries will be permitted to make payment by credit for certificates alloted to them for themselves and their customers, up to an amount for which each shall have qualified when so notified by Federal Reserve Bank, but if qualification shall not have been completed payments must be made in the ordinary way, in which case the unexpended proceeds will be redeposited as promptly as qualification is completed."

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat situation was not materially changed. Receipts at Western points were slightly under a week ago and only about half as large as last year's movement. The visible, however, increased 1,090,000 for the week, with the total native and bonded wheat amounting to 6,856,000, compared with 61,311,000 bushels a year ago. Complaints are still being heard that the mills are not securing enough wheat to grind, but authorities feel hopeful that the movement will increase from now on. Prices remain unchanged on a Government basis. Rye—Market firm; No. 2 Western, $1.99, cost, insurance, and freight, New York. Exporters were said to have taken about 50,000 bushels.

CORN.

The corn market experienced a sharp upturn in the face of very favorable weather conditions. The weather map indicated normal temperatures throughout the greater part of the country and the official forecast was for slightly warmer weather. The visible supply of corn showed a decrease of 131,000 bushels for the week, bringing the total to 1,805,000 bushels, compared with 4,483,000 a year ago, when there was an increase of 741,000 bushels. Some complaints were received to the effect that damage by the frost of two weeks ago is beginning to show up more clearly and that in some sections the loss is greater than had been estimated. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.15½ and No. 2 mixed at $2.13½, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

PROVISIONS.

New high records were established in the market for hog products with a sharp upward movement, especially in lard and pork. Packers were credited with buying, and the whole situation was dominated by the pronounced strength in the market for live hogs. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 17,000, estimated for Tuesday, 10,000. Kansas City received 4,000 and Omaha 7,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was excited and strong, with an active trade. With the exception of the September position the entire list was at new high records, selling close to the 17-cent level. The close was 25 points lower for September and 20 to 30 points net higher for the other months. Total sales were 74,500 barrels. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

There were no new developments in raw sugar, trading in that department being at a standstill, awaiting developments from Washington. The small unsold balance, estimated at less than 50,000 bags, of the Cuban crop is in strong hands and sales are not pressed. In the meantime there is a good demand for refined sugar, with refiners running very low on raw supplies, one refiner being forced to close down and others operating on part time, in order to string along their present raw supplies over as long a period as possible. Consumers are short of refined sugar and for immediate delivery are paying full list prices, the list ranging from 8.40c to 8.50c regular terms. It was rumored that Cuban producers and the Government control authorities had come to an agreement on a satisfactory price for the coming Cuban crop, but confirmation could not be obtained. It is believed in the trade, however, that an official statement will be forthcoming from Washington soon.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 5,376 packages. The market was a shade firmer on most grades of creamery, with fair demand. Exchange sales include 225 tubs creamery extras, at 44½c; 100 tubs (93 score) at 15c. Business on the Street was about in line with these figures. Renovated well sustained. Ladles and packing stock firmer. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 9,729 cases. A liberal accumulation was carried over from last week, including chiefly medium grades, but a number of lots of higher qualities also. The market opened with a moderate demand, but a considerable pressure to sell and a generally weak tone, and most of the business is being done at cut prices. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 45@46c; extra firsts, 42@44c; firsts, 39½@41½c; seconds, 37½@39c; thirds and poorer, 35@37c; fresh gathered dirties, XXX No. 1, 36@37c; No. 2 and poorer, 33@35½c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 33@34c; undergrades, 30@32c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 40c; firsts, storage and insurance paid, 38½@39½c; seconds, storage and insurance paid, 37@38c; lower grades, storage and insurance paid, 34@36½c; refrigerator, State whites, 41@43c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 58@60c; ordinary to good, 45@57c; gathered whites, good to fine, 43@58c; California white, 48@58c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 42@48c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 48@50c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 42@47c.

THE COTTON MARKET

Prices Show Little Net Change After a Day of Many Ups and Downs.

There was no trace of the usual Monday dullness or lassitude about the cotton market yesterday. At various moments during the day's session it appeared likely that last week's steady advance would continue, or even be accelerated; at other moments, a few minutes earlier or later, it appeared certain that a violent reaction would wipe out all last week's gains in a single session; but when the trading finally stopped at 3 o'clock, all the tumult notwithstanding, the market rested not far from the opening figures.

In the first half hour of the session there was a break of close to 70 points in all futures from the opening figures. Then came a sharp rally, which regained all the lost ground and more, carrying prices up in some instances more than 100 points from the lowest of the day, and reaching new high levels for the current movement. But this was followed by heavy realizing which, with the comparatively small volume of trade, sent prices cascading 40 to 60 points. After similar fluctuations, the closing found the list irregular, but ranging from 2 points higher to 27 points lower.

December deliveries, typical of the entire course of the market, sold up to 24.40 at the opening, broke to 23.58, rallied to 24.60, and finally closed at 24.05. October was the steadiest, and held nearly all its gains on covering and trade buying in anticipation of a renewed bull market this morning.

The early disposition to take profits after the advance of about 5 cents a pound from recent low levels was stimulated by talk of an easier spot basis in the Southwest and rumors of an advance in marine war risks which might check exports. At times the selling was very active, and probably reflected reactionary sentiment as well as realizing. Offerings were absorbed just above the 23½-cent level, however, and the market advanced very rapidly during the early afternoon. Covering by early sellers and fresh buying for long account was promoted by prospects for unsettled weather, with the outlook for rains in the Eastern belt suggesting a further delay in the movement. After showing net gains of 30 to 49 points, the market became very nervous and unsettled.

There was a flurry of Wall Street buying following the announcement of Government prices for iron and steel. It was noted around the ring that there had been a spurt of buying after each recent announcement of Government prices for commodities, particularly from Wall Street and Western sources. Possibly Government recognition of high commodity values under prevailing conditions has accounted for such buying, and there may also be a feeling in some quarters that in case Government prices for cotton become necessary, they will be fixed at a level recognizing the prosperity of producers. Beyond such considerations yesterday's advances were promoted by reports of crop deterioration, with the end-September report of a prominent Memphis authority placing the condition at 59.8, against 67.2 last month. Exports for the day were 20,256, making 595,004 so far this season. Southern spot markets, as officially reported, were 38 points lower to 75 points higher.

The New War Tax Will Affect YOU

DIRECTLY or indirectly every individual and corporation in the United States will be affected by the new War Revenue Bill which Congress is about to pass. Through the Income Tax, the Excess Profits Tax, the Stamp Taxes or some of the other provisions of the Law you will be asked to contribute your share toward the large sums necessary for carrying the war to a successful end.

Do you know how and to what extent you will be taxed? The far reaching provisions of this law should be fully understood by all individuals and corporations concerned. The entire War Revenue Bill including the Income Tax will be thoroughly analyzed and explained in our new ninety-six page book which is now in course of preparation and which will be available for free distribution soon after the bill becomes a law.

A copy of this booklet clearly interpreting the law will be supplied when off the press, to those interested upon application for booklet ∠40.

PROHIBIT EXPORTS OF GOLD TO SPAIN

Shipments Since Jan. 1 Total $88,000,000 and Are Adverse to Trade Balance.

NO BAN ON "EAR-MARKING"

Bank Here Puts Two Millions in the Yellow Metal in Vaults for Foreign Client.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Treasury officials carrying out the Government's policy governing the conservation of gold have virtually decided upon a policy prohibiting the export of gold to Spain. No gold has been licensed for export to Spain since the President's proclamation became effective, except several small shipments already loaded aboard steamers.

Exportations of gold to Spain had been growing steadily up to the time of the President's proclamation. Between Jan. 1 and Sept. 1 of this year, the volume approximated $88,000,000, the largest recorded in any similar period of time. It was adverse to the trade balance, which was in favor of the United States on Sept. 1 to the extent of $50,000,000.

The Guaranty Trust Company withdrew $2,000,000 in gold from the Sub-Treasury yesterday. The metal will be deposited in the bank's vaults, where it will be held subject to orders from its client, who in this case happens to be a foreign state bank. In other words, the gold will be "ear-marked," and will no longer be part of the gold reserve of the country or of the trust company. The gold, being the property of some foreign bank of issue, will be considered by that foreign bank as part of its reserve, and it will be utilized as the basis for issue of its currency.

Officials of the trust company declined to divulge the identity of its client. For some time the Sub-Treasury has reported withdrawals of gold without disclosing the destination, and it is assumed that banks and trust companies, other than the Guaranty, have taken out gold to fulfill orders from their foreign clients who requested that their credits be converted into gold and that the metal be held for their account.

In banking circles it is assumed that the renewal of the practice of ear-marking gold is the result of the President's proclamation, under which no coin, bullion or currency may be exported without a Treasury license approved by the Federal Reserve Board. The practice of banks of issue keeping part of their gold reserve in foreign countries is not new. The Bank of France has part of its metallic reserve outside of Paris and several years ago the First National Bank of New York held $10,000,000 in gold for the Bank of France account. The twelve Federal Reserve Banks have $52,500,000 in gold with foreign agencies.

By having their New York correspondents convert credit balances into gold and keeping the gold here, the foreign state banks of issue relieve themselves of the cost of transportation and insurance incident to actual exports from the United States. And more particularly, their New York correspondents are not required to go through the formalities of applying for licenses, and running the risk of having their applications rejected.

The President's proclamation and the Treasury regulations governing gold exports are silent on the subject of the withdrawal of gold in cases where the metal remains in this country. As far as the general monetary position of this country is concerned the effect of "ear-marking" gold is the same as if the gold were actually exported, for the setting aside of the metal reduces both the total amount in circulation and the potential expansive power of our currency.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Franklin Trust Company has made arrangements with the Federal Reserve Bank by which the bank will settle its daily balances at the Clearing House. Nearly all of the members of the Clearing House now avail themselves of this medium for settlements.

Members of the New York Cotton Exchange are signing a petition asking for a day to be appointed for balloting, to make Saturday, Oct. 13, the day following Columbus Day, a holiday.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed with the California Railroad Commission application for authority to exercise the options given it by the United States Long Distance Telephone and Telegraph Company to purchase, before Oct. 31 next, trust certificates at $60 a share, representing preferred capital stock of the latter company of the total par value of $448,000, and for authority to purchase upon the same terms trust certificates representing the remainder, $52,000, of the preferred capital stock.

Directors of the Liberty National Bank declared yesterday a quarterly dividend of 4½ per cent., payable on Oct. 1, to stockholders of record at the close of business on Sept. 26. This is the first dividend since the capital stock was increased on Aug. 1 from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000.

The first loss of interim certificates for Liberty Loan bonds was reported yesterday by C. F. Childs & Co., who announced that three $1,000 certificates had disappeared in the process of delivery.

Jacques S. Cohen of J. S. Bache & Co., Henry E. Butler of Chas. D. Barney & Co., and Sherwood E. Hall of Hornblower, Miller, Garrison & Potter, have been elected Directors of the Chalmers Motor Company and the Chalmers Motor Corporation.

The National Surety Company announced yesterday that William A. Thompson and Robert C. Carson had been appointed Vice Presidents and that Robert M. Nugent had been named Assistant Secretary.

The price of Copper has been fixed at 23½ cents

VANDERLIP TO AID McADOO.

Heads Educational Committee for Sale of War Certificates.

Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank of New York, who was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury during the Spanish-American war, and in that capacity had charge of the flotation of Government loans, has been drafted in the service of the department. He began his work in Washington yesterday.

At the request of Secretary McAdoo, Mr. Vanderlip accepted the Chairmanship of a committee which will carry on an education campaign in connection with the sale of $2,000,000,000 worth of war certificates provided for in the Bond bill. In local banking circles the entrance of Mr. Vanderlip into the Government service in close co-operation with Secretary McAdoo is regarded as highly significant, for it is argued that it indicates a better feeling between the Washington Administration and Wall Street bankers.

Baltimore Light Earns $8,498,809.

The annual report of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Company of Baltimore, issued yesterday, shows a gross income of $8,498,809 for the year ended June 30, 1917, an increase of $1,067,040, or 14.3 per cent., compared with the previous year's figures. The net earnings amounted to $4,018,644, and net income, after the deduction of fixed charges, &c., $2,346,421. The balance, after allowing for depreciation and contingencies, is $1,446,421, which is equivalent to $10.05 a share on $14,385,000 of capital stock.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

In the last hour of trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange prices advanced sharply. The announcement of the official prices on steel, coke, and iron ore supplied the market with the influence that was necessary to lift it out of the doldrums. Traders and commission house clients were disposed to accept the report that the prices named on steel, ranging from $58 to $65 a ton, really meant an average of about $64. A vigorous buying movement set in a few minutes after the announcement came from Washington.

Short Time Investments
GUARANTY BANKING

1. For the information of bankers and other conservative investors this summary of characteristics of the Collateral Trust Securities issued by this Corporation is published:—

Maturities: Two months to ten months.
Denominations: $1,000, $2,500, $5,000, $10,000, $50,000.
Yield: At present offered at a discount rate of 5%—5½%—6% depending upon maturities. Rates vary with financial market and length of maturities.
Origin: Issued against two-name paper arising from actual sales of new trucks and automobiles. This underlying paper is deposited with Metropolitan Trust Company of New York City as trustee for holders of securities.
Underlying Collateral: Each of these two names is of approved credit standing and protected by direct lien on insured trucks and passenger automobiles with a margin of value considerably beyond credit involved.
Relation to Guaranty Securities Corporation: Securities are the direct obligation of issuing Corporation, which is organized under the banking laws of New York and has cash capital of $1,000,000 and undivided profits at August 31, 1917 of $218,698.02.
Margin: Each $1,000. of securities is secured by $1250. of underlying passenger car notes or acceptances or by $1111.11 of truck notes or acceptances. These in turn are protected by direct lien on these insured trucks and passenger automobiles, having retail value at the beginning of the transaction, of $1700. or $1875.
Self-Liquidation: Securities are absolutely self-liquidating because their maturities are so arranged that there will always be more than sufficient funds in the hands of the trustee from maturing payments of the underlying collateral to protect them at maturity. The underlying notes pledged as collateral are themselves secured by ample physical collateral so that there is no possibility of any shrinkage in these assets beyond a merely nominal amount more than adequately provided for in the Corporation's reserve for losses.
For instance, on August 14, 1917, there was $1,573,972.74. cash in trust with trustee, awaiting the retirement of securities to the amount of $1,222,500.00. to mature on August 15, 1917.
Marketability: Securities to the amount of over $30,214,000. have to date been issued and purchased almost entirely by National and State Banks and Trust Companies and other conservative investors. Of these $25,195,000. have been matured and paid from the proceeds of the underlying collateral.

This Corporation will gladly give the names of leading banks in the financial centers who purchase these securities regularly. Our new booklet, "Collateral Trust Securities" giving full data concerning this form of short time investment will be sent promptly upon mail or telephone request.

Contents of Booklet: Self Liquidation; Maturities; Margin of Security; Volume of Paper; Insurance Protection; 10,000 Name Paper; Collection Record of Underlying Collateral; Vocational Diversification of Underlying Names; Geographical Distribution of Underlying Names; Credit Check on Underlying Collateral.

Federal Taxes Explained
By
New York University

The Government will soon be levying additional taxes. Many difficult questions will arise. They must be answered before reports can be correctly filed.

New York University is anticipating this difficulty. It has arranged a course under the guidance of Mr. John A. Conlin, head of the Income Tax Department (Fifth District).

The following topics will be included in the course:
Income Tax Reports
Deductions
War Profits Tax
Capital Stock Tax
Estate Tax of Decedents
Application of Taxes to Aliens, etc.

Every attorney, accountant, banker, administrator, business man, property owner or stockholder who will be affected by these taxes should attend the lectures. Questions answered at each meeting.
Lectures will be held in the University Building, 32 Waverly Place, each Monday, 6:00-7:45 p. m., and at the Wall Street Branch, 25 Broad Street, Thursdays, 5:15-7:00 p. m. First lecture Sept. 27th, 1917. Fee $12.

TO OPEN JUNGLE RAILWAY.

Passengers on Siam Road Will See the Sacred White Elephants.

Walter H. Morrison, an English engineer who has arrived from Siam on his way home to England, says that the new railroad from Bangkok to Penang, in the Malay Straits, has just been completed and will be open for passenger traffic next April. The distance of the new road is about 700 miles and has been laid through tropical scenery where tigers, monkeys, parrots, elephants, and rhinosceroses lurk in the jungle on every side. The journey will occupy from thirty-six to forty hours and the trains will be equipped with sleeping and restaurant cars similar to the express trains between Bombay and Calcutta.

It will open the capital of Siam, which is little known to tourists on account of its inaccessibility, and American round the world travelers after the war will be able to see the sacred white elephants resting under the sacred Bobo trees and hear the royal, purple crested wuzzermuts whistling on their branches. The palaces, temples, and the great statue of Buddha are also worth seeing, he said.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Trading was light in the realty market yesterday. On the lower east side the First Rumanian American Congregation, whose synagogue occupies the plot at 89 to 93 Rivington Street, purchased the College Settlement Building at 95 Rivington Street, 25 by 100, adjoining the southwest corner of Ludlow Street, giving the congregation control of over 100 feet frontage.

In the Bronx an important deal was closed in the purchase by Mrs. Alino O. Dirig from Frederick Brown, of the five-story apartment house at 2,311 Tiebout Avenue, near 183d Street, 50 by 113. It was held at $70,000. In part payment, Mrs. Dirig gave five New Jersey properties, valued at $30,000, including two two-family houses at Bogota, two houses at Teaneck and a two-family house at North Bergen. Charles Kountze was the broker in the transaction.

Harlem Residence Sale.

The four-story residence at 7 East 130th Street, 18.9 by 99.11, has been sold by the Henry Kiddle estate, represented by Kiddle & Margeson, attorneys. It is the first sale of the property in thirty-four years.

Tenement Investments.

David Lion has purchased from Miriam Fisher of Paris, the four-story flat at 312 East 124th Street, on lot 19 by 100.

The five-story tenement at 503 East 118th Street, near Pleasant Avenue, plot 25 by 100, has been purchased by Adolph Weiss from Frederick Brown.

Airplane Co. Buys at College Point.

The L. W. F. Engineering Company, Incorporated, manufacturers of Government airplanes, have purchased twenty-two lots at College Point from the Corina Investing Company, and a plot 50 by 100 on the southwest corner of Tenth Street and Fourth Avenue. The land will be used to enlarge the plant.

Queens Borough Sales.

George Fleming has purchased a dwelling at 65 Tennis Place, Forest Hills Gardens, from the Sage Foundation Homes Company. The plot has a frontage of 100 feet.

The Nassau Heights Realty Company has sold its holdings at Elmhurst, consisting of 360 lots, to the J. Strauss Realty Corporation of Brooklyn.

J. P. Keaveny sold five lots at Inglewood, Jamaica, to the S. R. Building Company, and E. Denker sold four lots to the Queens Equity Realty Company.

New Jersey.

Adolph Weiss has sold at Teaneck a residence on Teaneck Road, plot 360 by 400, to Albert Penderford, and a dwelling on the same thoroughfare, plot 55 by 100, to Edwin Schultz.

Charles T. Shipman sold his country estate at Basking Ridge, consisting of seventy acres, to a client of Robert B. Stoutenburgh. The property was held at $35,000.

Westchester County.

Fish & Marvin have sold for Edward C. Gude a plot of one and one-half acres, with a residence on The Grange, at Scarsdale to Mrs. Katherine G. T. Osgood. It occupies one of the highest points in Scarsdale, and was held at $25,000. The same brokers have sold Mrs. A. J. Flugal's home in Armour Villa Park.

The Westchester Land Exchange has sold three lots on Morningside Road, Nepperhan Heights, Yonkers, to Harry V. Butler, to enlarge his holdings.

A plot 75 by 212 on the east side of Webster Avenue, adjoining Kress Park, New Rochelle, has been purchased by Mrs. Ellen A. Willing from George D. Harrison for residential improvement. J. Sterling Drake was the broker.

Commercial Leases.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased the six-story building at 43 and 45 Wooster Street, 50 by 100, to an export and import corporation. The rental is $6,500 per annum. The property was recently sold through the same brokers.

William J. Smith and Arthur Colt have leased the building at 2,473 Broadway for Pesetzky Brothers to K. H. Dalkranian & Sons, Oriental rug dealers.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have leased for Mrs. Adrian Iselin the five-story dwelling at 174 Madison Avenue, adjoining the corner of Thirty-third Street, to Mrs. Mabel Duble Scheele, and the four-story house at 164 East Sixty-fourth Street for Mrs. Walter C. Taylor to J. Arthur Brooks.

Pease & Elliman have leased for Mrs. Chester Griswold to H. S. Dunscombe the four-story dwelling at 131 East Fifty-fourth Street, and for Alexander Lambert to Mrs. J. C. Fairchild the three-story dwelling at 792 Lexington Avenue.

Thomas J. O'Reilly has rented for Mrs. Julia G. Lyle Samuel the four-story dwelling at 6 West Eighty-seventh Street to Mrs. Caroline Lilliard.

The Houghton Company has leased the three dwellings at 272 to 276 West Ninety-fourth Street for Joseph Paterno and Anthony Campagna to Margaret D. Scott for alteration into bachelor apartments.

Elect McGuire Director in Alliance Realty.

At the meeting yesterday of the Directors of the Alliance Realty Company, of which William H. Chesebrough is Chairman, Lawrence McGuire was elected a Director. The usual 1½ per cent. quarterly dividend was declared.

Denies Bronx Sale Report.

The John B. Haskin Estate, Inc., denies the report that it has sold the block front on the south side of 192d Street, with a frontage on both the Grand Boulevard and Concourse and Creston Avenue, comprising about seventeen lots.

Realty Notes.

Rachel Levine was the buyer of the two-family dwelling at 394 East 170th Street, opposite Claremont Park, sold by the Bond and Mortgage Guaranty Company through Fred Oppenheimer.

Harry J. Rogers was the broker in the sale of 10 West Eighty-fourth Street to the Nason Realty Company.

The Jere Johnson, Jr., Company will sell today at auction in the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, 189 Montague Street, the northeast corner of Cropsey Avenue and Bay Twentieth Street, occupied by two three-story brick buildings.

The September meeting of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association will be held on Friday evening at 558 West 158th Street, southeast corner of Broadway.

There were no auction offerings yesterday in either the Vesey Street or Bronx Salesrooms.

Griffen, Prince & Ripley, Inc., have leased for its suburban realty headquarters from T. J. S. Flint the office building on the Boston Post Road, Larchmont, formerly occupied by Alexander Bradley.

OFFERED FOR SALE AS IT STANDS, $32,500
Terms Will Be Arranged as Desired.
SUNSET HALL AND ESTATE
Property is worth 50% more than price at which it is offered to effect a quick sale.

One of the Most Perfectly Appointed Estates Near New York.

A Property That Anyone Will Be Proud to Hand Down from Generation to Generation.

A typical Colonial Country Estate of several acres, possessing manifold allurements—site and house are in harmony. Every convenience of a perfect country home has been installed. Near a picturesque lake, all privileges of which this property shares with several other fine estates. Superb views of three lakes. Within easy commutation of New York City.

As a home and for entertaining it is unusual. Country Club, Golf, Churches, &c., nearby.

The house is most spacious; has large foyer hall, with inglenook fireplaces, opening into living room. The Solarium is entered from the living room. Library, dining room, breakfast room, fully equipped pantry, kitchen, servants' hall, complete the first floor.

There are seven beautiful master bedchambers, some en suite, with tiled baths; two with private balconies. There are five modern baths, with latest built in fixtures; also lavatories.

There is a fine billiard room and two trunk rooms. Steam heating plant and laundry are installed in the stone cellar. Tremendous terrace extends across the entire house; covered porch and balcony in centre. At the rear there also is a spacious covered veranda. There is a balcony at each front corner.

I know of no property near New York City so complete that can be obtained at such a low figure.

You can get full particulars by telephoning 6634 Audubon, or by writing Suite No. 2 H, 640 Riverside Drive, New York City.

Exceptional Opportunity

For Homeseekers, Builders, Investors & Speculators

The foremost feature of these sales is that they will absolutely be made to the highest bidder in every case—they will be straightforward public auction sales, with no bidders representing the sellers, directly or indirectly.

All of these properties have excellent transportation facilities; are located in sections where substantial developments are already in existence, and values are far above the amounts expected to be realized from these auction sales.

All of these properties are owned by the Industrial Savings & Loan Company and New York Mortgage Company, and are offered at absolute auction to hasten the closing out of the affairs of these companies.

Liberal terms. Title policies furnished. Purchase money mortgages taken for a liberal percentage of sale price.

For booklet giving list of properties and further information address Benj. D. Haight, Special Deputy. Supt. of Banks, 61 Broadway, New York City.

Education Notes.

Two courses in elements of accounting are to be given at the Hunter College evening sessions during the coming year. One course will be an elementary course for those who know nothing of bookkeeping. The other course will be an advanced one and presupposes a knowledge of bookkeeping on the part of those taking it. The elementary course will be given Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 7 to 8:20 o'clock, and the advanced course will be given the same evenings from 8:25 to 9:45 o'clock. Sessions will commence Oct. 2. The courses will be given by Joseph H. Iskowitz, Chairman of the Commercial Department of the Julia Richman High School.

The Hunter College evening session, registration for which will begin on Sept. 27, has added to its curriculum two courses in typewriting. Elementary typewriting will be given on Monday and Wednesday from 8:25 to 9:45 P. M., and advanced typewriting on Tuesday and Thursday at the same hour. A course in filing has also been arranged in connection with the course in business English.

A free course in architectural and ornamental drawing has been started at the Harlem Evening Trade School, Fifth Avenue and 138th Street. It is especially arranged for architectural draftsmen, masons, plumbers, plasterers, cabinetmakers, marble, stone, and iron workers. Registration is now in progress.

Another class in the mechanics of writing is being formed at the Evening High School for Women, 40 Irving Place.

Extension courses, free to teachers, librarians, and social workers, are given at the City College. Last year more than 3,500 teachers who were enrolled in these courses were studying for professional advancements. These courses carry with them not only college credit but also recognition by the Board of Examiners. Teachers who successfully complete these courses obtain exemption from parts of examinations for higher licenses.

An emergency meeting will be held by the Professional Elementary Teachers' Association at 8 P. M. today in the World Building, against the longer schoolday.

Registration began in the evening elementary schools last evening and will continue for the rest of the week. The term will begin next Monday. There are eighty-two of these schools.

United States.

The Commission announces for Oct. 3, at the New York Custom House, an examination for preparator in nematology, for both men and women. A vacancy in the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and future vacancies requiring similar qualifications, at entrance salaries ranging from $660 to $1,000 a year, will be filled from this examination. The duties will be to prepare, mount, and label specimens of free-living and plant-infesting nematodes for preservation and study, to do card-index work in connection with bibliographical and geographical records of nematode specimens, and to assist in the care and feeding of living specimens of nematodes for study. These duties require a working knowledge of both simple and compound microscopes, of staining and mounting microscopic objects, and at least a fair ability in drawing. Competitors will be examined in drawing, (free-hand,) and practical tests in preparing, mounting, and labeling nematode specimens. The applicant must have a common school education or its equivalent. He must have reached his eighteenth birthday on the date of examination. Further information may be obtained from the Commission, Washington, D. C.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—No reports were received this evening regarding the location of the tropical disturbance, but at 4 P. M. it was apparently nearing the Yucatan Channel, or extreme western Cuba, with a northwestward movement. Conditions are also somewhat unsettled off the Carolina coast and northeast storm warnings are displayed from Wilmington to Fort Monroe and from Block Island to Provincetown.

Rains continued in the South Atlantic States, and there were also rains in the Northwest, from the Dakotas to the Pacific Coast, due to low pressure over the plains States and rapidly rising pressure, with decidedly lower temperatures to the northwestward.

Over the rest of the country the weather was generally fair, with somewhat higher temperatures, except in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States.

Scattered rains will fall Tuesday in the South Atlantic States and along the East Gulf Coast and probably Wednesday in the upper lake region. In the interior of the East Gulf States, Tennessee, the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, the Middle Atlantic States, and New England fair weather will prevail Tuesday and Wednesday, with somewhat higher temperatures over the interior districts.

Winds for Tuesday and Wednesday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate, variable over north, fresh to strong northeast over south portion, diminishing by Tuesday night, clearing weather; Middle Atlantic Coast, fresh northeast, diminishing Tuesday night, cloudy; South Atlantic Coast, moderate to fresh northeast, except moderate east off the Florida coast, showers.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Tuesday; Wednesday, fair and warmer.

Southern New England—Fair Tuesday, preceded by rain in the extreme southeast portion, slightly warmer on the mainland; Wednesday, fair, warmer in the interior.

New Jersey—Cloudy and continued cool Tuesday. Wednesday, fair and slightly warmer.

Western New York—Fair and warmer Tuesday and Wednesday.

Eastern Pennsylvania and Northern New England—Fair and warmer Tuesday; Wednesday, fair.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1916.	1917.		1916.	1917.
3 A. M.	55	51	4 P. M.	65	59
6 A. M.	53	50	6 P. M.	62	59
9 A. M.	58	57	9 P. M.	61	59
12 M	64	55	11 P. M.	58	59

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 55; for the corresponding date last year it was 59; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 65. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 52; at 8 P. M. it was 59. Maximum temperature, 60 degrees, at 5:30 P. M.; minimum, 50 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 82 per cent. at 8 A. M. and 73 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.44 inches. At 8 P. M. it stood at 30.27 inches.

OUR FIRST WOUNDED ON THE WEST FRONT

Two Who Were Hit the Envy of Comrades Working Near the Fighting Line.

MUSTN'T GO TO TRENCHES

Strict Order Required to Keep Americans from Joining Tommies in Minor Skirmishes.

By The Associated Press.

SOMEWHERE ALONG THE BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, Sept. 23, (Delayed.)—On a historic battlefield which merges into the fighting lines are encamped many American troops, far removed from the rest of their compatriots who form the vanquard of Uncle Sam's expeditionary force in France.

For military reasons it is impossible to tell the world just where these men are, who they are, or what they are doing to further the interests of the allied cause, but it may be said on authority to friends at home that they are a credit to the Stars and Stripes, which for the first time in history fly over a camp of American soldiers in this part of the war-wrecked world.

Some of them have been working continually in a zone covered by German guns, and already two of their number have been wounded, a fact of which they are exceedingly proud.

The Associated Press heard these men were here and sought them out. The visit involved a long motor trip; but the sight of their bronzed faces and the sound of their cheerful, determined voices more than repaid the correspondent for his long journey. They are a fine, healthy-looking lot, and nearly two months of hard work in the open under real campaigning conditions has put them in shape, and they are ready for anything.

Especially are they prepared and anxious to try conclusions with the Germans. In fact, their only grievance is that for the present they are not permitted, except where necessity demands, to expose themselves to the enemy's big guns. They want to feel the thrill that one experiences when explosives are going up all about and when shells herald their approach across No Man's Land with a wicked whine which gives notice that in a fraction of a minute deadly bits of ragged steel will be flying in all directions.

Ran Away to the British Front.

In fact, until a stringent order was issued recently, the American officers had a hard time keeping their men out of the British front line trenches. It is said that more than one American soldier has crept away when off duty, and, after making friends with the Tommies, has taken his place beside them for a few glorious minutes while a minor battle was in progress.

It would have been unwise, perhaps, for the correspondent to inquire too closely whether any of the American officers had "done their bit" in this manner. Nevertheless, he had grave suspicions that some of them had been "over the top" with their allies in early days before orders forbade it. However, they are good disciplinarians, and nobody is disregarding the edicts which have been issued by the higher command, although the sound of the artillery brings a wistful look into their eyes.

The correspondent visited two different camps, and in each there were the same scenes of methodical activity. Things were moving smoothly, and no false motions were being made. Efficiency was the watchword everywhere.

Hearty Welcome to Officers' Mess.

It was noon when the second camp was reached, and the officers and men were preparing for mess. Several clean-cut young officers came out to greet the correspondent, and it was a cheery welcome, with a firm hand-grip and a hearty "I'm mighty glad to see you." One would have known he was in an American camp had he been blindfolded. An invitation was extended to mess, and it was accepted.

"I'm afraid we can't offer you very much to eat," said one officer. "You see, our cook is ill, and just at this moment we are getting along as best we can But we can give you plenty of beans, and—well, plenty more beans," he ended, with an apologetic laugh.

So Boston baked beans were served, the first the correspondent had seen in two years of knocking about, which had taken him from revolution-torn Dublin to the Mohmand revolt on the northwest frontier of India. And they were the best beans ever canned, or that ever will be canned.

While the meal was in progress the correspondent fell into conversation with a young officer who comes from one of the famous and wealthy families of the United States.

"How do you like it out here?" asked the correspondent.

The officer gazed reflectively through the open door of the mess room out across the open and beyond the camp. As far as the eye could reach there was a scene of devastation and desolation. Here and there the shattered walls of a building reared themselves to mark the spot where a farmhouse or perhaps a village had stood. For miles could be seen shattered trunks of trees that had been smashed by great shells, as though rent by lightning. Occasionally the eye met a little graveyard with its wooden crosses, some for German soldiers and some for British who had died in the sanguinary fighting which had taken place over this ground. In places there were still remains of German dugouts, for the enemy had held this territory at one time.

Anxious to Get Into the Fighting.

Grass was growing over all this waste, but the green carpet could not conceal the myriad of mounds that marked the lips of great shell craters which pitted the entire zone. The officer returned from his comtemplative gaze to the conversation and answered:

"Well, it isn't exactly the same as Forty-second Street and Broadway here, but we didn't come out looking for the Great White Way. We are here for business, and like it—partly for itself and partly because we ought to like it. We want to do our bit, and we are more anxious to do it than ever before.

"I think that some of our boys who have crept up and stolen a look at the fighting lines have been a little disappointed in a way. Of course, they read of what it was like over here, but it did not seem quite right not to see banners flying on the battlefield and not to witness troops moving out in the open. But they all are tremendously impressed with things in general. They realize more than they did what a vast business this is. And they are all anxious to do a bigger part.

"The health of the camp is excellent, and the men are as hard as nails. We are all ready for the call to real action."

The American quarters are very simple. One officer proudly displayed a shack that he had built out of airplane wings which had been discarded by the British and had been presented to him by a Colonel. It was an ingeniously constructed little house, and certainly made of unique material.

The reported high reward offered by a German officer for the first American soldier brought into the German lines, dead or alive, has immensely amused the members of the expeditionary force.

"We aren't worrying about it any," laughed one officer. "We are here, and Fritz can come after us any time he is ready. We will be waiting."

This contingent of Americans is learning all the while, and should make a valuable addition to the American fighting front. All the officers are loud in praise of the fine welcome and treatment accorded them by the British.

"They are mighty fine folks," is the unanimous conclusion of the Americans.

AMERICAN DOCTORS AT YPRES.

Did Splendid Work, Under Heavy Shellfire, for Haig's Wounded.

By The Associated Press.

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Sept. 24.—American surgical teams have again been doing magnificent work in advanced casualty clearing stations since the latest offensive began, a number of surgeons and helpers being under heavy shellfire at times.

At one station, out in the neighborhood of the Lpres-Menin road, several surgeons and assistants have been laboring steadily since Thursday morning. Those who have seen them at the operating table, while shells were breaking about them, declare that they have never witnessed a demonstration of greater coolness than was shown by these men who wielded the knife to save life during those nerve-racking times.

Those who are acquainted with the ordinary hospital operating room and know how much care is taken to prevent noise and interruption can well realize what it means to carry on a delicate operation while great shells are exploding close at hand.

Another American surgical team has been working in a German prisoner camp, where wounded captives are taken. There are still others scattered about at various points.

American Casualties on West Front.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—The Canadian casualty list today contains the names of the following Americans: Killed in action, G. P. Knight, New York. Wounded, H. Campbell, Detroit; W. J. Imesson, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Lieutenant F. V. Ysenaga, New York; H. F. Lewellyn, Piketon, Wash. Gas poisoning, J. Williams, Gouverneur, N. Y.

War Crosses for Two Americans.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Dennison Nash of Syracuse, N. Y., and Herbert E. Bigelow of Cherry Valley, Mass., both attached to the American Ambulance Service, have received awards of French War Crosses for removing wounded under a heavy fire on Sept. 13.

7,761 MORE IN DRAFT CALLED TO SERVICE

Another 20 Per Cent. Will Leave This Week for Camp Upton.

The red cards calling to the colors this week another 20 per cent. of New York City's selective draft men were mailed by the Chairmen of the 189 local district boards last night. The number of men called is 7,761, and they will go to camp in three contingents instead of five, as was the case last week.

The following table, given out at the State Arsenal yesterday, gives the number of men called in each district, the date of each contingent's departure, and the place and hour of entrainment:

Leave Friday, Sept. 28.

It was stated yesterday that revised figures show that 399 men failed to report for mobilization, at the times and places specified, last week, and that of these more than 100 have been found and are now at Camp Upton. Eighteen delinquents who were rounded up by the police were sent to the cantonment under guard of soldiers from the Seventy-first Infantry yesterday afternoon and another batch of about the same number will go to camp today.

BOMB-THROWING PRACTICE BEGINS

Officers of Seventh Start Course of Instruction at Spartanburg and Prove Adept Pupils.

PREPARING FOR NEW UNITS

Sites for Infantry Regiments Which Will Arrive Soon Already Have Been Readjusted.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sept. 24.—Armed with dummy bombs of the same weight and size as those used in France, the officers of the old Seventh, now the 107th, started today an intensive course in grenade throwing. The course, which is preliminary to a course of instruction for the whole regiment, is in charge of Captain Harry Vaughn, a reserve officer, who specialized in this work at Plattsburg.

A ditch, corresponding in every way with the German trench, was dug and each officer was required to stand 90 feet away and throw his grenade among the sand bags in the trench. At first the percentage of misses was rather high, but later the old college baseball training of most of the officers reasserted itself and the grenades began to drop into the trench with a regularity and accuracy that caused Captain Vaughn to say that "if old Hindy could see this he'd start another strategic retreat."

The force of fifty military policemen which has been patrolling the city had its first taste of real business late last night when several of them arrested four young men who unlawfully entered a local department store, located in connecting buildings. All of the military policemen concerned in the arrest were commended by their commander, Major T. Harry Stanton, and by the local authorities.

Work on the preparation of the field artillery range was started this afternoon by Company D of the 102d Engineers. Captain Snyder's men, who were the vanguard of the division at camp, will survey and lay out the ground and will be maintained as guard there until all of the units have finished their home practice. The range is twenty-five miles from camp, in the wildest foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, and it is planned to have the artillery cover the distance in a two-day hike.

The program of artillery practice, worked out by Brig. Gen. Phillips, includes barrage fire and drill in all the various gun problems that will be faced in France. Plans are being considered to move the entire division to the range later on and hold a mimic war.

In order to take care of the enlarged companies required by the reorganization, Major Kilpatrick, Constructing Quartermaster, has started a big force of carpenters at work putting in the 3,500,000 additional feet of lumber necessary in the alteration of mess halls and company buildings. It is expected that the alteration will be completed within ten days, so that the arriving troops will not be inconvenienced.

The sites for the Second and Third Infantry and the Seventy-first and First Infantry and the Third Heavy Artillery have already been readjusted to meet the new demands.

Now that the entire division will soon be in camp, the Y. M. C. A. and commission of training camp activities are very busy mapping out an elaborate program of entertainment for the men. Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. twenty-four baseball games will be played every Saturday afternoon. The organization has undertaken to supply all the teams with athletic paraphernalia.

Interregimental athletic meets will be staged, and already the One Hundred and Second Engineers and the headquarters troop have organized committees on games and entertainment. Captain J. J. Dieges is in charge of atheltics for the Engineers, while the athletic future of the headquarters men is in the hands of Captain Davis T. Dunbar and Lieutenant Douglas Cameron.

The presence of a great many former Yale, Harvard, Princeton, and other university football stars in the ranks of the division has caused plans to be laid for a divisional football league. The opening of the football season at the camp has been set tentatively for the middle of next month.

William Church Osborn, formerly Democratic State Chairman, whose son is a reserve Lieutenant, temporarily attached to the One Hundred and Seventh Infantry, visited the camp today. Mr. Osborn was accompanied by Mrs. Osborn and Miss Margaret Lafarge, whose engagement to Lieutenant Osborn was announced recently.

PENNSYLVANIA GAINS IN ARMY RECRUITING

BAKER ANSWERS PROTESTS.

Says Military Necessity Will Govern Consolidation of Guard Units.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Military necessity will govern the consolidation of National Guard units under the reorganization plans of the army, although wherever it is possible the troops from each State will be kept together. Secretary Baker announced this policy today in connection with protests, particularly from members of the Missouri delegation in Congress, against the consolidation of Missouri and Kansas troops in one regiment.

The War Secretary called attention to an interesting situation at Camp Mills, where the "Rainbow" division which he reviewed yesterday is mobilized. There are two old National Guard regiments in that division, he said, one from a Southern State and one from the North. Both have long records of service behind them, including hard fighting in the civil war. They are now camped together and compose one of the brigades of the division. The last time they met was at the battle of Cold Harbor.

Commenting on the work done by the railroads in connection with the mobilization, Mr. Baker said figures now available show that since early in August, when large troop movements began, the roads have transported 502,000 soldiers to various points without any serious derangement of their regular passenger schedules.

"This strikingly illustrates," he added, "the patriotic co-operation of railroads with the Government and also the tremendous capacity of American railways."

KIDNAP DRAFTED BOY SO BROTHER CAN GO

Youth Who Remained Repents and Surrenders to Local Board.

BOTH NOW AT YAPHANK

Chairman Asks General Bell if the 19-Year-Old Substitute Can't Be Sent Home.

Dr. M. Girsdansky, Chairman of Draft Board 93, the headquarters of which are at 229 and 231 East Broadway, has appealed to Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell, U. S. A., in command at Camp Upton, to help him solve the problems that beset him. The mixup in Board 93 is due, in the first place, to the fact that Private M. Getzhoff, who is No. 437 in the draft call and who was supposed to have gone to Camp Upton last week, failed to show up at the mobilization hour, and, as it subsequently turned out, Getzhoff's 19-year-old brother voluntarily went to Yaphank in his place. Twenty-four hours passed before the board found out about the substitution. Draftee and substitute are now both in the Yaphank army, and the board is unable to release the substitute.

In the second place, the board got in hot water when it sent a "temporary conscript" named Isaacson to Camp Upton in place of the regularly called man. According to the report which Dr. Girsdansky made to General Bell, the regular man was among the missing and unaccounted for at the final roll call. Instead of putting in a regular alternate and notifying the police that he had failed to appear, Dr. Girsdansky sought out Isaacson, who was listed as an alternative and asked him to go to the cantonment for a few days while "we look for the regular man." As soon as this man was found, Dr. Girsdansky told the "temporary conscript" he would send him to the camp, and then, he added, "you can come on back home."

Appeals to General Bell.

All of these proceedings were irregular, but Dr. Girsdansky did not know that, and subsequent happenings proved that he had acted with only the best and most patriotic intentions.

But instead of clearing up the situation it became more involved, so on Saturday Dr. Girsdansky decided to appeal to General Bell, and that night the following letter went to the commander at Camp Upton:

> General Bell, Commanding Officer, Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I.
>
> Dear Sir:
>
> Permit me to ask your advice in the following matter:
>
> As Chairman of Local Board No. 93 I drafted one Getzhoff, Serial No. 1,142, Order No. 437, and have already sent him to Camp Upton with the other boys of my second detachment.
>
> I now find to my dismay that the one who answered the roll call was not really the draftee, but a 19-year-old brother of his, who induced some friends to kidnap and detain the real draftee, in order to take his place in Camp Upton, where he is now.
>
> The draftee came to us, and states that he cannot rest, plagued by the thought of his brother's position, and demands to be sent to Camp Upton in his turn.
>
> This I did. Now I am told that neither of the two brothers can be released. If such be the case, it would result in unusually severe hardship for the old folks. Is there no remedy for the situation?
>
> I would not address you in the matter were I not encouraged by the Isaacson case. Isaacson, Serial No. 2,370, Order No. 721, was one of my alternates, who took the place of a temporally missing regular upon my promise to have him come back. When my missing regular appeared I sent him to camp with my son Barney, as leader, with an order to bring Isaacson back home.
>
> Now I find that I had no right to make such a promise nor to give such orders, but that, in spite of all, Colonel Booth, desiring to make good my promise, allowed the man a nine days' furlough.
>
> It must be added the boy Isaacson, who parted from me with a breaking heart and eyes full of despair and reproach, came back, his face radiant with happiness and with a heart full of joy, never tiring speaking about the glories of Camp Upton, the fraternal spirit of the boys of the various social and religious groups, and the absence of prejudice, of the comradely relation between officers and men, and, last but not least, of the quality and unchecked quantity of the food. Indeed, he said he would not hesitate to return at once to the glorious scenes of Camp Upton if his mother had not insisted that he stay with her a few days. Similar reports are heard from other boys of No. 93.
>
> I did not know what to admire most, the spirit of these boy soldiers of our army of liberation, or the grand character of such officers as Colonel Booth, Major Brooks, and, of course, yourself, the chief, who created such an enjoying atmosphere at Camp Upton.
>
> What a pity that the original order of Secretary Baker and your own plans were sidetracked by the interference of the well meaning but ill-advised Rabbi, and that the boys were not allowed their furloughs on the 17th and 18th insts. In every corner of the city the true condition of affairs at Camp Upton would have been by now well known, and some of the most heart-breaking scenes that took place here at the time of the departure of the second detachment would have been avoided. All the same, the news is spreading, and I hope that the work of yourself and your aides at the camp will be appreciated.
>
> Thanking you for any advice you may give me in the matter above referred to, and with greetings to my boys of "93" and to all the others, I am, respectfully yours,
>
> M. GIRSDANSKY, M. D.,
> Chairman Division No. 93.

Roger B. Wood, in charge of the draft in New York, when his attention was called to the troubles of Board 93 said that the matter was now entirely out of the jurisdiction of the local authorities. The decision in the cases is now up to General Bell. At the board headquarters it was said that General Bell's reply to Dr. Girsdansky's letter had not been received up to 6 o'clock last night.

Arrest Woman in Draft Case.

Two men and one woman were arrested yesterday by Department of Justice agents on the charge of having conspired to obstruct the administration of the selective conscription law. The prisoners are Lyman A. Irish of 622 West 137th Street, salesman for an automobile concern; Howard L. Coombs of 39 Post Avenue, the Bronx, and Mrs. Margaret L. Cooke of 456 West 147th Street.

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock the prisoners waived a hearing and were held for the Grand Jury. Irish and Mrs. Cooke were held in $1,000 bail each and Coombs in $500.

Irish is charged with having presented perjured affidavits to avoid cnoscription. The other prisoners are charged with having aided him in his plans. The arrest was the result of an anonymous letter received by Captain W. M. Offley, chief of the local bureau of the Department of Justice. The letter said:

> Why should my boy be put in the army when this man, who is better able to go, stays at home?
>
> THE MOTHER OF A CONSCRIPT.

In his application for exemption which Irish is charged with having made to Local Board 141 he alleged he was giving to his mother, Mrs. Anna T. Irish of Crown Point, N. Y., $600 for her support. An investigation made by an agent of Captain Offley's staff is said to have developed that this statement is not true. It is also alleged the mother's signature was forged.

Coombs is charged with having sworn in support of the claim of Irish that he knew, through "association with both Mrs. Irish and her son," the facts set forth were true. Irish was examined for military service at Board 141 headquarters, 138th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, Sept. 4. He immediately claimed exemption, which was granted.

Draft Board Doctor on Trial.

The trial of Dr. Henry Seligman, a volunteer examining physician for District Board 52, who was arrested a month ago charged with accepting a bribe to release a conscript from military service, was started yesterday before Judge Veeder and a jury in the United States District Court, Brooklyn. Testimony given by Dr. Phillip Brennan and Dr. Walter E. Hurley, the regular physicians of the board, showed that Dr. Seligman had examined and found unfit for service a man named Nathan Erlich, who, on re-examination, easily passed all physical tests.

MILITARY POLICE SEE FIRST DUTY

New York Patrolmen and Firemen Will Assist in Guarding Camp Upton.

Mayor's Committee Furnishes Transportation for Many Jews to Return for Holiday.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, YAPHANK, L. I., Sept. 24.—The first unit of the Seventy-seventh Division to go on active duty at Camp Upton is the military police, which eventually will take over all guard duty at the camp. All of the New York policemen and firemen from the first and second increments of recruits have been assigned to this force and are quartered in a special barracks. Should any of the recruits show a disposition to transgress the law they will meet with a reception which only a New York policeman can give.

"Once a cop, always a cop," is the motto of the New York policemen at the camp, and out of these men Major Harold A. Herrick, U. S. R., expects to form the most efficient military police force in the army. Already the firemen have been assigned to tours of duty inspecting the camp for possible fire hazards. The force will consist of two troops. Troop 1 is in charge of Captain Harvey Walker and Second Lieutenant Gerald C. Sola; Troop 2 is commanded by Captain James C. Fargo, Jr., and Second Lieutenant Herbert L. Bodman, while Major Herrick's staff consists of Captain Francis Bangs, Adjutant, and First Lieutenant Ernest B. Moody, supply officer.

While all New York City employes in the service were to be paid from the city treasury the difference between their army pay and their city salaries, the New York policemen now at the camp have not yet received their last ten days' pay, and are running short of money. A hint thrown out by the military policemen is that some of them are good musicians, but their barracks has no piano.

Tomorrow 2,500 Jewish soldiers will go to New York to attend Yom Kippur services on Wednesday and return to the camp that night. At noon tomorrow two special trains will leave Yaphank for New York to carry the men home for the holiday. General J. Franklin Bell obtained a reduction in the fare from $3.40 to $1.20. Some were unable to pay even the lowered fare, and the Mayor's Committee on National Defense in New York advanced the money to each soldier who needed it. In an address to the soldiers recently General Bell said that no prejudice or religious discrimination would be tolerated, and that the greatest care would be taken to safeguard ritual observances.

J. C. Hyman of the Jewish Board for Welfare Work in the United States Army and Navy arrived at the camp today to take charge of work among the Jewish soldiers in the Seventy-seventh Division. The board is affiliated with the Council of the Young Men's Hebrew Association and kindred organizations, and will undertake work in army cantonments similar to the Y. M. C. A. and the Knights of Columbus. According to Mr. Hyman, between 25 and 30 per cent. of the soldiers at Camp Upton are of the Jewish race, and his work will be among the Jews of the division. A building is projected where English and other classes will be held.

The first military band to be organized at the camp is from the 304th Field Artillery Regiment, in charge of Sergeant Dolfine, who will be bandmaster. As soon as the camp flagstaff at divisional headquarters on Tower Hill is completed, the band will play at "retreat" in the late afternoon.

The medical authorities of the camp have turned over to investigators from the Department of Justice several prescriptions found on patients in the Camp Hospital made out by certain New York physicians which are said to be violations of the Harrison drug law. Of the thirty-five men now under treatment for drug addiction, ten will be discharged as unfit for military service. The proportion of drug users among the 10,000 recruits at the camp is insignificant in comparison with the usual proportion among city residents.

HUGHES DECIDES TIE, WARD ESCAPES DRAFT

Vice President of Baking Company Wins Appeal, but Stock Exchange Member Is Taken.

Ralph Detmar Ward, Vice President of Ward Baking Company, and George Alexander Seligman, a broker, were among the men whose appeals for exemption from military service were decided by the New York City District Board yesterday afternoon. By a vote of 11 to 10 Mr. Ward obtained his discharge from the national army, while Mr. Seligman, who it was shown has a seat on the Stock Exchange and an income of $26,000 a year, was ordered certified for service.

The case of Mr. Ward was the occasion for the most protracted debate which has marked the proceedings of the district board since it began its public sessions nearly two months ago. He was passed as eligible for service by Board 126, in Manhattan. In appealing to the district board Mr. Ward made affidavit that as Superintendent, organizer, and supervisor of the Ward bakeries, he should be exempt on industrial grounds. He pointed out that the baking plant with which he is connected bakes more than 300,000,000 loaves of bread annually, employs thousands of people, and has an annual payroll of $3,500,000.

Lewis L. Delafield, Chairman of the sub-committee which investigated the case, recommended exemption on the ground that the industry was one of vital necessity to the nation. Ex-Chief Justice Edgar M. Cullen of the Court of Appeals opposed the granting of the claim on the ground that baking is a common occupation and that in his opinion it would be unwise to draw a distinction between the large concern and the small one.

"I think," said James Byrne, another member of the board, "that the national interest requires that we send into the army men of every class, the same as they do in France, England, and in Germany. If we exempt this man we will be entering on a course where we may be called upon to exempt all men of large interests. In all my experience I have not known of a bakery where the departure of a Vice President or even a President has ruined the business. In some cases I have known them to get along better. I shall oppose granting the claim."

The vote was a tie, and Charles E. Hughes, as Chairman of the board, cast the deciding vote. This was the first tie vote since the board was organized.

"I regret to be called upon to decide in a case where such interest has been shown and the members have so stoutly maintained their convictions," he said, "but I agree with the opinion of the committee and cast my vote in favor of exemption. The Selective Service act provides for industrial exemption on the ground of being necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of the national interest during the emergency. It is on the latter ground that I vote as I do."

Mr. Seligman, who was passed by Board 125, appealed from the decision of the local board, claiming exemption on the ground that he had a wife and two children partially dependent on him, and also because he had "keratitis of the eyes."

The local board had examined him and found him physically fit. The committee of which Magistrate Charles E. Simms is Chairman reported against exemption. It was shown that Mr. Seligman had a seat on the New York Stock Exchange and an income of $26,000 a year. is wife, whom he married on Jan. 19, 1910, had a separate income of $7,500 a year. In his claim for exemption the applicant wrote: "That, in view of my income and my social standing, it is essential that my wife and children be allowed to continue on my dependency in the manner in which they have been brought up since the time of my marriage."

The decision of the local board was affirmed and the exemption denied.

MITCHEL LOSES BROOKLYN VOTES

Present: Hon. Daniel F. Cohalan, Justice.

In the matter of the application of John Purroy Mitchel for an examination of the ballots cast in the City of New York at the Republican primary election of Sept. 19, 1917.

On reading and filing the petition of John Purroy Mitchel, verified the 22d day of September, 1917, and the order to show cause made thereon, dated the 22d day of September, 1917, and the affidavit of William M. Bennett, verified Sept. 24, 1917, and after hearing A. S. Gilbert of counsel for petitioner, and Hamilton McInnes of counsel for William M. Bennett, and George P. Nicholson, Assistant Corporation Counsel representing the Board of Elections, and there being no opposition, it is on motion of Gilbert & Gilbert, attorneys for petitioner, ordered

First—That both said John Purroy Mitchel and said William M. Bennett are entitled, and hereby are permitted and authorized to examine, in the manner hereinafter provided, all the Republican ballots upon which their names appear as candidates for the office of Mayor of the City of New York at the primary election held on Sept. 19, 1917, in the City of New York, including void, protested, blank, defective, and unused ballots, and spoiled ballots, if any, and the stubs of voted ballots.

Second—that such examination be made forthwith in the office of the Board of Elections of the City of New York in the Municipal Building, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, or at such other place as the Board of Elections and the parties hereto may agree, and the Board of Elections of the City of New York is hereby directed to produce and to have at such time and place all of the aforesaid Republican ballots and records hereinbefore mentioned.

Third—That John Purroy Mitchel and William M. Bennett be and they hereby are authorized to have three representatives present at all times at the examination of said ballots and records, together with one attorney to represent each of said candidates, and that no other persons excepting the candidat[illegible] Counsel, [illegible] Board of [illegible] York and [illegible] be permit[illegible]

Fourth—That no person other than one of the members of the Board of Elections of the City of New York or a representative of said board designated by it be permitted to touch or handle said ballots upon such examination, and that said ballot boxes be opened except in the presence of duly authorized representatives of said John Purroy Mitchel and William M. Bennett.

Fifth—That this order is granted upon condition that John Purroy Mitchel stipulate to pay the expenses of conveying such ballot boxes as may be examined to the office of the Board of Elections in the City of New York, and of returning the said ballot boxes to the stations or other place whence they came or to storage warehouses designated by said board.

Mr. Bennett set his case before the court in a statement in which he said in part:

"At the bottom of one of the night slips signed by the four Inspectors of Election, returned from the Twelfth Election District of the Fourteenth Assembly District, Borough of Manhattan, County of New York, (now filed in the office of the Board of Elections of the City of New York, in the Municipal Building,) there appears a notation in ink that two votes on Democratic ballots were counted by such Inspectors as Republican votes in the Republican primary. I have received from other election districts reports to the effect that Democrats in certain instances have written in the name of John Purroy Mitchel on Democratic ballots, which were counted by the Inspectors as votes in the Republican primary against me instead of being counted in the Democratic primary as votes against John F. Hylan, the candidate for Mayor in the Democratic primary.

Did Not Get a Vote.

"In the Second Assembly District, County of New York, the night slips, signed by the Inspectors of Election, on file as aforesaid, set forth that in thirteen election districts not a single vote is recorded as having been cast for me, and that in the Fourth Assembly District of the County of New York, in fourteen election districts not a single vote is recorded for me. But various persons have reported to me that they cast ballots for me in these districts.

"I believe that a correct statement of the result of said primary election will show that I was nominated, and therefore do not oppose, but, on the contrary, welcome the granting of relief under Section 88 of the election law."

The narrowing of the Mitchel majority set politicians speculating yesterday as to the probable effect upon the election in November. Should the Mayor's margin be reduced to only 200 or 300 majority, it was considered as almost a certainty that Mr. Bennett would run as an independent candidate. Even the Mitchel forces admitted that with four tickets in the field, Democratic, Fusion, Republican, and Socialist, the chances of a Tammany triumph would be enormously increased. At the same time, it was pointed out, even should Bennett win the Republican nomination, a four-ticket campaign would be unavoidable, as the Fusion Committee has made the pledge that it would run a complete ticket.

The result of the Brooklyn official count was given out by a clerk in the Brooklyn office of the Board of Elections, without the knowledge or consent of President Boyle. It has been the rule of the Board of Elections not to make the official count public until the count in all the boroughs has been completed. Jacob A. Livingston, who backed the Cropsey boom for Mayor, and who was opposed to Mayor Mitchel's nomination, is the Brooklyn Elections Commissioner. He declared that the result of the Brooklyn count was given out without his knowledge. The Brooklyn official count began on Saturday, while the Manhattan count was not started until yesterday morning.

Wants a Recount, Too.

Still another recount of the votes cast in one district at the primaries will probably be asked for. Mark H. Ellison, candidate for the nomination for Municipal Court Justice on the Republican ticket, announced that he would file an application for a recount in his district if the official count should show that he received less votes than Frederick Spiegelberg, one of the other contestants for the two nominations on the Republican ticket for that office. William Young, one of the Republican candidates, appears to have been nominated beyond doubt, but the race between Ellison and Spiegelberg was exceedingly close, according to unofficial figures. Ellison received 1,644 votes and Spiegelberg 1,725, a difference of only eighty-one votes. Mr. Ellison charged that fraud was committed.

The Irish-American League, of which Dr. Joseph P. Brennan is President, has unanimously adopted resolutions indorsing the Mitchel administration and pledging the support of the organization to the Fusion ticket. The resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the league held in Emmet Arcade, Madison Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, and a copy was sent to Mayor Mitchel, who replied as follows:

"It is most encouraging at the outset of a political fight, in which the opposition is already attacking only with abuse and misrepresentation, to receive this assurance from a body of men such as I know comprise the membership of the Irish-American League—men whose purpose I know to be patriotic, honorable, and unselfish. I appreciate heartily your offer of service and I accept it cordially."

The Mayor received congratulations on his nomination from Myron T. Herrick, former Republican Governor of Ohio and former Ambassador to France. The telegram read:

"Heartiest congratulations on your nomination. Shall follow your campaign with special interest, confident of your election. Regardless of politics, people of the country are behind you and believe that you will succeed because they believe in the future of our nation."
